From Two Pigs, How Many?
Flood, One Mile High.
Money Talks, In Person.
To Get His Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHEN SHERMAN was marching to the sea, somebody marching with him stole two pigs from the estate of Jefferson Davis. Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis, of our Army, has often told Lieut. John B. Sherman, grand-nephew of Gen. Sherman, that something ought to be done about the pigs. Yesterday Gen. Sherman's grand-nephew sent two pigs, nicely crated, to Capt. Jefferson Davis, and that matter is settled, almost, not quite.

Lieut. Sherman has yet to learn what "interest" means.

Capt. Davis says two pigs are not enough. He will have statisticians figure how many pigs the original two would amount to now after seventy years, and calculates off-hand that the descendants of Gen. Sherman will owe him 150,000,000 pigs at least.

EXCITING NEWS tells of a wall of water, four to six feet wide, rushing into the City of Denver, following a cloudburst.

The damage, thanks to instant precautions, was comparatively slight, although considerable sections of the city were flooded.

Denver doubtless will erect concrete walls that will hereafter efficiently control "Cherry Creek," so often a menace in pioneer days.

A flood in a city one mile above the level of the sea seems strange, but anything can happen anywhere.

TODAY "MONEY talks," even in prisons. The United States has summarily suspended a chaplain, the Rev. James A. Ording, and two guards, of Leavenworth prison, for making a gangster convict too comfortable. Mr. Terrence Druggan, the comfortable gangster, was first made a "trusty," then assigned to drive a truck.

He drove the truck around town on various social errands, including a visit to a "lady friend."

The puzzling question is, what could the prison chaplain have had to do with all this?

MAN, "DRESSED in a little brief authority," with money in his pocket, must be amused if you want to get the money out of his pocket into yours.

The German government proposes reopening gambling rooms that have been closed for some time, that Americans may come to spend their money in and near the gambling houses.

THE GOVERNOR of Porto Rico, Robert H. Gore, suggests that cock-fighting under government control, presumably with betting on the cock-fights to add to the excitement of watching one rooster drive a steel spur through the brain of another, would "help Porto Rico by attracting tourists."

Many states in this country are legalizing horse racing, which means more gambling, more young men made into thieves, and young women made into something worse, more "doping" of horses with various drugs.

Eventually our civilization may get back to dog-fighting, badger-drawing, and bull-baiting.

All these pleasures would attract crowds.

GOV. LEHMAN of New York urges removal of city slums and erection of "standard quality dwellings at low rentals."

He would have government finance the job under the National Recovery Act.

The work would carry out the President's plan of increasing employment and distributing money.

It is hoped, however, that it will not be done by selling more bonds and loading more interest payments and new taxes on the citizens.

Somebody in authority should have courage to use new money to pay the government's bill, thus putting money into circulation, instead of selling bonds paying interest and increasing taxes.

THIS SHOULD be repeated every day until somebody in power realizes that new greenbacks with the government's name on them, and BEARING NO INTEREST are as valuable as new government bonds with the government name on them, calling for gigantic interest payments.

The other day this government borrowed five hundred million dollars at three and one-half per cent. Before the bonds come due, in eight years, taxpayers will have to pay $132,000,000 interest on those bonds.

Payment could have been avoided by issuing United States money, just as good as any bond, money bearing no interest, in place of interest-bearing bonds.

SOME OF President Roosevelt's friends who deal in money and whose profits depend on making money hard to get will tell him that this is financial anarchy.

But men trying to sell goods, and farmers and others that want money in circulation will not tell him so.

WALL STREET took quietly the suggestion that rules should be made to protect the little "shoestring gambler" from himself, making him put up at least fifty per cent margin, and protect the bigger gambler in proportion by making him put up thirty per cent margin.

Stocks were reasonably strong, although the rule against drumming up trade by mail, by telephone, by personal solicitation may for awhile diminish the profits of brokers.

Bomb Discovered in Ventilating Shaft; Building Cleared

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Fumes from what officials decided was a cylinder of tear gas swept through the New York Stock Exchange, early this afternoon, compelling a suspension of trading and giving the financial district its most exciting incident since the bomb explosion outside the J. P. Morgan offices many years ago.

No one was hurt, but scores of workers in the big building at the corner of Broad and Wall streets suffered severely irritated eyes as they groped their way to the sidewalks.

The New York Police Department's bomb squad immediately began an investigation, but before it was completed the Stock Exchange, through Allen Lindley, its vice president, announced that its own inquiry had disclosed that "unknown persons had placed a cylinder of the gas at one of the intakes of the exchange ventilating system."

TEAR BOMB FOUND

When the fumes first began to seep on to the trading floor it was assumed that a leak in an ammonia pipe of the air-cooling apparatus had been responsible. Inquiry, however, disclosed the tear gas receptacle.

The fumes were first detected at 12:15 o'clock, just as floor traders on the exchange were anticipating a very quiet afternoon as a fitting supplement to an extremely dull morning.

Brokers and clerks rubbed their

Hallahan or Grimes To Face Bucs Today

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 4.—Bill Hallahan, fire-ball southpaw of the St. Louis Cardinals, blew into town today and this afternoon the ailing pitcher worked out with the idea of facing the Pirates in the fourth and final clash of the hot series between the two clubs. Manager Frank Frisch, however, had Burleigh Grimes primed to heckle the Bucs in case that Hallahan's bad hand bothered him.

HELEN WILLS MOODY .... A BACK INJURY KEEPS HER IDLE

NET QUEEN OUT OF CUP PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, captain of the United States Wightman Cup team, decided today not to play in the cup matches against Great Britain this afternoon, because of an injury to her back, and Sarah Palfrey was named to play singles in her place.

Mrs. Moody will act as non-playing captain for today's matches and hopes to be able to swing back into action tomorrow, the decision to be made after a further examination by her physician.

U. S. Blonde Beats Wales And Swaps Golfing Gifts

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., has earned the proud distinction of being the first woman of any nationality to beat the Prince of Wales at golf.

She will take back to America in a few days a box of golf balls given her by the Prince. Also, she will return home minus one of the clubs from her caddie bag. The club now is in the possession of the Prince, a gift from Miss Gottlieb.

A one handicap golfer, Miss Gottlieb, 28 and blonde, is a member of the Mount Vernon Country Club. She said:

"I was invited to play with the Prince and we had a round at Sunningdale. We finished all square.

"Afterwards we went to Coombe Hill. Archie Compston (British pro) joined our match, went the round in 65 and gave us both a terrible beating.

"The Prince surprised me at the excellence of some of his shots. He took an 83 for the round and I was lucky to take 80. I won by 5 and 4 on level terms.

"During that round the Prince saw an iron club with which I imagine I was playing rather well. I asked him if he would like to have it and I felt quite happy when he said he would take the club.

"The Prince gave me a box of golf balls of which I am very proud, and he signed my golfing score card, which I shall always treasure."

REOPENING OF BANKS SPEEDED

Comptroller Assigns Special Corps To District

Conservators of unlicensed national banks in Pittsburgh and its suburbs are pushing efforts to develop plans to permit the reopening or reorganization of their institutions.

Satisfactory progress is being made, a survey of the banks showed today.

Reopenings in Western Pennsylvania are being rushed as a result of special arrangements made by J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency.

SPECIAL DEPUTIES

A special deputation of his assistants was assigned to Pittsburgh for the task, and Sveinjorn Johnson, former State Supreme Court Justice and Attorney General for North Dakota, will spend August taking care of the legal details at Pittsburgh. They arrived last night and were working today, with offices in the Federal Reserve Bank Building.

H. E. Striebich, conservator of the First National Bank of Braddock, is in Washington today and is attempting to secure approval of a program for reopening.

Over 3,600 shares out of a total of 4,000 shares have been sold in the new First National Bank at Wilkinsburg, which plans to take over portions of the assets of the unlicensed First National Bank of Wilkinsburg, according to T. M. Allen, member of the reorganization committee. A meet-

2 WEEKS' CODE DEADLINE SET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Two week's leeway was decreed by Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, today before sanctioning pressure on business and industry to comply with President Roosevelt's blanket wage and employment agreement.

In conference with newspapermen, the administrator said a period of time was necessary for business houses to adjust their personnel to new wage and hour levels, and until this transitional period is ended "the public must be reasonable."

At the some time, Johnson warned that no "recalcitrant minority" would be permitted to hold up the recovery program.

Asked if there was a likelihood of the "teeth" of the Recovery Act being utilized if small groups did not go along on the program within their industries after a specific code has been adopted, Johnson said:

"It's not a likelihood, it's a dead certainty."

He said the important steel code upon which hearings were held last week was now going through a period of analysis of the enormous mass of data, and that it would be a week or 10 days before a proposed final code could be submitted to employers and spokesmen for labor.

Bandits Get $3,500 At Brooklyn Laundry

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Fifteen minutes before an armored truck was due to carry receipts to the bank, two men with sawed-off shotguns held up the cashier of the Gold Seal Laundry today and escaped with $3,500 in cash. Four hundred employes were at work in the plant at the time.

Can Business Exist Without Profit?

—By Bainbridge Colby—

THE PRESIDENT'S summons to the country to support the National Industrial Recovery Act is meeting with a wonderful response.

Employers in every field, without stopping to measure the effect upon their individual business or resources, are accepting regulations which they can but imperfectly comprehend and whose ultimate effects no one can foresee.

Like the famous political philosopher of fiction, Peter Dooley, discussing with his friend Hennessey the initiative and referendum, and remarking that he had "often voted for something he didn't understand but never before for something he couldn't pronounce,"—industrial and commercial America is taking NIRA on faith and hoping for the best.

How fundamental and far-reaching are the changes now in progress was startlingly revealed in the radio address on Monday evening by Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the National Recovery Administration.

"The long-discussed REVOLUTION," said he, is actually under way in the United States.

"It is here. It is in process. Revolution by the sword and bayonet is nothing new. Revolution by the pen and voice is different. The violent overthrow of parliament and rulers is nothing new, but the peaceful transition of all departments of a government from one FUNDAMENTAL CONCEPT of a political economic system to another is different."

THIS WILL be a little upsetting to many millions of our people who are somewhat attached to the historical and traditional concepts of American life and American institutions.

They do not exactly relish the role of revolutionaries.

They somehow do not exactly understand people who bid them lightly toss away "concepts" which they have been taught to regard as fundamental. It gives them a shiver to be suddenly informed that they are engaged in a great American revolution. They are inclined to dismiss such talk as tall talk but empty.

Readjustments in our business system?—yes, and as often as required.

Correction of dislocations?—again yes, and wherever necessary.

The amelioration of working conditions, the redress of labor injustice?—by all means, and without delay.

And after the experience of the four years we have passed through, the public mind is well prepared for adjustments that are thorough and far-reaching.

BUT REVOLUTION? Change in fundamental concepts? Inauguration of a complete new economic system?

We think Uncle Sam will run his fingers through his stringy whiskers thoughtfully, and fix a good long look of shrewd appraisal upon the very suggestion of such things.

Now, as to the Recovery Administration's program—is not something which is very essential to the success of the program being completely overlooked? We refer to—profits!

It is excellent and necessary to create jobs for the unemployed. The reduction of working hours and the raising of wages find place naturally in a program of recovery. Wages must keep pace, if not outstrip, the advance in living costs which is the result of easier credit and expanding currency.

But the EMPLOYER, too, is a factor in business not to be wholly forgotten.

THE DRIVING force of business is profits. Profits are the source of prosperity. Without profits there can be no revival of capital's function in the restoration and increase of trade and manufactures.

There can be no ending of the government's abnormal role of supplying the capital necessary

FRICK CO. ACCEPTS TERMS

Other Operators Meet As Johnson Reports To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The H. C. Frick Coke Company, a United States Steel Corporation subsidiary, agreed today to terms for settlement of the Pennsylvania bituminous strike, which started at its Fayette County mines.

With it in line, the Recovery Administration today set to work to align other Pennsylvania producers whose mines have been affected.

Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, was giving main attention to the task—making it a point to report directly to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., and seek fresh counsel.

LONG CONFERENCE

Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, and operators and spokesmen for the union miners participated in lengthy conferences with Johnson last night and this morning.

Terms of the agreement remained to be disclosed pending further moves to make it rock-ribbed for effectiveness.

STEEL AT END OF NRA AID

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Robert P. Lamont, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, today addressed a communication to the administrators of the National Industrial Recovery Act in which he announced that the steel industry could go no further in the matter of maximum hours of labor and minimum rates of pay. He said:

"We call attention to the fact that in accomplishing the great purpose of the National Recovery Act, the members of the code have already gone beyond anything that can be justified by present conditions. They can justify themselves to their stockholders only by the realization of the hopes aroused by the efforts of the national administration. They cannot go further."

Banker, Waitress Get License to Wed

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The sandwich-shop romance of Robert F. Welsh, banker, and Miss Frances Sewzuk, pretty blonde waitress in the shop in which he lunched, neared a climax yesterday as the couple obtained a license to wed.

Welsh, head of the banking firm of Welsh Brothers, met Miss Sewzuk six years ago, and she waited at his table daily after that.

OTHER OPERATORS CALLED INTO CONFERENCE TO END MINE STRIFE

Gov. Pinchot, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America; Phillip Murray, vice president of the same organization and H. R. Warrum, counsel for the mine workers, also were there.

MINERS SATISFIED

It appeared certain from the trend of things at the Recovery Administration, that the terms accepted by the Frick concern were acceptable to the United Mine Workers, but neither source would disclose the arrangement.

Federal wishes to end the strike quickly were attested by the severity of pressure brought, there being various reports of the means used.

The strike was described by a high authority as a potential menace to the entire recovery program.

The possibility of a general shutdown in the bituminous fields creating bad psychology throughout the country and perhaps causing a shortage of industrial coal, was one of the principal factors which motivated the entrance of the government into the situation, and determined President Roosevelt upon a decisive course.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and chairman of the administration's advisory board, was taking a primary part in the effort to swing the Pittsburgh Coal Company and other operators into line on the closely garded agreement.

PINCHOT CALLED IN

After the operators had conferred for nearly half an hour with Johnson and Teagle, Gov. Pinchot and Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor advisory board, who has been active in the maneuvers, were called in.

Should a final agreement be reached by all it wa sto be submitted to President Roosevelt before an announcement of its terms.

A few minutes after Pinchot went into the conference John L Lewis, the president of the miners' union, and his colleagues were summoned, indicating the negotions were nearing a climax.

ARBITRATION DECIDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—An arbitration committee will be named at once by the National Recovery Administration to pacify the soft-coal fields, preventing a renewal of bloody strife between miners and Pennsylvania operators, if the temporary compromise agreement is placed in effect.

This fact was disclosed today by NRA officials.

The agreement would be in the nature of a "stand-still arrangement" which would pacify the soft coal fields until a code can be adopted. The code is now awaiting a hearing on August 9. Meanwhile the tentative agreement now under consideration would apply to all companies willing to accept it. The miners representatives, headed by John L. Lewis, have asked two major concessions, namely grievance committees, of their own selection, to take up any disputes that might arise; also the question of unionization of mines would be waived temporarily pending adoption of a coal code.

Strike in Coke Region Spreads to Westmoreland

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—The Connellsville coke region enjoyed another peaceful day of picketing while operators and miners awaited developments at Washington.

The strike spread to three more mines, all owned by the H. C. Frick Coke Company. Kyle and Trotter mines were shut down. Standard mine, at Mt. Pleasant, just over the Westmoreland County line, continued operations with a crippled force.

The pickets, self-disciplined in accordance with the Pinchot agreement, were orderly under the watchful eyes of National Guardsmen and state police. Standard mine, where nearly 500 strikers joined the picketers, had no National Guard troops. Four state policemen were on duty.

Judge M. A. Musmanno, of Allegheny County, was an observer of the picket demonstration at the Standard mine, trailing along behind the marchers, who paraded with flags and a drum. Many of the pickets carried clubs. As they passed the troopers, they were ordered to drop the cudgels, which were placed in a pile and later removed by the police.

Guardsmen and state police were on hand at both Kyle and Trotter, as well as Continental No. 1, which closed yesterday. The Berkowitz shirt factory also closed yesterday when 450 girls walked out in sympathy with the miners, remained shut down.

'Rump' Strike Spreads To North of County

The Western Pennsylvania coal strike "fever" spread in the northern end of Allegheny County today.

P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, estimated the number of men on strike throughout Western Pennsylvania at 60,000, affecting approximately 150 mines.

Fagan described the walkouts as "strike fever" resulting from unfavorable working conditions and coercion of union miners. He reiterated that the union had not issued a strike call.

About 300 strikers picketed the Harwick Coal and Coke Company mine, a Philadelphia Company subsidiary, this morning. The miners, numbering about 400 men, went to work. The pickets marched under the eyes of a dozen mounted state police, attempting to persuade the workmen not to enter the workings.

Nearly 1,200 miners joined the strike in the Curtisville mine of the Ford Colleries and Mine No. 2 of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, near Bessemer, Fagan said.

Conditions in the southern end of the county, where the larger mines are closed, remained unchanged.

Moses 'Defi' to NRA 'Impounded' by Czar

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson today refused to make public the letter he received last night from Thomas Moses, representing the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

He declared the letter had been "impounded."

It was understood, however, to have contained an ultimatum from the Frick company, United States Steel subsidiary, objecting to recognition of the miners' union. It also was reported the letter contained a refusal of United States Steel to deal with NRA if that also involved dealing with the mine union.

If such it was, the ultimatum was short-lived for this afternoon the Frick company consented to the terms for a settlement of the Western Pennsylvania coal strike.

It was learned definitely, however, that the entire influence of the Roosevelt administration, including the "mailed fist" of Johnson's NRA, was placed behind the efforts to whip the Steel Corporation, its subsidaries and its powerful financial interests into line.

Sessions held last night and early today behind closed doors were declared to have been stormy. The final "break" came, it was understood, when President Roosevelt himself met the challenge of United States Steel with a counter-ultimatum bristling with all the power of the government itself and containing a thinly-veiled threat to "fight it out" on that line "if it took all summer."

Gen. Johnson's silence was counteracted by the extreme fatigue he exhibited today, mute evidence of the stress under which he had been laboring.

The Moses letter today had lost some of its significance. It was decided by miners' officials that the negotiations had proceeded far beyond where it had an important bearing on the situation. The conference between the NRA and operators and miners embraces the entire bituminous industry and it is this paramount question which will be decided.

Philip Murray, of Pittsburgh, vice president of the United Mine Workers, said:

"This is the initial skirmish and our people will remain right here until the coal code is settled. The outcome of today's conference is of the utmost importance and we look for affirmative action."

Roosevelt Takes Hand In Coal Strike

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt went directly into the Pennsylvania coal strike situation today, receiving a report from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, and talking things over with him.

Mr. Roosevelt designated Johnson and Miss Frances Perkins, the Secretary of Labor, to make a special study of the coal strike.

A report from Johnson was received here today. While there is considerable doubt about just what th federal government can do in the way of bringing peace in the coal fields, there is no doubt that the President wants this done just as quickly as possible.

There is a feeling here that the President is ready to act. Most certainly, he is determined to smash any interference with his National Recovery program and he is relying on the judgment of Johnson to find the facts in the troublesome Pennsylvania coal situation.

The controversy has been on company unions. Miners at the Frick company plants in Western Pennsylvania went on strike, with charges that the company had made every effort to keep them from joining the national union.

The union has said it represented 100 per cent of the Western Pennsylvania miners, and that it was their representative in the collective bargaining called for by the Industrial Recovery Act.

The Frick company for years has fought any inroads by the United Mine Workers, and the company was understood to have continued that attitude when Johnson first called the conference.

No Number Today, Mourn Players As Mart Closes

"No number today," was the common salute between number players today.

It was the noon hour topic of barber shops, poolrooms and similar places where playing of numbers forms the important part of the day's conversations. The sudden closing of the New York Stock Exchange found the numbers writers still accepting figures half an hour later.

That 'Fixless' Tag Game -:- By QUIN HALL

Who, What and Why of Coal Strike

Salient facts in the bituminous coal strike that has tied up a major portion of the production in Pennsylvania today were these:

The Cause—According to labor leaders, the miners' long-accumulated grievances against wage and living conditions, coupled with the operators' measures against unionization of the miners; according to the operators, activities of agitators and interference from persons outside the ranks of their employes. Some observers saw but one underlying cause—suspicion.

The Effect—Closing of many mines in eight counties, either through strike activities or by decision of the operators in the face of threatened disorder. Officials of the United Mine Workers of America estimated that nearly 60,000 men were on strike, affecting 150 mines.

The Code—A code to govern the industry is to be formulated, with hearings August 9, in Washington. Coal operators and labor leaders, some observers said, are jealously striving for an advantage, or at least are fearful that the other will gain an advantage through the operation of that code.

The Union—Officials of the United Mine Workers insist the union is not sponsoring the strike. In addressing miners' meetings, they have urged the men to return to work until the industrial code is framed.

The strike has spread despite these union appeals and despite the claims of some operators that their men would go back to work if outside interference was curbed.

The unrest has developed into one of the most unusual walkouts in the history of the greatest coal-producing area in the world, if these claims and counter-claims are to be believed. Without organization, the coal diggers have tied up the field through a spontaneous upheaval.

P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, insists it is a spontaneous action solely on the part of the miners. He said there is some, but not a great deal, activity on the part of radicals. These, he said, were only "hanging around the fringes, trying to get a hand in." Giving his version of the cause of the strike Fagan said:

"It began with company abuses and coercion of union men. We began an organization campaign in the district the first of the year. The men objected to the coercion, and finally it led to intimidation of the miners and brutality."

The Beginning—The strike began two weeks ago, aimed at operations of the H. C. Frick Coke Company in Fayette County. Union officials claimed miners met at Maxwell two weeks ago and were scattered by deputy sheriffs hired by the company. Fagan said tear gas was used.

Then, according to Fagan, the "strike fever" seized the miners, and it swept on until even mines operating under union agreements were affected. Strikes are union-operated mines were described as "sympathy" walkouts.

Bloodshed—Violence brought National Guardsmen into Fayette County. Blood was shed in clashes between pickets and deputy sheriffs assigned to guard mine properties. One man was killed. A score were injured.

Mediation—Efforts of Gov. Pinchot to mediate between the union and the Frick company brought favorable response from the union, but the Frick company refused. The company asserted their men would return to work if adequate protection was given against pickets and strike agitators.

The Government—President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson have followed developments in the strike. Johnson has said the federal government will have no power to act until the code for the industry has been put into effect.

With hearings on the code scheduled to begin next Wednesday, the administration will have to deal with one of the most bitter controversies in the history of American industry. Administrator Johnson, speaking of the national recovery program, has said:

"God help the man or group of men who stand against this drive."

DEPUTY BEATEN IN MILK STRIKE

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A deputy sheriff, Floyd Newkirk, was clubbed so badly that his skull was fractured by a state trooper in a clash between law officers and milk strikers at Fonda, Montgomery County seat, this morning. The trooper mistook Newkirk, according to an explanation, for one of the 200 strikers who sought to prevent deliveries to a dairymen's league plant there.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—The first fatality in the New York state milk strike came today when Henry Bortle, 50, Oneida farmer, succumbed to a heart attack while trying to beat off 60 striking milk farmers who had stopped the truck on which he was riding. They were trying to dump his milk near Peterboro.

GIRL DROWNED WHILE CHUM LOOKS ON

Bather Dies as She Abandons 'Floater' In Deep Channel

Sixteen-year-old Harriet Rychorcewicz, 2007 Penn avenue, was drowned while bathing in the Allegheny River, near the south end of Sixteenth Street Bridge late yesterday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hypolit Rychorcewicz, she was the second oldest in a family of 10. Rychorcewicz is employed at the Aspinwall filtration plant.

DANGEROUS POINT

Harriet, according to her chum, Helen Misencik, 15, of 2008 Spring way, decided to swim in the river at the Sixteenth street beach for the first time yesterday. The river at that point, houseboat occupants say, is dangerous for an unskilled swimmer, because it shelves off rapidly into a deep channel.

Since Harriet could swim but little, she used an inner tube to keep afloat, Helen said. Helen herself refused to enter the water and stayed on shore, watching. Harriet swam and soon called:

"Look, I can swim without my inner tube!"

The next time Helen looked in the water for Harriet's bobbing head it was gone. She screamed for help. Keith Norton, 29, who lives in a houseboat nearby, plunged into the water and swam about.

But Harriet was gone. River Patrolman Charles Snyder and his assistants recovered the body several hours later.

ing to consider the program will be held on Thursday.

CRAFTON PLAN

J. W. Giffen, conservator of the First National Bank of Crafton, has submitted a plan to the comptroller of the currency at Washington, it was said at the bank today.

Attempts are being made to complete a plan for the Keystone National Bank. A. S. Beymer, conservator, said:

"I am trying to work out a plan, but it is not yet sufficiently definite to permit me to discuss it."

O'Connor recently said that out of 1,429 unlicensed national banks, 364 had not submitted plans for reorganization and 53 of the latter are in Western Pennsylvania.

He urged that depositors insist upon plans being submitted for reorganization or reopening by those in charge. He said that in the event of a refusal on the part of a conservator to submit plans, he would be removed.

Carnegie Bank Opening Releases $500,000

The Union National Bank, of Carnegie, closed during the federal bank holiday, opened today with a throng of customers, the first of whom deposited $1,000, according to F. C. Hopper, cashier.

No restrictions were imposed on withdrawals. The opening releases $500,000 in deposits.

The closed Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company will pay a dividend of 10 per cent amounting to $255,922 to 7,554 depositors August 28, the State Banking Department announced today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia.

Three previous payments totaled 35 per cent.

PATTERSON'S BROTHER RUNS

John W. Patterson, brother of Judge Frank P. Patterson, today announced as a candidate for a Republican nomination to City Council.

Mr. Patterson, a contractor, lives at 5530 Darlington road, Fourteenth Ward.

Praising the majority of the police department as men eager to do their duty, Patterson declared the hands of racketeers must be kept off the police, with concessionaires eliminated entirely.

Past wasteful methods demand reorganization of municipal financial systems, he said, and Council should act as a check on executive departments.

He pledged himself to economy in the operation of the Public Works Department and helpfulness in the Department of Welfare. His candidacy, he said, is independent of any political affiliation.

eyes, but continued at their posts, thinking that the trouble was of minor consequence and would soon disappear. However, the gas quickly came in large billows and the hundreds of men and boys began to make for the exists.

Physicians from nearby hospitals gave first aid treatment for smarting eyes, but could find no serious injuries and occupants of the building went to their homes.

TRADING SUSPENDED

Officials of the exchange immediately decided to suspend business for the balance of the day. Tomorrow had already been decreed an exchange holiday.

Occupants of several upper floors of the big Stock Exchange structure also were forced to leave their offices.

Meanwhile, the strolling noonhour crowd that normally congests the financial district had been drawn to the scene by the confusion and police reserves were called to maintain order.

The fumes were so dense that persons a block away from the building could feel them, and there was no inclination to draw too near. It was about an hour before the exchange structure itself had been fairly well cleared of the gas.

The exchange ruled that market prices at the time of the forced suspension would be considered the day's closing quotations. It also was decided not to list "bid and asked" prices which are gathered from specialists at the close of each session.

Menjou's Wife Ill, Divorce Postponed

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Kathryn Carver's scheduled divorce from her debonair screen star husband, Adolphe Menjou, failed to materialize today for the second time.

The blonde actress was to appear before Judge J. T. B. Warne to ask for legal separation, but her attorney, Ralph Blum, arrived without her and asked Judge Warne to continue the hearing because, he said Miss Carver is ill.

Can Business Exist Without Profit?

—By Bainbridge Colby—

for American industry to live unless eventually, and soon, capital can again be supplied from private sources.

Today business is confronted by advancing material costs, advancing wage scales, rising production costs and increased taxation.

No thought is given to profits. No heed is taken of the investor and his essential role in business recovery.

IS IT not time that the National Recovery Administration should do something to equalize or counterbalance the limitations it is putting upon individual business initiative by lightening the increasing burden under which it is now staggering?

Nothing would help business more and do so much to put our new "concepts" upon an even keel as TO ABOLISH THE INFAMOUS INCOME TAX.

Hardly second to this in its immediately beneficial effect would be THE ADOPTION OF A MANUFACTURERS' SALES TAX in place of the discriminatory nuisance taxes which today are throttling business enterprises throughout the country.

Let the administration, in its search for new stimulations to prosperity and new reservoirs from which it can draw strength for its recovery program, take up immediately and study the possibilities of constructive reforms in the field of taxation, beginning with the ENTIRE ABOLITION OF THE INCOME TAX WHICH HANGS LIKE A MILLSTONE AROUND THE NECK OF BUSINESS AND PENALIZES EVERY ENERGY UPON WHICH TRUE AND BROAD RECOVERY DEPENDS.

COSTELLO WIDOW BALKS PROSECUTOR IN MURDER TRIAL

NET SPREAD FOR O'CONNELL'S KIDNAPERS

Secrecy Shrouds Police Activity; Arrests Reported Near

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A mantle of secrecy was thrown over the O'Connell abduction case investigation today coincident with the circulation of rumors that a net had been spread for the entire kidnap gang and that arrests were imminent.

Under this cloak of secrecy the authorities moved in mysterious fashion. District Attorney John T. Delaney, away on a mission the nature of which he refused to disclose, called off a scheduled press conference. Capt. Richard Oliver, in charge of New York City detectives assisting in the investigation, also slipped away.

Manny Strewl, the ex-convict "go-between," who paid over $40,000 to the kidnapers for the release of 24-year-old John J. O'Connell, Jr., was still being "detained" by the authorities.

His whereabouts and what he was doing was just one more secret of the police.

GUARDS PATROL CAMP

Armed guards continued to patrol the Helderberg mountain camp of Daniel P. O'Connell, powerful Democratic boss and uncle of the kidnap victim. There young O'Connell was in seclusion, recuperating from his 23-day captivity and from time to time giving new information to the police.

Reports were current the authorities know the names of all members of the kidnap ring with the exception of one.

Presence of the armed guards at the O'Connell camp lent credence to reports the kidnapers have threatened young O'Connell because he has been giving "leads" to the police. It is also believed the kidnapers were angered because they now know that the $40,000 ransom money was marked and the serial numbers on the bills recorded.

Mayo Brothers' Grandkin Guarded from Kidnapers

ROCHESTER, Minn., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Guards told by one of the distinguished Mayo brothers to "shoot first and make explanations afterward" patrolled the family estate last night after what he said was an attempt to kidnap one or more of his grandchildren.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo gave the order after a nursemaid said a man tried to force entrance into the nursery in which slept the three children of his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo. The children range in age from 2½ to 6 years.

The nurse, Miss Mar' Langseth, said she was awakened early Tuesday by the sound of an automobile approaching the young Dr. Mayo's home at Mayowood, the estate three miles from here.

Then, she said, a man walked almost noiselessly to the rear of the home and tiptoed up a rear stairway to the second floor. He turned the knob of the nursery door, which was locked.

She shouted:

"Who's there?"

Then the man ran to the automobile, which sped away, she said.

Hideout of Oil Man's Abductors Discovered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Discovery of a fortified hideout used by the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire oil operator, was announced today by Sheriff W. W. Jennings, of Cleveland County.

The hideaway, a three-room shanty amply fitted with gun loopholes in the walls, was located in a sparsely settled area near Norman and the McClain County line.

Sheriff Jennings said the kidnapers presumably had occupied the shack immediately before Urschel was abducted July 22.

BALBO CHANGES RETURN ROUTE

ROME, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the Italian air armada, which has waited at Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland, nine days for favorable weather to continue its homeward journey, has abandoned plans to return to Italy by way of Valentia, Ireland, it was learned today.

Persistent bad weather along the proposed northern route was responsible for the decision, it was said. Balbo will take his squadron of 24 seaplanes back to Italy by way of the Azores, abandoning a nonstop flight.

The General has ordered his supply ships to prepare to receive the armada along the southern route. The time required for the change is expected to hold the armada at Shoal Harbar until August 10.

From the Azores landing, it was stated, Balbo will lead his seaplanes to Marseilles by way of Portugal or Spain, possibly making the Azores-Marseilles hop without a stop if weather permits.

Mollisons Flying To Bridgeport Fete

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Capt. James Mollison and his wife, Amy Johnson, will fly today to Bridgeport, Conn., near where they crashed on their Wales-to-New York flight. The British pair will dedicate a Bridgeport flying field to be named Mollison Airport.

Eddie Rickenbacker and Alfred J. Williams were among the fliers to accompany the Mollisons to Bridgeport. Frank Hawks, air speedster, will make a non-stop dash from Edmonton, Alta., to the Connecticut city.

Lindys Make Final Greenland Survey

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made a 600-mile round trip reconnoitering flight yesterday between Holsteinborg, Greenland, and the East Central part of Baffin Land, Pan-American Airways was notified.

Officials of the air line, for which Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser, said this flight presumably completed the couple's tour of that section of the North Atlantic, which they are studying to determine the practicability of an oceanic air route.

Storms Balk French In Distance Flight

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—After making all preparations to take off at dawn on a trans-Atlantic flight to Turkey to break the world's long-distance record, the French fliers, Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, today announced a postponement. Unsettled weather between New York and Newfoundland caused the delay.

Weather Conditions.

The center of the low pressure that caused the rainfall over this section yesterday and last night is now well out over the Atlantic and the northwestern high is centered over the Upper Mississippi Valley. The high pressure caused a marked drop in temperature over the Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast since yesterday's temperature yesterday afternoon throughout the interior of the country. High maximum temperature yesterday were limited to the southern states and a narrow belt up along the Atlantic coast to Washington, D. C. Low pressure occupies the Rocky Mountain section and the tropical storm appears to be near the Texas coast. However, there have been no severe storms as yet along the Texas coast.

CLARK IN RACE FOR COUNCIL

James M. Clark, who for seven years was Public Safety Director, is back in politics today as a candidate for Council.

Clark took out papers today for a Republican nomination, but he described himself as an independent. And he's not going to have any dealings with Mayor Herron, who fired him a few months ago. He said:

"I'll stand on my past record. I will be 100 per cent independent, free from all cliques or factions and running my own campaign.

"When I was Public Safety Director, the Police Department reached its greatest scientific peak with the teletype system and police radio.

"And the fire losses were a million dollars lower and the insurance rates reduced."

TEMPLE O. K.'S AIMEE ON STAGE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Decision of Aime Semple-McPherson-Hutton, blonde evangelist, to make a tour of vaudeville houses, spreading the gospel after the regular vaudeville shows, today had the approval of the board of elders of Angelus Temple.

Meanwhile her husband, David Hutton, Jr., who sued her here for divorce, also played to a capacity house at a theater where he is presenting an theatrical act.

COUNTESS HELD IN PRISONING OF SON

Boy Sought Months Found Nude in Dark Room

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Countess Beatrice de Cavara was under bond today to appear for trial after a shuttered old graystone house, one of the proud mansions of the nineties, just off Central Park, was entered by police, who found a bruised and naked 10-year-old boy in one of the bare, dark rooms.

The house was entered after an investigation by agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which began months ago, when the boy was reported absent from school.

Neighbors told the agents they thought the family had moved away. All the windows were shuttered. Others said they thought some one was still living there and the agents returned again and again in their quest.

They applied for court permission to enter the house and went tiptoe through the eerie rooms. They found the boy, Charles de Cavara, in an unventilated room on the second floor. His hair had grown to shaggy length and his legs were covered with bruises, they said.

On the floor above they found his mother and her mother, Mrs. Grace McClellan. They arrested the countess, but she refused to talk, telling them they would have to see her lawyer. The countess will be tried on charges of cruelty and negligence, September 15.

2 STEAMBOAT GIRLS FOUND

The trek of Jane Webster, 17, of the steamboat Prosperity, moored in the Allegheny River at the foot of Sixth street, and her guest, Florence Mugrage, 14, of Marietta, O., to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, had ended today in North Side Police Station.

The girls, arrested early today in an Anderson street rooming house, were held in North Side Police Station as runaways. They were to be arraigned in Morals Court. They disappeared from the steamboat Wednesday night.

The Missing Persons Bureau also has been asked to search for Delcie Kincaid, 16, of 605 Lockhart street, who disappeared from her home yesterday. She is believed to be en route to Georgia.

FLAMES SWEEP GREEK CITY

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—The ill-fated city of Corinth, ruined by an earthquake in 1929, was threatened with destruction again today when a raging fire broke out at 2 a. m.

More than 400 houses and shops in the market center were destroyed before the fire finally was under control. For a time it had appeared the entire city would be reduced to ashes.

With a strong wind rapidly spreading the flames, the population in panic, sought refuge on the seashore while their homes burned. Early estimates said damage exceeded $1,000,000.

TAMMANY FOES PICK LA GUARDIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Fiorello H. La Guardia was chosen today as mayoralty candidate by forces seeking to drive Tammany from City Hall this fall.

A "peace" meeting of fusionists, comprising Republicans and other foes of the dominant Democracy, picked the former Congressman toward the end of a meeting that lasted into the early hours of this morning.

The choice of La Guardia, a non-organization Republican, was a victory for Samuel Seabury, independent Democrat, whose investigation resulted in the resignation of James J. Walker, Tammany Mayor.

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, candidate of former Gov. Charles S. Whitman and others, withdrew in the interest of harmony. The vote for La Guardia was 9 to 2 and there were indications more peace work would be necessary before complete harmony is attained.

Mayor John P. O'Brien, who succeeded the resigned Walker, is generally regarded as likely to be nominated again by Tammany.

GANDHI'S BRIEF FREEDOM ENDS

POONA, India, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—After a brief moment of liberty, the Mahatma Gandhi was re-arrested today and was immediately sentenced to one year in jail because he declined to remain in Poona and refused to cease his political activities.

The magistrate explained that because of the Mahatma's age and physical condition, the sentence was only one year of simple imprisonment. Gandhi asked to be placed among the lowest grade prisoners.

The Nationalist leader informed the court that it was no pleasure to him to break the laws of the state. He was offering all the resistance a peaceful man could, he said, to an unjust system of government.

British Airmen Raze Indian Town

SIMLA, India, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The village of Kotkai on the northwestern frontier was reported in ruins today as a result of two bombardments by British air force pilots, who are trying to compel Bajauri tribesmen to relinquish three agitators.

Practically all buildings were said to have been levelled in the hamlet of 100 inhabitants.

Dogs' Kidnapers Fail to Keep Appointment

MARYSVILLE, Kan., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Tony, an 8-year-old fox terrier, is a victim of kidnapers, and has been threatened with death unless his owner, Mrs. Minnie Smith, pays a ransom of $100 for his return.

Tony was seized Saturday night, the kidnapers leaving a note with instructions to meet an intermediary. Mrs. Smith, accompanied by a friend and police officers, complied with the note, but failed to find either the intermediary or Tony at the designated place.

ADMITS GIVING MATE DRINK ON DAY OF DEATH

Refuses to Answer Many Questions Under Grilling

International News Service.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 4.—Flaring back at District Attorney Hugh A. Cregg as he tried unsuccessfully to break down her story that she was innocent of the poison death of her husband, Mrs. Jessie B. Costello today under cross-examination recalled bringing William J. Costello a drink of ginger ale the February morning he died. But she could not remember where she left the glass.

The "smiling widow" refused pointblank to give the names of friends of the fire captain better informed about his ailments than Edward J. McMahon, so-called "kiss and tell" ex-policeman of Peabody.

FAMILY SPLIT

Under a sharp grilling by Cregg, Jessie finally admitted she had not been on speaking terms with her father, Andrew Fyfe, formerly of Yonkers, N. Y.

Again Jessie denied McMahon was the "most familiar man" in her life outside her husband.

Jessie's reply of "I wouldn't say" was used extensively, especially when the prosecution asked her whether she thought it "a good thing or not" that her husband was taken by death.

Cregg wanted to know if the widow knew any reason why she was not the beneficiary of insurance policies and of the Firemen's Relief Benefit. She said she did.

She refused to disclose the reason why she was not named beneficiary.

Baby Seen as Bar To Murder Theory

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

COURTHOUSE, SALEM, Mass., Aug. 4.—What did she do with little Bobby, the sturdy little blond son of Bill Costello, if and when she went upstairs to give her husband the Borgia poison of which we have heard so much?

That's what it came down to today in the Costello case, as with incredible difficulty District Attorney Gregg hammered against the now cool and calculating Jessie Costello.

That's what I want to know. That's the question I want to ask Jessie Costello.

QUESTION OF GUILT

That's the question now on which to my mind the woman's whole guilt or innocence hangs. Maybe it isn't a legal question.

When the D. A., bull-like, aghast before Jessie's flagrant defiance, got through with his long series of questions which took us step by step through the morning of Bill Costello's death, we knew this—knew it absolutely—

If Jessie Costello poisoned her husband, she did it in one of three moments during that early morning. And either she took her youngest child, her Buddy, on her arm and carried him upstairs to see her do it, or she left him downstairs alone, or she left all three of her children at their peaceful breakfast, climbed those stairs still within sound of their childish voices, and killed their father.

PROSECUTOR'S STAND

That's what District Attorney Gregg has set up for us to believe.

I don't believe it.

They can talk all they want to about Jessie's knowledge of poison, painting her as a new poison murderess unequalled in history. But when they ask me to believe that any mother, who has carried that little boy with his bright blue eyes and his fair hair, under her heart, has gone down into the agony that only women know, to bring him into the world, has been a good mother to him, and that then with that child within a few feet of her has slain the man who fathered him—I don't believe it.

What Governors Really Said About Drinks

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Gov. I. C. Blackwood, of South Carolina, leaving for home last night, was asked whether it was the Governor of North Carolina or South Carolina who remarked to the other with emotion:

"It's a long time between drinks."

Blackwood said:

"I think it was the Governor of South Carolina who started the trouble. He said to the Governor of North Carolina: 'Remember the fate of Montgomery.'

"The Governor of North Carolina inquired: 'Who on earth was Montgomery?'

Youngsters End Battle 'Twixt Snake, Spider

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The quiet dignity of this college town has been violently upset twice within 48 hours by the unseemly conduct of a snake, a spider, and two rowdy boys.

The snake and the spider started the excitement in the basement of the Eastern Produce Company by opening a life and death struggle.

By the time the town got warmed up to the spectacle, three small boys came along and stopped the battle without asking anybody's permission.

The snake-spider battle started about two days ago, and was discovered yesterday after the spider had enmeshed the snake in a huge web and lifted the creature six inches from the floor of the produce company basement.

At noon today, the boys came to the produce store to witness the battle. A few minutes later they left hurriedly.

When the observers went down to see how the spectacle was coming on, they found the spider's web damaged far beyond the ability of a six-inch garter snake, and the snake gone.

The observers concluded the small boys had tried to stir the combantants to greater frenzy and wrecked the battle. The only witness to the rowdism was the spider, which was sitting back in a corner engaged in what the observers took to be a much needed rest.

SIMS, PARTNER IN LEAD

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Hal Sims and Waldemar von Zedtwitz have made an impressive start toward capturing the masters' trophy, the feature fair event of the week's tournament of the American Bridge League.

Sims and three of his young associates—George Unger, John Rau and Charles S. Lockridge—were eliminated yesterday in the first round of the team of four competition, much to the surprise of everybody, but in the first round for the masters' trophy, he and von Zedtwitz had the best score, 281 points out of a possible 468. There are two more rounds to play.

David Burnstine and Howard Schenken were second with 277½, and Richard L. Frey and Sam Fry, Jr., third with 273½.

LONG CHARGES VOTE FRAUDS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Senator Huey P. Long himself hurled a charge of fraud today as a new grand jury was being drawn to investigate the list of 262 November ballot boxes his opponents say contain proof that returns were falsified.

Commenting on the results of a court recount of six boxes which differed with the official count, Senator Long said they had been "tampered with by political enemies." He continued:

"The surprise of my life is that these ballots of the uncontested election in November from the worst precincts show only a 700 difference in majorities after the Sullivan crowd had the open boxes in their possession five days and nights."

The investigation threatens the political rule of Louisiana by the Long forces.

CHINESE GIRLS PROTEST BAN

PEIPING, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Having forbidden Chinese girls to work in dance halls and cabarets as hired dancing partners under an order issued last month, Yuan Ling, Peiping's new Mayor, today had furthered his crusade to make the ancient capital a model city by decreeing it a penal offense for women to appear in men's clothes and other unusual dress in public places.

Meanwhile the jobless dance hall girls appealed to the Mayor for a year's grace to enable them to find other employment. Their petition said women's charms cannot cause the downfall of men. They said:

"Dancing partners violate no law and cannot be regarded as criminals. Since the nation's revolution the emancipation of women is one of the country's most urgent needs. Many moral conventions of the past now are obsolete and regarded as shackles to the freedom of women.

"For example, the painting of nude women has been regarded with horror by our ancestors, but is now commonplace in every art school."

Elephant Ears Bring 50 Cents Per Pair

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The elephant ear market has hit a new low. At an auction of trophies collected by Capt. David Mackenzie, big game hunter, a pair of elephant ears was knocked down for 50 cents.

CHINA PIRATES LOOT STEAMER

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—As the national government conducted a conference in Nanking today on ways of combatting pirate hordes which have been pillaging China's coastal shipping, sea wolves added another Chinese ship to their long list of victims.

The steamer Yuishun, from Swatow in Southern China to Shanghai, was seized by pirates off Swatow, according to advices to the owners here.

Pirates carried out their usual disguise as passengers and boarded the steamer at Swatow. After the vessel had put out to sea the brigands overpowered the crew and forced the skipper to proceed into Bias Bay, pirates' stronghold south of Swatow, where the cargo and passengers were looted.

The invaders escaped laden with loot and taking with them three passengers they are holding for ransom.

Bishop Boyle Orders Aid for Institute

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle has ordered a collection for the benefit of the De Paul Institute to be taken in every Roman Catholic church in the Pittsburgh diocese Sunday. The institute, with over 140 pupils, is one of the largest of its kind in the country.

WINTER OVERCOATS

during August!

NRA

STILL $15

Fintex Stores offer Winter Overcoats during August simply to make it possible for you to save on your Winter needs before our price goes up. The higher cost of woolens, trimmings, and other materials, coupled with our recent wage increase of 20% to Fintex craftsmen—all these factors make our price rise necessary.

So make your Overcoat purchase now—and SAVE! The fine woolens of which these Fintex overcoats are made are new, smart and up-to-the-minute. There are full-belts, half-belts, raglans, boxbacks, and Balmoral models in the season's smartest colors and patterns, every one an exceptional buy at our all-time low price of $15.

Fintex Clothes are made in our own tailoring plant, sold only through our own stores.

FRIGIDAIRE

Prices on All Models Still at All-Time Lows!

$159 INSTALLED

With all this talk about rising prices, and well-founded talk it is too, in most cases, there is still one great home necessity that hasn't risen in price, and that's the Frigidaire. You can still buy the famous model that uses no more current than an ordinary light bulb at less than $100. The new super model, shown here, with 10.9 sq. ft. of storage space, is still $159. And so on up. When you come in to see a Frigidaire, don't forget to get your Key-to-Meal-Planning Book. It will show you how to have variety in your menus day after day and week after week. It will teach you how to save time and money. It will take all the monotony out of meal-planning.

POLLS SHIFTED FROM BEER EMPORIUMS

Two polling places in the Twenty-third Ward, North Side, have been changed by the County Commissioners because beer is being sold in the old locations. John L. Hernon and Robert Hughes, employes of the Department of Elections, asked the Commissioners to approve the changes.

The two reported that a building at East and Foreland streets, formerly the polling place of the Fifth District, is now known as "Yanks Cafe. A garage at 918 East street was substituted. The polling place of the Tenth District was changed from 862 Spring Garden avenue to 852 Concord street for a similar reason.

Hernon and Hughes were forced to halt their appearance before the Commissioners yesterday to hurry to Squirrel Hill with a tape measure, to survey two establishments under consideration as the polling place for the Fourth District of the Forteenth Ward.

It had been proposed to move the polling place from 6831 Reynolds street to 6740 Reynolds street, but the Commissioners let it stay at 6831, after Frank Sowash, owner of the property, agreed to make certain changes.

The Commissioners approved other changes of polling places, including one in Sharpsburg and another in Rankin.

VOTE MACHINE BARGAIN FOUND

Allegheny County's bargain hunters, who spent two days in Baltimore shopping for voting machine materials and supplies in the plant of the Poole Engineering Company, have reported to the County Commissioners that real bargains can be obtained from the receivers of the Baltimore concern.

The receivers can sell the materials for junk or to some municipality owning the Poole made machine. Assistant County Solicitor Thomas Whitten reported materials which originally cost $70,000 could be obtained for $2,200. Included are 700 rolls of paper valued at $1,600, which can be used on the machines owned by the county.

It is likely the county will send Elections Bureau machinists to the Baltimore plant to select any material to be purchased.

O'HERRON WAGE RATES SIFTED

Public Works Director E. G. Lang today said his auditors were checking the books of M. O'Herron Company to find if less than 30 cents an hour was being paid to laborers on city contracts.

This was the minimum wage city contractors recently agreed to pay on current work, pending operation of a new ordinance placing the minimum at 45 cents an hour.

Mayor John S. Herron had been informed, he said yesterday, that the O'Herron Company had violated the verbal pact and ordered an investigation.

Lang said:

"Our auditors are working on the records and should learn in the near future what the facts are. If we find that any contractor is paying less than he agreed, he will, in the future, be classed by the city as an irresponsible bidder."

Two Counties Refuse To Purchase Bridge

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 4.—Beaver County Commissioners have joined with the Lawrence County Commissioners in refusing to purchase for $2,500 the Knox Bridge, in Franklin Township, abandoned by the Harmony route.

COURT NAMES VOTE OFFICIALS

Election officials were appointed in Quarter Sessions Court today to fill vacancies in seven districts.

They are:

Glenn A. George, judge of Fifth District, Third Ward, Wilkinsburg; Thomas O'Shell, majority inspector, Eleventh District, Eighteenth Ward; W. C. Benson, majority inspector, Ninth District, Thirteenth Ward; E. L. Flannigan, majority inspector, Eleventh District, Fifteenth Ward; Thomas A. Blackham, minority inspector, Fourth District, Fifteenth Ward; A. L. Remaley, minority inspector, Fourth District, Patton Township; Edwin Merker, judge, Second District, Twenty-sixth Ward.

Band and Player Sued in Boy's Death

YORK, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—The Dover Cornet Band and H. E. Bollinger, as an individual, today were defendants in a damage suit brought by the parents of the late Richard E. Myers, a minor, who was fatally wounded at a shooting match conducted by the band on December 24, 1932. The parents are asking $5,270.

It is contended Bollinger was firing at a mark and shot the boy. Negligence of the band in conducting the match caused the fatal shooting according to the plaintiffs.

'Possum Makes Home in Church Organ

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Apparently in quest of soothing melodies to aid a somnolent weakness, a 'possum, comfortably installed in a nest, was found in the console of an organ at a church here by a man called to tune the instrument.

The furry disciple of music had found his way into the organ console through the floor. Rope and other materials had been carried into the organ for a nest.

The 'possum was given a new residence in the city's zoo.

MAN CHARGES NON-SUPPORT

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Aug. 4.—Alleging his wife, Mrs. Florence Keefer, has several hundred dollars in building and loan stocks and refused to share it with him, W. R. Keefer, of New Brighton, preferred a charge of non-support against the woman.

Justice of the Peace J. Walter Lewis ordered Mrs. Keefer to furnish bond of $300 for court. Keefer said he had been receiving aid from the welfare agency here.

This is the first case in Beaver County in which a man brought suit for support against his wife.

$45,000 WILLED TO KIN, CHURCH

An estate valued at $45,000 was left to his wife, two sons, a sister and the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church in the will of Arthur Von Senden, 201 East End avenue, filed for probate today.

Stock in the Arthur Von Senden Company was left in trust.

The wife is to be paid $200 a month from the income, a sister in Germany $50 a year and the balance goes to a son Carl S. Von Senden, who also will receive the principal on the death of the wife. A son, Boyd V. Von Senden, was bequeathed $5,000 and a diamond ring. The trustees of the Point Breeze Church were left $500 in trust.

'First Lady' Heads Relief Committee

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Acceptance by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of the chairmanship of the women's committee of the Mobilization for Human Needs was announced today by Newton D. Baker, chairman of the citizens' committee of the mobilization.

In making the announcement Baker said plans were under way for the strongest women's committee for the support of welfare work ever organized in the United States.

KINDNESS TRAPS PEN FUGITIVE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Warden A. C. Stedman is bringing Willis Hirsch, 33-year-old forgery prisoner, back to the Arkansas Penitentiary to pay the state the 17 years he still owes it and possibly to do some explaining about philanthropic tendencies.

The warden and officers in Los Angeles, where Hirsch was arrested, said Hirsch, as prison bookkeeper, used his skill in penmanship to alter records so that he obtained release as a short term liquor law violator. He took with him several blank prison vouchers.

Some of the vouchers, the prison officials complained, were used to buy 100 turkeys for convicts at the penitentiary. A short time later a shipment of half a carload of grass seed to feed the fowls turned up and still later Hirsch sent his fellow prisoners a large quantity of candy from Tempe Ariz.

He was arrested in Los Angeles several days ago for passing forged checks on stores there. Warden Stedman left with him yesterday.

Man's Body Found Near Railroad Track

The body of William Gleghorn, Negro, of House 100, Horning, was found along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, at South Fifth street, this morning. He apparently had been struck by a train.

The body was found by Charles Butler, Negro, of 92 Brownsville avenue, whom Gleghorn had visited last night.

Penniless Widow To Exhume Mate, Sell His Grave

NEW YORK Aug. 4.—(Universal)—Mrs. Sarah A. Johnson, of Nutley, N. J., was authorized by the Supreme Court yesterday to exhume the body of her husband from Famous Greenwood Cemetery and sell the grave.

Mrs. Johnson, who is 79 and penniless, said she would rebury the body in a New Jersey cemetery.

The Greenwood Corporation opposed the move, asserting owners of other plots would follow Mrs. Johnson's example. But Justice Strong declared the request reasonable.

The widow paid $550 for the plot in 1919. It is valued now at $1,300.

LAUDS SCHOOLS AS CRIME CURB

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Public schools are the greatest social agencies combatting crime today and are the foundation of the hope of eliminating crime in the future, Maj. Lynn D. Adams, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Police, declared at the closing session of the annual school superintendents' conference at State College.

P.S.C. STUDYING BUS PETITION

The application of Ezio Bigi for modification of his public convenience certificate for the transportation of persons between Bridgeville and Pittsburgh was taken under advisement today by Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby.

More than two score witnesses have been heard by the Commissioner during several sessions. Bigi asks that he be permitted to carry passengers in either direction between the intersection of Carnegie avenue and Bower Hill road and the terminus downtown and intermediate points.

The Pittsburgh Railway Company and the Oriole Motor Coach Lines are protesting amendments to Bigi's present certificate.

3 Truck Drivers Killed in Crashes

NEW CASTLE, Del., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Three employes of the Victor Lynn Company, a Baltimore trucking firm, were killed today.

Christian Schwartzbauer, 27, of Milford, Del., driver of a truck and trailer, and Russell Adams, 28, Lincoln, Del., a helper, were burned to death when their truck burst into flames after crashing into a concrete abutment. Preston Rogers, 25, also of Milford, was killed when the truck in which he was riding skidded from the highway near Dover and crashed into a tree.

6 BORROWED CARS test four of America's leading brands of 25c motor oils—and every car brings in the verdict "Gulf-lube lasts longer!"

America's greatest 25c motor oil

THE Contest Board of the American Automobile Association recently put 4 famous 25c oils "on the spot" . . .

One after another, these famous oils were put in 6 borrowed cars—and tested for 4 days, 12 hours a day, on the Indianapolis Speedway.

When the figures were averaged, here was the amazing result—Gulf-lube went 28½% farther before a quart of oil had to be added. It beat every oil in every car!

Switch to Gulf-lube! You'll buy less oil. You'll pay less for repairs—for the oil that lasts longer is a better lubricant. Get Gulf-lube at any Gulf station!

FURS

In the Youthful Manner

Young furs, young styles, and prices that make things easy for the very young business woman on a moderate salary, and the college girl on an allowance—that's how the August Fur Sale at Horne's goes along with the Young Crowd.

The new Swagger Coats of muskrat, kidskin, and spotted furs, range $58, $78, $135, and up to $285, during the Sale and before the inevitable rise in price goes into effect. Note that even the practical Hudson seal* has gone madly gay, with tricky new collars and Schiaparelli's "lipstick" buttons. And be prepared for a thrill at the sophistication of the Paris couturiers' youthful models, when you see our many reproductions.

Fur-Trimmed Coats

It is not only the actual dollars that are to be saved by buying next winter's coat in August, that makes this Horne event so interesting, (although that's more important this year than ever), but it's also its Fashion Importance.

Fabrics are different this year—you'll see the new ones introduced in this sale. The silhouette is straighter. Shoulders are broadened in a more feminine manner, by new collars, upper sleeve and yoke effects of flat, short-haired and furled furs. Look for chic Ascot ties, narrow-back collars and jabots of fur, that make a refreshing coat picture. You'll find every authentic new trend here.

Our preparations are more extensive than for any previous August Sale, with ample provisions for Women and Misses of regular figure, and for Shorter Women.

FIREMAN HEINZ CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Declaring that in the past "the sheriff generally has been selected by the heads of the steel and coal corporations," John Heinz, president of the City Firemen's Protective Association has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff.

Heinz, a registered Republican, supported President Roosevelt in the last campaign. He said today:

"I am convinced that only through the medium of the Democratic party can legislation designed to safeguard the rights of the rank and file of our people be written into the statute books. In the past the office of sheriff has been more or less an adjunct of the notorious coal and iron police. If elected sheriff I will conduct the office impartially, and in the event of labor trouble property will be protected as will the constitutional rights of those who have quit work because of dissatisfaction with wages or working conditions."

Heinz led the fight last year for reinstatement of the 98 firemen discharged by the city administration as an economy move. He charged politics actuated the dismissals. Heinz is president of the Pennsylvania State Fire Fighters' Association, and is a war veteran.

Burgess Charles Chamberlain, of Dormont, has announced for re-election. His announcement said he was running on his record as borough secretary, president of Council and burgess.

Richard Kelly, 2200 Carson street, has filed petitions for jury commissioner. He is a native of the South Side. He says the jury commissioners' office can be conducted more economically than at present.

Cabbie Gets Tip After Fare Fight Ends in Court

The arrest on a disorderly conduct charge of a passenger alleged to have objected to paying a 45-cent bill proved profitable to Nick Coumoutakos, 44, of 1320 Esplanade street, a cab driver, last night.

Patrolman Bernard Scully arrested Nick and Max Golden, 38, of Beechwood boulevard. When they reached Central Police Station, the fare was 75 cents.

Before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in night court, Golden not only paid the fare, but gave the cabbie a quarter tip. They were discharged.

PITT ENGAGES OIL ENGINEER

Founder of the largest petroleum engineering school in the country, Prof. H. C. George leaves the University of Oklahoma staff to head the oldest petroleum school, the University of Pittsburgh.

Prof. George

Prof. George, a native of Oil City, assumes his duties here September 1. He is a graduate of Pitt's School of Mines in 1906. After serving three years here as an instructor in geology, Prof. George became director of the Wisconsin State Mining School and later an engineer for the United States Bureau of Mines. He founded the petroleum school at Oklahoma in 1924. Pitt's class was established in 1913.

Nurse Hurt as Auto Upsets, 3 Escape

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Leaving the highway near Oil City yesterday, a car rolled over three times, injuring Miss Jane Boyd, 29, a Philadelphia nurse en route to the home of her parents in Oil City for a vacation.

Miss Barbara Martin, also a Philadelphia nurse, who was accompanying Miss Boyd, escaped injury. Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Boyd, parents of the injured girl, also escaped injury.

Ex-Cowboy 'Ropes' Gasoline Robber

WILLINGTON, Cal., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—O. C. O'Neil was awakened from dreams of days on the Texas range early yesterday by suspicious sounds about his motor car.

Picking up a saddle rope, he "built" a loop as he ran, twirled it about his head and let go. A body thudded in the darkness and when police arrived they found John L. McGuire neatly hogtied. He was charged with stealing gasoline.

Fireman Denied Facial Cream Sues Wife

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Fireman Lauritz T. Nielsen, a husky member of a hook and ladder company, alleged in a divorce bill against his wife that she was cruel because she forbade him the use of facial cream.

Nielsen alleged the reason she wouldn't let him use face cream was because she feared he would make himself too attractive to other women.

SCHOOL RESCUE FIGHT PUSHED

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Citizens opposed to the Board of Education's drastic $5,000,000 curtailment in public school costs planned today to carry their fight before the City Council, after a circuit Court judge had denied their petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the board.

Judge William V. Brothers ruled against the taxpayer's petition during a spirited hearing in his court yesterday which ended with a burst of dramatics on his part when he interrupted the bickerings of spectators to remind them the courtroom was no town meeting.

At a meeting of the Citizens' Save Our School Committee last night Mrs. Holland Flagler, chairman, was instructed to name a committee to obtain the signatures of the necessary number of aldermen required to call a special meeting for consideration of the school problem.

JUVENILE COURT GOAL OF LANE

Charles G. Lane, announcing as a candidate for Judge of Juvenile Court, today pledged that if elected "every ward of the Juvenile Court will receive the same attention, care and sympathetic consideration that I bestow upon my 10-year-old daughter."

Mr. Lane

Attorney Lane, a war veteran active in politics and Legion affairs, cites his record "as a soldier, citizen and attorney." He has been practicing law since 1920. He was born on the North Side in 1896, attended public schools and graduated in law from Duquesne University. He is a past county commander of the American Legion, served as president of the Allegheny County War Veterans' Association and is affiliated with many fraternal organizations.

In politics Mr. Lane has been affiliated with the Republican organization.

STRIKE MENACE GROWS IN CUBA

By CLIFFORD GALLOWAY
International News Service.

HAVANA, Aug. 4.—Presaging a victory for "passive resistance" where clashes at arms failed in the past, Cuba's general strike reached the proportions of a major political crisis today.

Observers predicted the early downfall of President Gerardo Machado as a result.

Havana was virtually paralyzed as laborers of all classes joined transportation workers in what started as a bus strike a week ago and swiftly developed into an unprecedented mass demonstration against the Machado regime.

Funmaker Collapses, Dies at Shrine Fete

MERCERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Sorrow hushed the picnic revelry of southern district Shriners last night as Attorney Garnet Gher, of Chambersburg, collapsed from a heart attack and died on the dance floor of Caledonia Park.

Fellow picnickers were cheering a humorous speech when Gher was stricken, as he handed the chairman of the picnic committee a silver loving cup in recognition of his success in arranging the affair.

FLOOD DAMAGE OVER MILLION AS 2 DIE

DENVER, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Cherry Creek flowed docilely in its concrete-lined channel today, bearing no resemblance to the roaring torrent which took two lives and did damage possibly in excess of a million dollars.

Denver residents long had feared what happened soon after midnight yesterday—the collapse of Castlewood Dam, 35 miles upstream. The granite masonry structure, constructed 44 years ago, has been a menace for 20 years and engineers frequently pronounced it unsafe. A cloudburst in the Plains Country east of Castle Rock, where the dam is located, brought down sufficient water to cause the break.

Damage to Denver was confined to bridges—12 of them were taken out by the flood—the warehouse section and the Country Club residential district through which the creek runs.

The largest portion of the estimated damage—$500,000—was that to farmers along the course of the stream from the dam to the city limits.

MODERN PAUL REVERE

Huge tree trunks, bits of houses and barns and other debris littered lawns, sidewalks and streets. A log floated into the Union Station waiting room.

A heavy death toll was averted through the quick action of Hugh Paine, caretaker at the dam. The storm knocked down telephone lines, but he rode horseback 12 miles to Castle Rock and notified Denver police the dam had collapsed. A dozen police cars, sirens shrieking, went through the lowlands and warned the residents to flee.

Bertha Catlin, 24, of Page City, Kan., an employe on a ranch near Franktown, was drowned when she was thrown from a horse into the swirling creek. She was watching the flood when the horse became frightened.

Tom Casey, 80, fell into a deep pool in the yard of his Denver home and was drowned.

HOMES SWEPT AWAY

Two miners who had been working below the dam and a family of three who were camped near Franktown also were missing. The family was not identified.

Mrs. Claude Hill, 50, was drowned when her ranch home in the Matheson section was washed from its foundation but her husband and seven children escaped. This storm preceded the one which carried away the dam.

Other cloudbursts washed out the D. & R. G. W. Railroad tracks near the Royal Gorge and Rock Island bridges and track in the Colorado Springs region. At Brighton another flood occurred and water stood several feet deep in some streets.

Three thousand unemployed persons were given jobs cleaning Denver streets.

RADIO AIDS ILL BOY IN NORTH

SEATTLE, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Short wave wireless whined across more than 1,000 miles of the Pacific Ocean yesterday as a physician and amateur operator sought to save the life of a 5-year-old boy by long distance.

Ed Stevens, the operator, "talking" with the operator at Aiaktalik on lonely Kodiak Island near the Aleutians, was told about the illness of the boy, son of Henry B. Looff, former Bureau of Fisheries warden. There was no physician in that part of the Far North. Stevens said:

"They did not know the cause of the boy's illness, so they gave me the symptoms. I gave them to Dr. A. H. Seering, of Harborview Hospital. He diagnosed the case as peritonitis, and advised that the boy be rushed to Anchorage, Alaska, by airplane.

"I gave the message to the Army wireless station here and they sent it to the Army station at Anchorage. We got a message later that the plane was being sent."

PENNA. WOMAN 107 TODAY

LANSDALE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—One hundred and seven years old today, Miss Mary Knapp, of Montgomery Square, is sandwiching between the greetings of friends her plans for the future.

She intends to vote this fall, with her pencil checking the Democratic candidates, but she would vote "in a minute" for Gov. Pinchot, Republican, were he to run for President.

For the sake of the country she opposes 3.2 beer "because it is leading to something stronger."

She said:

Denmark Police Head Found Dead in Hotel

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Police President Valdemar Mensen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, was found dead beside his bed today in the Hotel Waldorf Astoria.

Pharmacists Put Ban On College Teachers

College professors of pharmacy were ruled out of the newly formed Allegheny County Retail Druggists Association last night, which met at the Fort Pitt Hotel. One member objected to their "smug complacency." Another member said:

"They are too theoretical. We want only working pharmacists."

40-Mile Gale Lashes South Texas Coast

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—A 40-mile an hour wind lashed at the South Texas coast around Port O'Connor today as a tropical disturbance of undetermined intensity moved threateningly inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

The disturbance was moving westward and indications were that it would affect the coast line between Sabine Pass and Point Isabel, where its approach was marked by heavy seas and strong winds.

Man Killed by Auto On Neville Island

Struck by an automobile on Grand avenue, Neville Island, late yesterday, Michael Konkla, 50, of James street and Pershing road, Neville Island, was pronounced dead an hour later.

Neville Island police arrested Boyd Fenton, 1511 Ridge avenue, Coraopolis, who they claim was the driver of the car. He was held for the coroner on $1,000 bail.

Hero Saves 3 Women from River Whirlpool

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Attracted by the screams of three women as they floundered in a whirlpool in the Monongahela River, John Burtchett, of Hennessy, Okla., plunged in the stream and saved the trio.

Corporations Here Get Pa. Tax Refund

Local interests shared in the refunds made by the State Board of Finance and Revenue last month, according to an Associated Press dispatch received from Harrisburg.

Those refunded were Fownes and Orr, Inc., Pittsburgh, $1,252 for 1931 corporation loan tax; City of McKeesport, $2,137 liquid fuels tax; City of Clairton, $724 liquid fuels tax, and Harrison township, Allegheny County, $714 liquid funds tax.

Counterfeit Suspect Fails to Post Bond

Martin Braun, 28, arrested recently in Ambridge on a charge of passing $10 and $20 counterfeit bills, was arraigned for a hearing yesterday before the United States Commissioner and remanded to jail in default of $2,500 bail.

Braun, alias John Mitnik, will be held here pending a court order for his removal to Baltimore, where the charges were made.

Thousands prefer it to mayonnaise—yet it costs ⅓ less

● "How on earth do you make it?" "Just the flavor I've always wanted." "Simply delicious!"—such have been the comments of critical women on first tasting Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. And nearly all have added this same impressive remark in one form or another: "You say it is not true mayonnaise—but I for one like it better."

● There is a special shade of flavor in this new food creation that surprises and delights critical people. Not too tart, not too bland, not too oily—Miracle Whip Salad Dressing has an enticing taste all its own which thousands prefer to the flavor of true mayonnaise

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK

. . . if you don't like Miracle Whip Salad Dressing better than the finest Mayonnaise you ever tasted.

Act promptly!

See details at right

● An exciting moment awaits you—your first taste of Miracle Whip Salad Dressing on your favorite salad. We think you'll like it better than any salad dressing you ever tasted—including the finest mayonnaise

A new triumph in fine food . .

Kraft's MIRACLE WHIP SALAD DRESSING

Made by the makers of Kraft Cheese and "Philadelphia" Brand Cream Cheese

● We did not believe it ourselves at the start. In fact for a while we even had a faint hope that it might not be true.

Why? You know the answer already. We are one of the world's largest makers of true mayonnaise—and this new salad dressing of ours sells for ⅓ less than mayonnaise. But there can be no doubt about it: Thousands really prefer it to true mayonnaise — regardless of cost.

A special flavor all its own

There is a special tantalizing flavor, at once familiar and utterly new in Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. Not too bland, not too sharp, not too oily, it has an enticing "just right" taste that is all its own.

A real triumph in fine food lies back of this new Kraft creation. It combines in a wonderful way all the real goodness of two famous and popular kinds of dressing—true mayonnaise and true old-fashioned boiled dressing.

Fine salad oil, choice eggs and other time-honored ingredients are used by Kraft in making Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. But these ingredients are proportioned in a new way and they are whipped to a new creamy fluffiness in Kraft's exclusive Miracle Whip.

We think you'll find a shade of flavor for which you've always longed in this new Miracle Whip Salad Dressing; that you'll like it better than the finest mayonnaise you have ever tasted.

If you do not we will give you double your money back according to the offer printed at right. Get a jar today!

(Closes August 20)

Buy a jar of Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. Serve it. If you don't like it better than the finest mayonnaise you ever tasted, simply do this: Mail us a letter giving your reasons, together with the label from the front of the jar, before midnight, Sunday August 20. We will send you double your money back—twice what the salad dressing cost you. Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, 400 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill.

Longue Vue Country Club promises to become a year-round center for sports. Now that its new swimming pool is completed—the grand opening will be Saturday—the directors are thinking about winter sports.

The directors are discussing ice skating! They plan to build clay courts for tennis, which in winter can be flooded and used for skating as at Allegheny Country Club.

And with all its attractive hillsides, the directors have also thought of skiing and tobogganning. Of course all these plans depend on the return of something like the good old 1929 days. And the prospect does look fair.

Longue Vue Country Club, in addition to having such attractive plans for the future, has something more to boast of—it has "broken even" in these years when many a country club has slid in the red.

The club is planning something extra special, by the way, to celebrate its tenth anniversary, which comes in October.

Pool for Children

Besides its ivy-clad, gabled clubhouse of stone with its decorative vari-colored slate roof, its golf course and of course its new swimming pool and the wading pool for children, Longue Vue boasts of many acres—476 in all.

At one time before the depression obliterated so many things, the club had thought of selling lots to its members for individual cottages—making the club another summer settlement.

But I want to tell you more about the swimming pool, which I went out to see yesterday. The main pool and the small wading pool have been built in the old grass tennis courts below the long terrace of the clubhouse.

The pools are most attractive with lovely background and view—in keeping with the entire plan of the club. In back of the pools is a tree-covered hillside. And one has a view of a curve of the Allegheny River from the large pool.

Placed just below the hillside is a row of gay vari-colored umbrella tables and chairs. There's to be a porch in front of the filter house, too, for spectators. And here will be a little lunch counter!!

And one can swim in the evening as well as day time at Longue Vue—for the pool is lighted by 22 submarine lights, cleverly placed in a bronze box in the sides of the pool below the water-line.

Stone Coping

The main pool is very large—45 by 90 feet—of reinforced concrete construction, with decorative broad stone coping. And it ranges in depth from three feet at the shallow end to nine feet six inches just off the diving board. The children's wading pool is 12 feet by 25. Smooth green grass surrounds both pools. Of course there'll be a life guard.

J. H. Bialas was general chairman of the swimming pool, aided by L. Iverson, H. S. Wherrett, W. M. Furey, L. H. Burnett, D. H. Baum, Thomas W. Moses, Norwood Johnston, Dr. William O'Neil Sherman, George D. Breck, W. R. Gellatly, S. B. Casey, Dr. C. F. Bernatz, R. E. Grove.

In charge of the construction work of the pool were E. W. Mudge, James E. MacCloskey, Mr. Bialas, Mr. Wherrett and Mrs. Burnett.

The board of governors of the club is made up of E. V. Babcock, J. H. Bailey, J. H. Bialas, D. M. Clemson, W. M. Furey, A. L. Humphrey, Norwood Johnston, Reid Kennedy, J. E. Lewis, J. E. MacCloskey, Jr., E. E. McCoy, W. C. McKinney, E. W. Mudge, A. E. Nieman, E. T. Weir, H. S. Wherrett and Homer D. Williams.

Gretchen Bickford Betrothed to David M'Cargo

The engagement of petite, blonde Gretchen Bickford, younger daughter of the W. I. Bickfords, of Devon road, to David McCargo, son of the Grant McCargos, of Woodland road, being made known today by Gretchen's parents, will not come as a surprise to any of their acquaintances.

Throughout the past winter they have been together at every theater opening, concert and social affair.

Gretchen made her debut several seasons ago. Marie Louise Bickford is her sister. Both girls are popular members of Pittsburgh's smart younger set.

NEW KNITTED SPORTSWEAR DISGUISES SELF AS TWEED

ONLY A keen microscopic mind would be clever enough to discern the true facts about the costumes in the accompanying sketch. Would you recognize them as knitted sportswear? Yet they are. If you were asked what you thought they were—and you had no suspicions about them—wouldn't you honestly say they were woolens or sheer tweeds?

IT'S PART and parcel of their plan to fool you—and in successfully doing so they divulge a most amusing fashion story. If they are of this year's late crop, they will "catch" you—so perfectly do they resemble the most up-to-date developments in woolens and tweeds. Except for those that have a frankly hand-knitted look, or that really are hand-knit, they accomplish their task with precision.

* * *

THEIR PURPOSES are manifold. Of course, they'll shine on campuses all over in the fall. But before that you and you and I are going to wear them against all sorts of backgrounds. Transported to country scenery, with sports accessories, they melt into a golf picture. Take the same costume, place it in the city with smart walking-type accessories—and what have you? A most acceptable costume for city pavements, equally good on the train riding back and forth into town, and traveling by motor over the countryside on the way to the fair. If you've flown, you're already won over to the advantages of just such an outfit as this for the air.

IT'S A WISE woman who realizes the value of those trim lines. They minimize her size—and give her a well-defined modern look. It's a good idea to contrast the sleek lines of daytime clothes with the slightly Directoise and 1900 fashions we affect when lights comes on.

THE NICE thing about the other model is its contrast in knit, a deep red, tobaco brown and gray striped top, with chic mousy-colored taupe skirt. Notice the shoulders in both. They have an athletic tendency—another detail that stamps them new. Appointments and trimmings do ample justice to the dresses.

WEAR THE new leather, wooden and bulky rope jewelry with these. Colossally large bracelets in composition or gold or silver have taken New York by storm.

Elberta Crissman Married to New Yorker

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Elberta Mae Crissman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crissman, of Pittsburgh, to Frederick R. Thaler, of New Rochelle, N. Y., which took place at 10:30 o'clock on Monday morning, July 31.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of embroidered white organzo having short cape sleeves of tiny ruffles of plain white organza. The skirt was fashioned of godets of the same ruffles. She carried talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Margaret Louise Crissman as her sister's maid of honor, wore turquoise blue tulle with pink accessories and carried pink Briarcliffe roses and blue delphinium. Dr. Alwin Thaler, of Knoxville, Tenn., was his brother's best man. The bride's mother wore a triple sheer grey and white ensemble and wore tea roses.

There was a breakfast for 25 guests in McCreery's after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Thaler left for New York to sail for Bermuda, and upon their return will tour the New England states and Canada. They will be at home here after Labor Day.

Anne E. Scanlon Wed in Church Ceremony

A bride of Tuesday morning was Miss Anne Elizabeth Scanlon, daughter of Mrs. Patrick J. Scanlon, of Jones avenue, North Braddock. Her marriage to Thomas J. Curran, son of Mrs. J. A. Curran, of Shaler avenue, was solemnized in St. Thomas' Roman Catholic Church, Braddock, in the presence of the families.

The bride wore traditional white bridal satin with a small matching hat and carried calla lilies. Miss Margaret Anne Scanlon, her sister's maid of honor and only attendant, wore pink crepe with blue accessories and carried Ward roses and delphinium. Joseph Curran was his uncle's best man.

Ingram Junior Women's New President Trained In Leadership

Miss Margaret McCurdy, the new president of the Junior Women's Club of Ingram, has had much training as a leader even though she is young.

During her senior year at the University of Pittsburgh, she was president of the Delta Delta Delta Sorority, and had many minor activities. During the past year she was chairman of the active welfare committee of the club.

Colonists Flock To Hot Springs Horse Show

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 4.—Interest of the summer colony is centered on the sixth annual horse show of the Bath County Horse Show Association, being held on the show grounds here, August 11 and 12. Many colonists are arriving for the event, which is held annually for the benefit of the Community House Hospital Fund.

An important departure in the show will be the awarding of individual championships in hunting, saddle and breeding classes, instead of the best horse in show selection. As in other years, the hunting class will be outstanding because of the great interest in this type of horse in Virgina.

The present show inherited the traditions of the Old Fassifern Farm Show, inaugurated in 1912 by the late M. E. Ingalls, of New York. When the Fassifern Show was discontinued because of the World War, it was taken over by the Bath County Fair Association, and six years ago the Fair Association handed over the event to the Horse Show Association.

Miss Lee Gay Weds In Atlantic City

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lee Gay, of Hampton Hall, to M. B. Page, of Lynchburg, Va., which was solemnized on July 4 in the Olivet Presbyterian Church in Atlantic City, N. J. After October 1 Mr. and Mrs. Page will be at home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Richard Mellons Open Home at Watch Hill

Not until August this year has popular Watch Hill, R. I., attracted many Pittsburghers. Usually Watch Hill devotees open their cottages there early in July.

Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., is the only Watch Hill colonist from here to have arrived early in the season at Watch Hill. She varies her stay there with visits to New York and Long Island.

The William S. Moorheads are at Watch Hill again this season, and Mrs. William Nimick Frew and Mrs. William J. Holland are there, staying at the Ocean House.

This year the William C. Robinsons have only visited Watch Hill several times, arriving on their yatch Solana. Usually they spend the entire summer there.

Mrs. James B. Oliver, back from Rome where she attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Maria Dusmet, to Duca Filippo Lante Bella Rovere on June 28, is at Watch Hill.

With her are her son-in-law and daughter, the William J. Crittendens, and her grandchildren, Mrs. David S. Barry, Jr., James Oliver Crittenden and Mrs. William W. Goldsborough, formerly Caroline Crittenden.

UTILITIES CODE PRESSED BY JOHNSON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Efforts to bring in mass employers of labor were seen today in the efforts now being made by aides of Hugh S. Johnson to reach utility groups and other major interests not yet under code or temporary agreements on wages or hours of labor.

Liberalization of the terms of the so-called blanket agreement which is intended primarily to take the place of a more permanent code while the latter is under negotiation was one gesture aimed at the big employers.

CODES FOR 'BIG TEN'

Johnson has codes pending for the so-called "Big Ten" which includes the fundamental employing industries, such as electrical manufacturers, radio, automobile makers and others. He also has what he termed a lot of enthusiastic promises from lesser employers, but he is waiting to see actual results in greater employment.

The re-employment drive will be backed by the greatest mobilization of public speakers since World War days, including about 200 nationally known figures, besides 50,000 volunteer speakers in every section.

The laundry code promises an added $35,000,000 to its annual payroll, and is in effect pending final adoption. A code for zinc mining interests, and one for meat packers, representing all branches of the industry, and one for the motor bus lines of the country, were among those announced.

PACKERS' HEARING

The meat packing code is expected to be completed for hearing within a day or two. Reports continued to pour in all day from local points, of hundreds of presidential agreements being signed by small businessmen of town and city.

The stretch-out committee, appointed by Johnson to study this industrial development under which mill workers are giving extra mechanical duties, has reported. It recommends appointment of a board within the textile industry to assist in control of this practice.

Battle Marks Strike, French City Tied Up

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Seventy-five persons were arrested and 12 policemen were wounded in street fights early today in connection with a general strike which is paralyzing the city.

Codes' Status Summarized

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Today's status of fair competition codes presented by the bigger industries and now pending before the Recovery Administration:

OIL—Final draft begun.

STEEL — Private conferences continue on price and production control and labor terms.

WOMEN'S COAT AND SUIT—Awaits presidential promulgation.

COAL—Set for hearing August 9.

AUTOMOBILES—To be heard about August 15.

RETAIL TRADE (except food and drugs)—To be heard August 14, but now temporarily in effect.

FOOD DEALERS—Temporarily effective, hearing to be set.

LUMBER—Revision continues.

Many others are in various stages of development, including the garment and shirt, photographic and the shoe industries, on which hearings proceeded today.

BATTLE HOME SALES IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Sheriff's hammer will not fall as scheduled on the properties of distressed home owners on Monday.

Three agencies joined forces yesterday to prevent the sales.

Judge Howard A. Davis volunteered to grant petitions to stay the sales where federal aid has been sought.

Attorneys agreed to prepare and present the petitions, gratis.

And the Home Owners' Loan Corporation pushed investigations so that loans might be made immediately to approved applicants whose homes were to be sold.

Henry Ford Chosen On Recovery Group

DEARBORN, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Henry Ford last night was chosen by organizers of the National Recovery Committee here to head the local campaign. Harry H. Bennett, head of the Ford Motor Company's service department, was named to the advisory board.

Campaign leaders said Mr. Ford had consented to accept the position and had promised full cooperation.

STANDARD OIL COMPANIES IN CODE BATTLE

By PAUL C. YATES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A dramatic dispute between the Standard Oil Companies of California and New Jersey today handicaped the efforts of Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, to formulate an oil code which the industry would accept.

The dispute raged about the proposal championed by K. R. Kingsbury, head of the Standard Oil Company of California, to include a price fixing provision.

TEAGLE FIGHTS

This proposal was strenuously opposed by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Kingsbury was backed by Oscar Sutro, vice president of his company; Harry F. Sinclair; Wirt Franklin, of Oklahoma, a powerful figure among the independent producers; Ralph T. Zook, of "Quaker State" fame, and many smaller operators.

His group held numerical control of the "committee of 54" which agreed on a tentative code, with price fixing and several other controversial issues held in abeyance.

Supporting Teagle were such powerful figures as E. G. Seubert, of Indiana Standard Oil; W. E. Smith, of Kentucky Standard; C. B. Ames, of the Texas Corporation; William F. Humphrey, of Tidewater Associated Oil; J. Howard Pew, of the Sun Company; J. C. Van Eck, of Shell-Union Corporation, and C. E. Arnott, of Socony-Vacuum.

Ohio Standard apparently is on the fence.

Johnson and other industrial recovery officials shied from price fixing, but Kingsbury threatened to take the issue directly to President Roosevelt.

Already the tribal warfare among the Standard Oil companies has resulted in one major casualty, bringing about the resignation of James A. Moffett, vice president of Teagle's firm. His sympathies lay with the "progressive" wing of the industry, which Kingsbury is leading.

DRAMATIC HEARING

Oscar Sutro, vice president of Kingsbury's company, bitterly attacked the "conservatives" at a dramatic public hearing which brought into bold relief the strange cleavage among the companies controlled by the Rockefeller interests.

He declared that price fixing is necessary to save the oil companies from ruin.

He asserted:

"This code does nothing to carry out the liberal views of a liberal president. The small minority opposed to price control is clinging to a business philosophy overwhelmingly repudiated at the polls last November."

Relief prevailed among oil men that the Rockefellers would be constrained to take a hand, smoothing out the tangle in which their companies have become involved.

Back of this tangle lay a romantic story of Kingsbury's rise to a position of leadership in the oil realm of the West.

His struggle was viewed as a bold bid for leadership of the vast Rockefeller oil empire, which Teagle long has exercised.

Several less troublesome issues, including a limitation on oil withdrawals and restrictions on imports, remained to be ironed out.

Final action on a code will be delayed at least a week.

Noise Tolerated When It Means More Work

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—A familiar whir and hum rounded the corner and annoyed many of the local citizenry who failed to catch its significance. One man said:

"It sounds like a blimp."

A woman protested:

"It's been going on for an hour and I can't sleep."

Police investigated and found that boilers were being cleaned at the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Company, a familiar operation when furnaces are working full blast.

Escaping steam was directed into the concrete bed of a nearby creek and the vibrations shook the still night.

The noise continued — the complaints ceased

Stock Exchange Pay Raised 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Administrator, was informed today that the New York Stock Exchange had authorized an increase of wages of 10 per cent.

Notice of the action was given the administrator by telephone by H. Q. Wellington, a member of the board of governors. Several days ago the exchange told President Roosevelt it had accepted the conditions of his re-employment agreement.

World's Most Famous Model

NOW POSES in DIME MUSEUM

Poverty Forces Renowned Beauty to Display Herself in a Barrel to Keep from Starvation

NOT so long ago Dolores was the most famous model of modern times. Every great artist and sculptor craved to paint her face on canvas or to immortalize her body in stone.

But Dolores is no longer welcome in the studios. Her figure now has the contour of maturity. And instead of being showered with gifts of jewels and furs, as she used to be, Dolores now has insults thrown at her.

The renowned artists' model, abandoned by all who once admired her, is now posing in a dime museum. It's the only way to keep from starvation, Dolores explains in an article she has written about her pitiful degradation. It appears next Sunday in The American Weekly. Don't miss it!

NRA VIOLATORS HERE WARNED BY JOHNSON

The majority of 27,000 employers in the Pittsburgh district today renewed their swing with the Recovery Act niblick to get industry out of the depression bunker, backed by a warning against subterfuge by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national administrator.

John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, here yesterday to address the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce recovery campaign committee, outlined the procedure to be taken against concerns violating the spirit of the President's blanket re-employment agreement.

And the Chamber issued a call for complaints by employes who are receiving unfair treatment by employers displaying the NRA insignia. These complaints will be studied and, if sound, will be forwarded to Gen. Johnson. After an investigation establishes them, the offenders will be deprived of their insignia.

Mr. Dickinson pointed out here that public opinion is, "at this stage of the game," the only weapon to be used against such concerns.

NOT A 'STRAITJACKET'

Addressing approximately 500 civic and business leaders, the Commerce Department official declared the administration in Washington is carrying on the recovery program in a liberal manner and does not intend that all provisions of the agreement shall be fastened on all concerns like a straitjacket.

However, he added:

"If the total buying power of the country is to be increased by shortening hours and thereby bringing more workers into industry, it is essential that wages should be kept at a level which will result in paying the new workers a sum additional to that now being paid to the workers employed in the industry.

"Where an employer is ordered to comply with the reduced number of hours must hire additional workers, he shall not reduce wages so as to turn the re-employment agreement into a mere share-the-work movement without any resulting increase of total purchasing power.

"In order to avoid this result, he must make some increase in the hourly rate of wages paid to the employes who are to work for the shorter number of hours."

INDIVIDUAL ADJUSTMENT

An interpretation to be substituted for Paragraph 14 in the President's original agreement, he explained, deals with the cases of individual hardships caused by the attempt to apply the same blanket agreement to differently situated concerns. If, for some sound reason, the employer signing the NRA certificate will suffer a hardship, he may submit a petition to his trade association or the Chamber of Commerce, whose written approval will be accepted by the Recovery Administration as the basis for a temporary stay, pending a final decision, according to Dickinson.

Already 4,871 Pittsburgh concerns have signed the certificate of agreement, according to word received from Washington by Wilson K. Ray, manager of the Pittsburgh office of the Department of Commerce. Others are signing hourly.

Vinton Cruikshank, an executive of Cruikshank Brothers Company, today announced the blanket regulations were in effect at the company's plant.

A 10 per cent jump in the concern's payroll has resulted from the increased wages and employment, the announcement stated.

SCRAP DEALERS BACK MOVE

The newly organized Iron and Steel Scrap Dealers of the Pittsburgh district are active in promoting support of the movement, according to officers of the organization. All members are being urged to regulate their working condition to comply with the blanket code.

An additional 1,600 men have been called back to work by the Pennsylvania Railroad as carloadings last week were reported to have reached the highest figure since November, 1930. The number of men re-employed since May 1 is now 5,000.

Freight traffic in July, instead of the usual seasonal slump, was 60 per cent over July last year. Business handled during the month was 14 per cent over June. The first two days of August show a 100 per cent advance over the corresponding days last year.

FOOD DEALERS MEET

Unanimous indorsement of the sections of the food dealers' code put into effect at Washington was voiced at a meeting of between 800 and 900 retail food dealers of Western Pennsylvania last night in Fort Pitt Hotel.

The advisory committee was authorized to prepare a schedule of equitable closing hours to be discussed at a future meeting.

Shops Here Give NRA Signs 50-50 Break, Survey Shows

Shops in the downtown area with NRA signs just about equal in number their competitors not yet displaying the President's recovery emblem, a partial survey revealed today.

Figures taken from shops on Liberty, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh avenues made the score 132 for NRA, 134 not enrolled.

Clothing stores, according to the poll, showed a greater majority of blue eagles than any other class of business enterprise. Shoe stores were well up in the running. Drug, tobacco and jewelry stores ran about even.

Other NRA developments on Page 27.

Here Are More Facts About NRA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Here are some additional questions and answers about the National Recovery Administration:

Q.—Are all retail establishments now bound by temporary codes approved by the administration?

A.—Practically all major groups are represented, except drug stores, which are negotiating with officials, but many small retailers not affiliated with any trade association are signing the presidential agreements.

Q.—Do the provisions of the President's agreement apply to executives making over $35 a week, pharmacists and professional men?

A.—They do not, the act being intended to benefit wage earners and no plan has been offered yet to spread work in the higher salary brackets.

Q.—Why is the $1 differential between the North and South provided in the textile code and in the agreement for retailers and grocers governing minimum wages?

A.—Because proponents have contended and the administration has accepted that the cost of living is less in the South.

Q.—How does the NRA propose to obtain substantial new employment through the voluntary agreements?

A—In business establishments of all sorts except factories, by obtaining a spread between the weekly hours of present employes, limited to 40, and operation hours of the business which must remain at 52, or the present number if it is less. In factories by so limiting the work hours of present workers that production will compel further hiring.

Q—On what figures will NRA count the population of cities for purposes of determining the wage levels applicable in each?

A—No estimates or surveys will be used, but the actual population figures of the 1930 census.

STEEL HEARING DATA STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Analytical study of the hearing record of the steel industry's code of fair practice was the only activity today on this major agreement at the Recovery Administration.

Deputy Administrator K. M. Simpson, in charge of the steel proceedings, turned over the task of studying the record to an assistant.

All representatives of the industry, he said, had returned to their own headquarters, and indications were that it would be the middle of next week before any final action could be taken.

Longer Lunch Hours Obtain NRA Insignia

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Longer lunch hours will be put into effect for employes of Lawrence County beginning August 7 so the county offices can hang out the NRA Blue Eagle.

The longer lunch hour was determined upon as the simplest way to put into effect the blanket code's 40-hour week provision.

MORE RAILROAD JOBS URGED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Organized railway labor and the new federal co-ordinator of transportation were joined today in a plea that more jobs be provided immediately by the nation's carriers.

In Washington, Joseph B. Eastman, the co-ordinator, addressed a message to the presidents of all large railroads asking whether the 40,000 news jobs supposedly provided in the last two months were all that could be supplied.

In Cleveland, the Railway Labor Executives' Association in special session approved a statement that railroads were not co-operating with the re-employment movement, but instead "are continuing to throw employes out of work."

The Cleveland meeting estimated that 700,000 rail workers now are without jobs.

BAN NRA SIGNS ON AUTOS

Motorists who boast "We do our part" with NRA stickers on the windshields and windows of their automobiles were being advised by the State Highway Patrol today to remove the insignia.

The state law prohibits stickers of any kind except those signifying automobiles have been inspected.

The Highway Patrol headquarters at Greensburg said no arrests have been made.

Harrisburg authorities have been asked whether an exception will be made in the NRA insignia, and meanwhile patrolmen are telling motorists to remove the signs pending a decision.

U. S. Grants $270,000 For Work on Canals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Rivers and harbors maintenance allotments totaling approximately $270,000 were approved by the War Department today.

Among the allotments were one of $152,000 for operation of the Illinois and Mississippi Canal; $70,000 for maintenance dredging of the south channel St. Clair River, Michigan.

Portrait of An Historian Talking to Himself

By HENDRIK VAN LOON

The kiddies have a new game. That is nice, for in a town without decent playgrounds and without a decent waterfront (there is water enough, God knows, but there is no front) the kiddies should be kept busy and amused these long and sweltering days.

Until recently the little darlings merely chased each other with toy pistols and shouted, "There! Take it!" while firing their miniature artillery into each other's faces. But toy pistols are only capable of a tiny noise. Firecrackers are much better. They go off with a loud bang. And so the kiddies have a new game. They sneak up on each other, while encouraging the weaker brethren with a strenuous "Let them have it, kid!" and then they throw the burning firecrackers at each other amidst loud shouts of joy and approbation.

For school is over. And the days are apt to be dull in a town without playgrounds and without an adequate waterfront. The kiddies therefore had to find some new way in which to entertain themselves. The generous benefactors of the Human Race, residing in distant Hollywood and in the mighty towers of our radio stations, showed them the way out.

The kiddies have a new game. They ceased to be gangsters with automatics. They are now gangsters with "pineapples."

In London there was a conference to settle the economic difficulties of the world. (Groans and loud cries of "Boloney!" from 97 sovereign states.) In Geneva there is a conference which will settle the military problems of our sorely beset planet. (Ditto from 128 sovereign states.) Ten thousand associations of pious men and women are invoking the principles of the Sermon on the Mount, that finally the "curse of war and poverty may be lifted from this earth." Foreign policy associations are eating public-spirited luncheons even on these hot and damp days. Foreign and domestic lecturers are traveling up and down the broad acres of our fair land to prove that sweet reasonableness (Tokio papers please copy) can deliver us from all our manifold ills. Ten thousand preachers have just informed a hundred thousand bright young lads and lassies that "the whole of the world is before them." ("You said a mouthful there, Dominie!") and that the fate of the future depends upon their own efforts. And ten hundred thousand small urchins, having just set themselves free from the shackles of school, are let loose upon our streets and parks (four trees, twelve blades of grass and seven popcorn concessions) to amuse themselves as best they can. They may only have got as far as the second grade, but in their hearts of hearts they are all of them graduates cum laude from the Great School of Wisdom of the Air and the Screen. They show by their games that they have applied themselves to their studies with diligence and care. They are throwing burning firecrackers at each other, and whenever they can register half a success, they smile gratefully at each other and exclaim, "I sure give it to him that time!"

The parents of those promising little darlings are simple folks. Their names never appear within the margins of this column for nobody cares whom they marry, when they marry or whether they are married at all. Their loves and hates and their silent longings are not worthy of being recorded for the benefit of the curious citizens of this or any other town. They are the sort of people whom future generations will merely know as "contemporaries." But they have one thing in common with their more renowned brethren and sisters—they occasionally beget children. Those children will be grown up within another 10 or 15 years. They are the "social body" of the year 1940 and 1950. May heaven have mercy upon us, for we know perfectly well what we are doing unto them, and all the same, we are doing it.

No, I am not shedding reminiscent tears upon the happy days of yore when the Peace of Paradise still dwelled upon this earth. We too, when young, were dreadful little snipes who loved nothing better than to do unto others what we, most certainly, did not want them to do unto ourselves and who improved each shining hour (or tried to do so) by means of some novel and devilish trick that could make the life of those who were either too old or too weak to defend themselves a little less comfortable. But we enjoyed one enormous advantage over the present-day youngsters. We were not systematically exposed to a process of mental corruption, which was foisted upon us merely for the sake of gain by a third party or parties. We were at least provided with a background of something just a little nobler and better and finer than that which we could distill out of our everyday existence. We still lived in a day and age that believed in certain definite and desirable standards of behavior and accomplishment. The mighty magnates that now control the eye and the ear have decreed otherwise. And possessed of the most powerful instruments of modern education (and corruption) they have set forth to make a profit out of the degradation of their next-of-kin. Slavery was doomed the moment the slave-holders began to "breed" their involuntary charges in all seriousness and then sold their own chocolate-colored progeny as work-fodder to the sugar plantations. Our modern society is bound to suffer a similar fate unless we can prevent a small group of money-chasers (the direct heirs of the proverbial money-chasers) from turning an entire race of youngsters into hysterical little psychopaths whose ears and eyes must forever be glued to something that can only be described by a single word, "ignoble."

What do I expect to do about it?

Not a thing.

Then why do I waste this whole column (the only time I shall ever get a chance to fill it) with this loud burst of protest and dissent?

Because I had to say it some time and I would so much rather say it where I know that most people will disagree with me than in other purlieus where the facts, as enumerated above, have long since been accepted as undeniable statements of a most unpalatable truth.

Disagree, my friends, disagree to your hearts' content and be damned to you. Laugh at the professors, the Brain Trust, the Futile Philosophers.

But when the crash comes, don't offer to weep on our shoulders. For we shall be otherwise occupied.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

One of the most dramatic scenes that ever happened during a sporting event, the collapse of Ellsworth Vines in Paris during his match with Fred Perry, of England, is presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with a graphic description by the Globe Trotter. Vines plays splendidly until the fourth set, when running for a wide ball a sprained ankle gives way and he falls. He falls unconscious in the sixth set and Perry is awarded the match by default.

Attorney General Cummings, in an impressive talk in Washington, outlines the government's plan to combine federal, state and local police forces in a determined effort to stamp out kidnaping and racketeering of all kinds.

First posed pictures are presented of John J. O'Connel, Jr., back home again in Albany after his release on a $40,000 ransom paid to kidnapers.

A Berlin inventor tries to send an oxygen rocket to the moon. It goes up about 300 feet, and then dives into a river.

Shivery scenes from all sorts of cool places, including the North Pole, are presented in an effort to overcome the effects of the heat.

Barbara Next To Age in Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—In a new picture, "Broadway and Back," Barbara Stanwyck will top all the other stars who have portrayed roles requiring them to advance from youth to the declining years.

She will appear first as a young girl, next as the mother of Ann Dvorak and finally as the grandmother of Patricia Ellis.

To accomplish this evolution, the Warner Brothers' make-up experts will have to achieve even greater miracles than won acclaim when Irene Dunne grew old in "Cimarron," when Norma Shearer lived through the years in "Strange Interlude" and when Mary Pickford became a gentle old lady in "Secrets."

Miss Stanwyck

Barbara's three-generations story is told against the background of the theater. In it, the heroine, disappointed in her own career, tries to guide her daughter to footlight success. But the daughter rebels against becoming an actress. It isn't until the third generation that the ageing heroine sees her ambitions satisfied.

Sheridan Gibney wrote "Broadway and Back" and Warners plan to give it an early production.

Latest news from Europe is that Douglas Fairbanks may make a picture over there. When Mary and Doug eventually get around to the divorce, there will be very little community property to be divided. Their interest in the United Artists studio and some real estate in Wilshire boulevard about sums it up.

Miss Pickford

Despite all rumors to the contrary, Benita Hume insists she will leave here between August 12 and 14 for London and marriage to Jack Dunfee, owner of a commercial printing house and well-known British sportsman.

For amusing wedding announcements, Alan Dinehart would award the prize to a friend of his who took the vows in New York Wednesday at high noon. At 12:05, the bridegroom telegraphed Dinehart ecstatically:

"And they say marriages don't last."

Up in Seattle, they're breaking house records following the world premiere of Marie Dressler and Wallie Berry in "Tugboat Annie." This town is the locale of the Norman Riley Raine stories on which the picture is based. Three women tug-boat owners up there claim to be the original of the heroine. Actually, she was a character in Providence, R. I.

Alice Brady is starting an autograph wall in her Beverly Hills home. Visiting celebrities are asked to write their names on it. It was Marie Prevost who introduced the fad in Hollywood years ago . . . The new home planned by Theda Bara and Charles Brabin will be modeled after an old world castle.

Miss Harding In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A nice combination of class and hokum, dimmed somewhat by a tantalizing vagueness, makes the Fulton's new-season opener, "Double Harness," pleasant entertainment. "Double Harness" co-stars Ann Harding and William Powell and it gives each opportunities to be light and gay and pleasant. In the case of Miss Harding, it is planned and studied gayety, for the woman she portrays is really a serious person, down deep. For acting and audience sympathy it is one of the best roles she has had on the screen, and she makes it even better than it has any right to be. And our Mr. Powell is keeping step artistically every moment.

With her younger sister a bride, Miss Harding makes up her mind that if she is ever going to be married herself she'll have to do something about it. So she picks out Mr. Powell, whom she really loves, and traps him into a situation that has only one honorable answer. So he marries the girl, although he is not the marrying kind. It is understood between them that there'll be a divorce in a reasonable time. When he has just about decided that married life suits him, he learns the truth about how the marriage was brought about—and walks out.

For no reason at all, he walks in again, just as his wife has put over a business deal that will help him a lot. He brings Ann's favorite flowers, too.

It is smart comedy, and, if sex doesn't stifle you, you should like it.

'Pop' Event Tonight

Ballet music from "The Nutcracker" suite by Tschaikowski, to be given at the "Pop" concert tonight by the Little Symphony Orchestra, under Victor Saudek, on the Hotel Schenley lawn. The celeste, only instrument of its kind in Pittsburgh, has been loaned for use in "The Nutcracker" suite. The celeste resembles a piano in miniature, and is played in the same way, but the effect is that of bells and chimes. Alta Schultz, contralto, will sing the Aria, "O Don Fatale," from the opera "Don Carlos," by Verdi. Orchestral numbers for tonight follow:

Overture "Phedre" ..... Massenet
Unfinished Symphony—Allegro Moderato ..... Schubert
Melodies from "The Desert Song" ..... Romberg
Ballet Suite, "The Nutcracker" ..... Tschaikowsky
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 ..... Liszt

Winchell Film Tale Based on Fact

Darryl Zanuck, first vice president in charge of production for Twentieth Century Pictures, which has purchased the story, "Broadway Thru a Keyhole," from Walter Winchell, said it is based on facts.

"'Broadway Thru a Keyhole,' he said, 'is based upon true facts and dramatic incidents in the private lives of the great and near-great of Broadway.'"

Notes About Photoplays In New Programs

Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery are featured in "Another Language," photoplay version of play of the same title, new screen attraction in the Penn today.

"Voltaire," latest George Arliss starring vehicle, with Doris Kenyon in the leading feminine role, is the Stanley screen attraction for the new week, opening today.

A comedy, "Her First Mate," co-starring Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts, today begins a week as the featured attraction in the Warner screen program.

The change of program in the Davis today brings "42nd Street" to that house for a week. Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, Dick Powell and Ruby Keller are in it.

In the Sheridan Square, beginning today, the double feature for a week will include Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong" and "A Study in Scarlet," a Sherlock Holmes tale.

The screen feature in the Enright for three days, beginning Saturday, will be Miriam Hopkins and Jack LaRue in "The Story of Temple Drake."

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Love in a Cottage

THE WINDOWS were all open, but it made no difference. The heat was stifling. Whatever slight breeze there may have been was coming in the kitchen window. So Mildred sat there most of the afternoon with her elbows on the sill and her chin cupped in her hands.

She gazed out over the expanse of dirty backyards and the maze of clothes lines. From the street came the sound of honking cabs and noisy trucks, and the rumble of the "L" trains. From the open kitchen windows facing on the rear court she could hear women shouting and laughing. She could hear the dumbwaiter groaning with a load of ice.

And Mildred thought: I hate it: I hate the city . . .

She had thought that for a long time. Ever since she had been forced to confine her play to the sidewalk when she had been a mere tot. The city had always seemed big, and hard, and sometimes very brutal.

Life seemed to be divided into two distinct parts. The first was day life, which consisted of eating, working, worrying, and fighting with a narrow-minded father. The second half was the night life, which consisted of getting dolled up and guzzling cheap gin in cheaper dance halls.

So, with an outlook like that, you can't blame Mildred for hating the city. And, by the same token, you can't blame her for accepting Fred's proposal of marriage.

Fred, you see, was not a city boy. As a matter of fact, he was the direct antithesis of the cosmopolitan male. He had hayseed in his hair and lard on his shoes. But he was a clean kid. And honest. And a little dumb.

Mildred had met him in a Catskill camp one summer. Fred, who had no folks, owned a little cottage there. And, on some summer nights, she had allowed him to take her for a little ride in his second-hand flivver.

When she left the camp for home, she forgot Fred and the car. But Fred didn't forget Mildred. Not by a long shot. He wrote to her often and sometimes made trips to the city to see her. When the proper time arrived, Fred had proposed. And when the proper time had elapsed, Mildred had accepted.

Married life in the country appealed to Mildred very, very much. It sounded clean, and sweet, and wholesome. It brought to mind green pastures, beautiful landscapes, the smell of roses after rain, and a vine-covered cottage.

So while her mother cried and the church organ wailed, Mildred was duly wedded to Fred. And within an hour, the happy couple had started on their way to a place they would call "home." What did it matter that Fred's job paid but a very small salary? What did it matter that the flivver shook?

Those things were trivial . . .

Now, with your permission, we will skip a year in the lives of Mildred and Fred. And in a year, a whole lot of things can happen—and usually do.

In Mildred's eyes, the vine-covered cottage was now a hut in the wilderness. The green pastures were barren fields. The beautiful landscapes were sickening. And the smell of roses after rain had changed to something akin to a stable.

Fred, too, had changed in her eyes. The clearness, the wholesomeness of her husband had altered considerably. Now, he seemed to be just a stupid man who understood nothing of the finer things in life, and who could be found every evening tinkering and hammering in the garage.

Mildred's heart ached for the city. The memory of the squalid tenements and the roar of the street traffic almost made her cry with homesickness. For a chance to see the whiteish glare of Broadway at night with its ever-hurrying crowds, Mildred would have given her life.

But when friends came to visit her over the week-ends, Mildred never showed a sign of caring for the city. She proudly showed them the surrounding mountains, pointing them out by name, and told them how she could buy a dozen of the freshest eggs for the price of a package of cigarets, and—oh, all those things you hear at vacation time.

Joe was the best listener. He never missed a word she uttered. And Mildred never missed a glance that he tossed her way. She hadn't forgotten Joe. He had been her "steady" for a while. He had black, shiny hair and oily skin. He'd rather dance than eat. He had lived in the big city all his life, and he knew everything about everybody.

That's why Mildred had tossed him over in favor of Fred.

Now, however, Joe was very much in demand. He visited the little cottage every week-end throughout the summer, and sat for hours telling Mildred glamorous stories of the city and old friends there.

One day, while Fred was out in the garage, Joe grabbed Mildred's hand.

"Lissen, kid," he said quickly, "I know Fred's a nice guy, but I also know that you ain't happy with him. You know I'm crazy about you—always have been. Now, if I'm on the wrong track, you can steer me straight right now. Do you love me, honey?"

Mildred bowed her head without reply. But she didn't pull the hand away.

Little by little, Joe replaced Fred in Mildred's affections. Then one day near the end of the summer, when Mildred was bragging about the beauty of country life to a group of friends, Joe took Fred to one side and broke the bad news.

He said that Mildred loved him, and no longer cared for Fred. He said that she wanted a divorce right away.

Fred proved to be a very good sport, if nothing else. He talked the thing over with Mildred, and bowed to the inevitable.

"If you love Joe," he said, "you love him, and that's all there is to that. I won't stand in your way. It wouldn't do me any good anyway."

Mildred, despite her happiness, felt a little sorry for Fred. But when she thought of the beautiful big city and the good times ahead, she couldn't help but grin with glee.

"Fred," she said, "I'll be packed up and ready to leave in the morning. And don't be sorry. You'll find a better girl than me, who will make you very happy."

Fred smiled vaguely, and walked out into the garage . . .

The following morning, she looked out into the garage. The flivver was gone. Fred, she figured, had probably arisen early to get the mail from the village postoffice.

Suddenly, she felt moist lips on her neck, and turned. Joe grinned with the pride of a schoolboy.

"Honey," he said, "I've got a grand surprise for you. I've always hated the city and so have you. So last night, when Fred told me he could never be happy here any more, I bought this cottage for us two!" . . .

RUM CHEAPER IN CITY

Steve Brito, 40, of McKees Rocks, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in night court it was cheaper to get drunk in the city than in McKees Rocks. Arraigned on a charge of drunkenness, Brito was asked by Rothenberg why he didn't do his drinking at home. He replied:

"In McKees Rocks they charge 50 cents for a pint of moonshine. I can get a pint of stuff even more powerful right here in the downtown for 20 cents a pint."

Brito said he couldn't afford to pay a steeper price for his drinks. He was discharged with a warning that a return trip to night court would result in a workhouse sentence.

MARSHAL FIRED OVER M'CLURE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Record says Walter C. Fetters, United States marshal for the Eastern Pennsylvania federal district, was dismissed yesterday by Attorney General Cummings, who notified him by letter. The newspaper said:

"The chief complaint against Fetters was his extraordinary solicitude toward State Senator John J. McClure after McClure, with 95 others, was indicted by a federal grand jury in a federal drive against vice and graft in Delaware County."

Fetters' term did not expire until next February.

It had been reported that Joseph Reing, veteran Schuylkill County Democrat, would be named to Fetters' place within the week.

4 TRUCK LINE PERMITS ASKED

Four certificates for operation of motor vehicles to transport building materials awaited final action of the Public Service Commission today.

The applicants, given preliminary hearings yesterday, are Edward Zurcher, E. L. Atkinson, A. Sanguigni & Sons Co. and H. J. Endres. Endres' application was the only one unopposed by railroad interests.

These truck routes are sought by the applicants: Zurcher, within the limits of Wilkinsburg and a 50-mile radius; Atkinson, within a radius of 35 miles of the City-County Building; Sanguigni & Sons, within a radius of 150 miles of the city, and Endres, within a radius of 150 miles of Munhall.

Three Diamond Rings Stolen from Woman

Theft of three diamond rings valued at $390 was reported to detectives today by Mary Pinello, of 940 West North avenue.

CHARGE UTILITY KILLED PENSION

CLEVELAND, AUG. 4.—(AP.)—An assertion that old age pension legislation was defeated in the last session of the Ohio Legislature because of "invisible opposition" of a public utilities lobby was made last night by Franke E. Berrodin, of Akron, grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, as the order opened its state and national conventions.

The order secured 100,000 signatures to petitions for an initiated bill calling for old age pensions and the bill was defeated.

Berrodin declared:

"I charge that the public utilities lobby has a strangle hold on the Legislature. Our bill was defeated in the Senate by only two votes. The electorate will not be strangled by the public utilities."

He declared that the Eagles led the fight for old age pensions in eight states which were added to the list of states enacting such legislation during the past year.

SAFETY ISLANDS FOR HILL

Elimination of pedestrian hazards at intersections of Herron avenue with Bryn Mawr road and Milwaukee street through the construction of pedestrian safety islands was announced by City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre today as the first recommendation of the Hill District Traffic Clinic to be placed in effect.

Work on the two pedestrian safety islands with lighting beacons on each will begin next week. Pedestrian crosswalks and street arrow markings for motorists will be painted about the islands.

ADMITS FIRING AT WIFE

A 62-year-old Penn Township man went to the county jail to await court hearing on a charge of assault with intent to kill his gray-haired wife.

He is Robert Marlowe, of the Leechburg road, who, Oakmont police say, fired four shots from a revolver at his wife Wednesday night. Mrs. Marlowe, also 62, said she slept in the barn because she feared for her life.

Music for Moods

Whatever your mood, there's music to meet it in Jessica Dragonette's program tonight at 8 over WCAE.

Miss Dragonette, the Cavaliers, a piano duo and Rosario Bourdon's orchestra sing and play of spring, summer and autumn; moonlight and pattering rain; hearts and home, flowers and fiddles.

Vic Young and his orchestra play Victor Herbert's plaintive "When You're Away." They are heard over WCAE at 9:30.

Wheat Control

M. L. Wilson, in charge of the government's wheat production control, explains the administration's plan to distribute $90,000,000 among wheat farmers who agree to raise less wheat. It is the first of a series of four Department of Agriculture programs, and is heard over KDKA at 11:15.

A story for stamp savers is heard over WJAS at 7, when the picture on the "Farming in the West" stamp of the trans-Mississippi series comes to life in a radio drama.

C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of physical education in Pittsburgh high schools, speaks over WWSW at 7:15.

Virginia Harmon Bivin and Neil Mowry, Pittsburgh soprano and tenor, sing solos and a duet on KDKA's Spotlight spot at 6:30.

Comedy Tonight

Gags and wisecracks fly thick and fast for two straight hours tonight. There's the Potash and Perlmutter nonsense over KDKA at 8:30, Irvin S. Cobb's elastic yarns over WJAS at 9, the banter of Phil Baker, Bottle and Beetle on KDKA at 9:30, the Lou Holtz' hokum on WJAS at 10:30.

And AUGUST STARTS OFF with a BANG!

Due to Popular Demand, We Will Continue To Sell Frigidaire on the Meter-Ice Plan During August! Our advice is to "Breaking All Previous Sales Records"

Buy Now Before a Possible Price Rise

NO MONEY DOWN

Just tell us that you want the new Frigidaire that uses no more current than an ordinary light bulb. We'll deliver it into your home at once, without a down payment, and then all you pay is

15¢ A DAY

This is probably less than you pay for ice. Just 15c a day gives you the most perfect kind of refrigeration and helps to pay for Frigidaire. There's not a penny waste!

10,000 men are kept busy at the great General Motors Plants building Frigidaires to meet the greatest demand in Frigidaire history. Here at Spear's we, too, are kept busier than ever selling them as fast as we can get them. 15 carloads in July alone. And we expect to better that record in August! The reason is that Frigidaire is an UNBEATABLE VALUE, and the Meter-Ice Plan the most economical way to enjoy this superior refrigeration while conveniently paying for it.

There is no increase in price, yet, but there is a strong possibility of a rise in the near future. To protect yourself, Buy Now. You don't have to outlay a single penny. No money Down and 15c a day is the Meter-Ice Plan in a nutshell. It's exclusive with Spear's as applied to the genuine FRIGIDAIRE.

Our Bond Protects You!

Our Bond of Security given with every purchase made on our deferred payment plan guarantees that in the event of the wage earner's death before payments have been completed, the merchandise remains with the family and a PAID-IN-FULL receipt will be issued to them for the unaccrued payments.

There is no increase in Frigidaire prices, yet. You can still buy a genuine Frigidaire for $99. It's the latest model, with one-fourth more storage space and makes more ice than any other electric refrigerator at this price! Uses no more current than an ordinary light bulb. Many new conveniences that give the woman in the kitchen more freedom and leisure.

Ring Those Chimes

Here's an interesting document received by NBC from one who signs himself Frank X. Brearton, of Cincinnati, and if you ask me, or even if you don't, it has the makings of an idea.

"Dear sir: My home where I was borned is out in Ira, Iowa. For the past month I have been with a kin folk in Cincinati, looking for work. So far I haven't got any. All the chores around here are done by charity felows.

"I used to lisen to your programs. Since I ben lisening so long I got a good idea which I'll give you if you will let me work for you and work this idea of mine.

"You might have not notice it but I have—after every program you wring some kind of a chime. My idea is let me wring the chime for you, I won't play the same tune all the time and I'm good at bell wring because I bought a zilafone, and used to play the simbel my first year of high school in the band.

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

One of the ladies who has been attending the fights at Forbes Field these recent afternoons passes along a suggestion to Prexy Benswanger.

She wants him to recruit all the grandstand managers and let them help run the team from the players' box. She was almost driven cuckoo by several seated around her who went into a huddle after each play.

2 AUTO CRASHES SEND 10 TO HOSPITALS

3 Wreck on Bridge; Machines Collide In Wilkinsburg

Ten persons were injured in two automobile accidents—one on the Liberty Bridge and the other in Wilkinsburg—last night.

Five were hurt in a triple crash on the bridge which involved automobiles driven by Miss Gertrude Mayer, of 2941 Glenmore avenue, Dormont; Miss Ruth Kalson, of 2018 Center avenue, and Morris Kaufman, of 926 Jancey street, police said.

The injured were Miss Kalson, two passengers in her car, Miss Esther Miller, 21, of 819 Cassatt street, and Miss Mildred Romack, 23, of 205 Morewood avenue, and Miss Mayer and her sister, Katharine, 25. They were taken to Mercy Hospital.

Five others were injured when automobiles driven by William Linhart, 17, son of Dr. W. O. Linhart, of Second street, Jeannette, and Howard Thompson, 30, of 1364 Montezuma street, collided at Kelly and West streets, Wilkinsburg, according to police report.

Dr. Linhart, his wife, son and mother-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Wyckoff, and Thompson, suffering cuts and bruises, erwe treated at Columbia Hospital. Another son, Randolph Linhart, 14, escaped injury.

Edward H. Johnston, R. D. No. 1, Wilkinsburg, was taken to Columbia Hospital after being struck by an automobile in Wood street, Wilkinsburg, last night, police reported.

Clara Jane Kenney, 4, of 549 Lobinger avenue, North Braddock, and Pasquale Catone, 48, of 209 Mill street, Rankin, were treated at Braddock General Hospital after being struck by autos near their homes yesterday.

FALL OFF TRUCK INJURES GIRLS

Jolted from the rear end of a picnic truck in West Carson street late last night, Dorothy Lesnercher, 17, of 211 Superior avenue, Aliquippa, and Stella Gravor, 20, of 209 Hopewell avenue, Aliquippa, were in Mercy Hospital today in serious condition. Miss Lesnercher was suffering from a probable fracture of the skull and Miss Gravor back and body injuries.

The girls were members of a party of 18 en route from a Serbian picnic at Kennywood Park. The truck was driven by Peter Weinhold, of 139 Hopewell avenue, Aliquippa.

Homicide detectives investigating the accident after it had been reported Weinhold did not stop, said the driver saw to the removal of the girls to the hospital and then continued on his way. He was to be questioned again today.

Police Get Bomb Lesson After Scare Over Toy

The police got a lesson today on how to recognize a bomb, and what to do with it.

Yesterday they were fooled. They soaked a contraption found wired to the motor of an automobile owned by Dr. W. O. Markell, of 413 Whitney street, Wilkinsburg, in a pan of water and then found it was a trick novelty designed only to frighten.

The instruction went out in the form of a general order from Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide's office. It was prepared by the Pennsylvania State Police, Bureau of Indentification.

For one thing, the men were told to beware of the contents of any bottle that "looks like whisky." It was explained that nitroglycerin looks like whisky.

The order went into details concerning the appearance of various explosives from plain gunpowder to bombs in package form. The manner of disposing of each was explained. For instance, it said:

"In transporting suspected bombs, they should be covered with a mattress, planks or other material calculated to minimize damage if the bomb should explode."

The warning about nitroglycerin's resemblance to whisky was:

"When known criminals, safe blowers in particular, are arrested and a bottle or can is found on their person or in their automobile, and the contents look like whisky, never take it for granted that it is whisky, as nitroglycerin particularly is of the same color, and criminals carry nitroglycerin in this manner. Before destroying the container found on the criminals, first smell the contents. If the odor is not that of whisky, regard it as nitroglycerin and take proper precautions in handling it."

POLICE FASHION DEBATE HELD

Resolved, That law enforcers of the past were more snappily dressed than policemen of today. That was the subject of a debate in the Superintendent of Police's office yesterday.

It was an extemporaneous discussion, starting with the finding of several old constable and police uniforms in a hidden nook. They had been used in the Pittsburgh centennial celebration in 1908.

It was shown that James Trainor, statistician, would have made a fine looking officer back when Pittsburgh was a borough, for, dressed in the conventional police uniform of that time, with pipe in mouth, he looked as though he stepped from the family album. His assistant, Jimmy Walsh, with red coat and three-cornered hat, might easily have passed as the town constable when the English dominated the three rivers.

For the negative was Patrolman Sylvester Stoehr, there to demonstrate the modern's point. But with no judges avaliable, neither a decision as to the merits of the debators nor to the uniforms could be made.

STRATOSPHERE HOP TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle, youthful naval officer, decided today to begin his journey into the stratosphere 10 miles above the clouds in quest of scientific knowledge at 12 o'clock (Pittsburgh time) tonight.

Weather observers completed a survey of the western hemisphere and decided atmospheric conditions were good. Settle has waited weeks for the right weather.

A ground crew of 100 men was called to await near the huge balloon—constructed from an acre of fabric—that will carry Settle swinging away toward the August moon in a sealed gondola built of a metal alloy 25 per cent lighter than aluminum.

For a period of 20 to 30 hours Settle will ride high above the earth. Instruments with him in the round gondola, seven feet in diameter, will set down, scientists hope, valuable facts about the cosmic ray—the exact nature of which no man knows.

AUTOISTS EVADE PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS

Hundreds of Warrants Not Served, Says Magistrate

Magistrate J. Scott Morgan, of Traffic Court, today admitted "hundreds of warrants" had never been served on automobile law violators, but declared this was not due to any failure on the part of his office. He denied there was a "preferred list" of those discharged when tagged. Morgan said:

"I know there are hundreds of warrants issued, but never served. We are now getting up a list of these and I expect to ask for another motorcycle policeman to help serve them. We now have two.

"The reasons many of these warrants have not been served are these: Many persons change their address without notifying the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, as required by law. The only address we have is the one they gave when they first obtained license plates.

"In many instances the owner of the car is not at home and when he finds out a policeman is seeking to serve him with a warrant for any violation, it is almost impossible to find him in.

"Many of the warrants were issued against out-of-town drivers. Some of these send in the amount of their fine. Others plead ignorance of the city's traffic regulatoins. Many live so far away that the city would not be justified in the expense necessary to bring them in.

"A summons is issued three days after a tag is issued unless the driver comes in. If they ignore that, a warrant is issued.

"We are not concerned so much with the first and second offenders as with habitual violators.

"The fact that Pittsburgh is the safest driving city in the country, speaks well, I believe, for the enforcement of our traffic laws."

A $2 added penalty is provided when a warrant is necessary.

Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., said while Traffic Court itself was not under his jurisdiction, the patrolmen and clerical force were connected with his department. He said:

"I expect to confer with Supt. of Police McQuaide today regarding the inability of the Traffic Court officers to serve warrants. Men are assigned to that task and I want to know why they can't get it done."

Dentists Warned To Shun Danger Of U. S. Control

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Government supervision within a year was the prospect held out for medical and dental professions today by Dr. Edward J. Ryan, editor of Dental Digest, at the conventions of the American Academy of Periodentology, a dental group treating diseases of the gums. The doctor said:

"Unless we as a profession take steps to supply community dental care, a socially minded government will do it for us."

He warned that "charging all the traffic would bear" was poor practice, and urged the doctors to establish a bureau to keep control of dental administration within the profession.

Government intervention, he said, might take the form of health insurance or public clinics.

APPOINTMENT OF ENGINEER EXPECTED

Trees Declares Board Soon Will Accept Applications

Appointment of a state engineer for Pennsylvania's branch of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works was expected today or tomorrow, to complete organization here in readiness for application by municipalities for federal aid in work-giving projects.

Chairman Joseph G. Trees, of the State Advisory Board, said today that the engineer's appointment would enable the board to receive applications from municipalities sometime next week.

EXECUTIVE OFFICER

The engineer will be the executive officer of the board, and will be in charge of the offices of the administration in Harrisburg.

He will approve applications before they go to Trees' board of three, which will pass approved projects on to Regional Administrator Edward J. Flinn, in New York, for his approval.

At a meeting with Flinn and advisory boards from New York and New Jersey in New York yesterday, Trees said it was decided to concentrate on projects which can be quickly executed.

Trees emphasized the ruling of the administration that "the immediate program shall include only such projects as can be started within 30 days, are safe and sufficient from an engineering standpoint, are necessary and convenient from a social standpoint" and whose applicant has a balanced budget.

30-DAY RULING

He could not tell whether the 30-day ruling meant that detailed plans must be started in 30 days or that bids must be opened and contracts let within 30 days.

At a County Commissioners' meeting here Tuesday, the Commissioners turned down suggestions that men be put to work for two months drawing up detailed plans of the projects the county is asking aid for, on the

BOY CONFESSES MURDER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Sensation seeker or cold blooded murderer?

That question puzzled detectives today as they backtracked again over the "confession" of Phillips Edwards, 19, who calmly declared that he had mutilated and killed Dalbert Aposhian, 7-year-old San Diego schoolboy.

"I can prove that I killed Dalbert Aposhian."

Puzzled detectives thought it better that an alienist examine Edwards before they questioned him further concerning the Aposhian murder. Edwards' conflicting story was mystifying to investigators.

Elizabeth Doctor Held in Auto Death

Dr. M. A. Cohn, of Elizabeth, was held for action of the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter today following a Coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Clara M. Hoak from injuries received in an automobile collision on July 14.

Mrs. Hoak received a fractured skull when a car driven by her husband, Elmer Hoak, of Elizabeth, collided with that driven by Dr. Cohn in Bellebridge. She died July 16 in McKeesport Hospital.

DEMOCRATS RIP PHILA. G. O. P.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—With a committee of nine to co-operate in its navigation, Philadelphia's Democratic ship is launched on a course which its skipper says bans all "dealing with Republicans."

The chairman of the Democratic city committee, County Commissioner John O'Donnell, started the party on its new course last night with a denunciation of the "Republican machine that has so ruthlessly brought Philadelphia to the verge of financial collapse while remaining singularly blind to the needs of the sick, aged and the unemployed."

Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, was named on the advisory committee. Other members include John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and William C. Bullitt, Assistant Secretary of State.

New Yorker Named Envoy to Nicaragua

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Remember when the London conference couldn't do anything until Moley arrived?

When Moley got there nothing happened except that Moley got there.

They had to change the slogan. It became:

"We can do nothing until Moley leaves."

That glorious stalemate stopped all agitation to alter the legend on the silver dollar to:

"In brains we trust."

The professor then retired on an active pension to the State Department. He did such heavy thinking on light topics that the scales wouldn't balance.

So he was promoted sideways to the crime commission and will do all the ponderous thinking for the Department of Justice, which can pack a basket lunch and go on a big picnic.

HILL MAN HELD BY 'FIXED' DICE

A set of "phony" dice caused detention of Thomas Montgomery, 33, Negro, of 9 Elmore street, today by secret service agents who hope to learn the source of counterfeit $1 biils circulated in the Hill district.

Montgomery and three others were arrested by police in a raid two days ago. Police said one of a set of "phony" dice wrapped in two counterfeit bills, was found stuffed in the cushions of the patrol wagon in which the men were taken to the Penn Avenue Police Station. The mate to the die, they said, was in Montgomery's pocket. He was discharged at the police station but was turned over to the secret service investigators.

PHYSICIAN HELD IN AUTO DEATH

Dr. Arthur M. Cohen, a physician, of Elizabeth, was held on a manslaughter charge by a Coroner's jury today in the death of Mrs. Clara M. Hoak, 21, of Elizabeth, July 14.

The woman was fatally injured July 14, when the automobile driven by her husband, Elmer Hoak, was making a left turn at an intersection of the Glassport road, and was struck by Dr. Cohen's car coming in the opposite direction, according to the testimony.

The accident occurred in daylight and Dr. Cohen was driving fast, the testimony disclosed.

NATIONAL GUARD BREAKS CAMP

CAMP RICKARDS, MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Summer camp training for close to 5,000 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen ended today as the soldiers packed away supplies and equipment and prepared to return home.

Western Pennsylvanians of the 2nd Battalion, 107th Field Artillery regiment, under Col. Eric Fisher Wood, of Pittsburgh, were to march away from their camp at Indiantown Gap late this afternoon.

Leaving the Mt. Gretna encampment tonight after evening's mess are the 1st and 3rd Battalions of the 112th Infantry, under Col. C. Blaine Smathers, with companies from Grove City, Butler, Ridgway, Oil City, Corry, Meadville, Ford City, Bradford, Kane, Warren, and Franklin. The 2nd Battalion of this regiment, with units from Erie, will remain in the field at Brownsville on strike duty.

British Inventor, 83, Marries Singer, 34

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Sir John Ambrose Fleming, 83-year-old electrical engineer renowned as one of Britain's famous scientists, was married secretly last week to Miss Olive May Franks, 34, concert singer, it was learned today.

Sir John, among many other scientific achievements, is the inventor of the thermionic valve, which revolutionzed radio telegraphy and made modern radio possible.

3.2 Beer Increases Number of Towns

DES MOINES.—Legalization of 3.2 beer in Iowa has had one unique and unexpected result—the incorporation of a halt score new municipalities. The state law specifies that permits to sell beer may be issued only within municipalities. So a number of rural districts which wanted beer have incorporated so they can obtain permits to sell it.

Dr. Baker, Home Again, Has Secret Up Sleeve

Following a "mysterious" trip to Europe, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, was back in his office today.

Comfortably seated at his desk in his shirt sleeves, he laughingly told a reporter that he had tried to keep his jaunt abroad a secret—and hadn't succeeded. But its purpose he refused to disclose.

His trip to Europe, he conceded, however, had been in the interests of science. He promised a "wonderful" story in a few weeks. His trip he described as interesting and successful.

Dr. Baker visited England, France and Germany.

Regarding the present European state of mind, he said:

"The French regard our NRA plan with fear, afraid that they will have to go off the gold standard. The British seem to be studying it with interest. But in Germany it is difficult to determine what the people think, the press is so completely dominated by the Hitler government. Everywhere, there was ridicule for the London Economic Conference with the United States getting much of the blame."

McGovern Starts War On Poster 'Outlaws'

Terming the bill-posting companies who plaster public-owned buildings with signs and placards nothing less than "a bunch of outlaws," County Commissioner C. C. McGovern has moved to prosecute persons responsible. He declared:

"These companies are a bunch of outlaws and we will make them stop it. They ruined lots of property last election time. I don't want to cause any trouble for the little fellow they hire by the day who handles the brush, but we will have to get after the ones back of it."

The Commissioners told the Law Department to report on possible legal steps to stop the practice and punish the guilty.

The discussion began after employes of the Department of Elections had complained of the number of signs being posted on polling places.

The Elections Bureau men reported that only yesterday they had seen a man posting bills on a county-owned polling place in the Twelfth Ward. They advertised two park picnics, a swimming pool in the suburbs and the week's showings at a theater.

BANKERS BACK OF EXCHANGE REFORMS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The New York Stock Exchange reforms, designed to reduce the racketeering element in security trading, were hastened by banking pressure, it is learned.

In addition to the natural impulse to pursue self-regulation to ward off political control, the stock exchange found it necessary to tighten margin requirements to conform to the new policies of the great Wall street banks.

As a phase of the "new deal" in Wall street, it is understood the Federal Reserve Bank reminded member banks that under the new banking legislation banks borrowing at the reserve bank would not be expected to be granting speculative loans.

MORE CASH REQUIRED

The effect of this ruling is to make the individual speculator put up a larger share of the funds needed to finance his operation.

Although officially an effort has been made to have the stock exchange action seem spontaneous, it is known that the great lending institutions have "co-operated" closely with the management of the New York Stock Exchange.

This new partnership apparently has not been ended by the announcement of reforms in stock exchange rules. It is the desire of the banks to have a representative meet periodically—perhaps once a week—with members of the business conduct committee of the stock exchange to discuss the whole speculative picture.

BANKS TAKE STEP

Recognizing that a resumption of the crudities and excesses of the 1929 markets would doubtless result in crippling legislation, the banks began to put on the screws more than a fortnight ago. Their action in arbitrarily reducing the loan value of liquor stocks and other volatile issues was the immediate cause of the stock market reaction, which might therefore be characterized as a "managed reaction."

The banks are continuing this policy of fixing arbitrary loan values for stocks rather than accepting market prices, irrespective of manipulation.

Moreover, the banks as a definite policy are insisting that loan envelopes be well diversified and not overbalanced with some speculative leader. This tends to make it more difficult to blow up speculative bubbles anew.

BECAME SKEPTICAL

This increased discrimination on the part of the banks goes back to a policy in use before the panic. As 1929 advanced, the banks became skeptical of market prices, and began to determine arbitrary loan values, which better reflected intrinsic values as measured by actual earning power.

For example, before the bull excitement, public utility operating companies used to sell for about five times gross earnings. But then competition in buying them up for holding companies by Samuel Insull and others resulted in market prices runnng up to as high as 30 times earnings. At that juncture, banks refused to accept market prices as a basis for loans.

Then after the sequel of panic and depression, banks found that most stocks were selling at receivership prices. Then they began to sell at depression prices, and in the last few months of renewed bull manipulation banks found that in some instances stocks were selling far above intrinsic values.

CONTROL STEP URGED

In order to control the lunatic fringe, some think it would be better for the banks, rather than brokers, to pass on loans to individual traders. The raising of minimum margins from 25 per cent to 30 per cent of the debit balance is regarded by some observers as only an initial step in the direction of getting nearer a cash basis of trading.

A factor in the reasoning of the New York bankers is the continuing desire to keep bank funds reasonably liquid, so that they can meet even extraordinary calls from their depositors. Under the new banking legislation, the banks can get currency against most of their commercial loans as well as against government bonds.

Loans to brokers and other collateral loans, however, are not subject to rediscount at the Federal Reserve Bank, and are therefore not genuinely liquid. Accordingly, conservative bankers are setting up definite limits, or ratios, to brokers' loans.

SCORN SUCKER LABEL

In toning down speculation, bankers were anxious to avoid interference with the administration's recovery program. Likewise, they wanted to get the market out of the hands of the lunatic fringe—out of the control of those without adequate capital or financial knowledge.

The time had come, leaders thought, to make it clear that the stock exchange was not to be regarded as a clearing house for suckers.

MATTHEW R. BROWN
Mr. Brown, Clan Robertson, chairman for the annual Scottish picnic at Kennywood Park.

Sons and Daughters Of Old Chiefs to Dance to Pipes

One of the gayest summer pageants of the Pittsburgh district take place tomorrow when thousands of Scots go to Kennywood Park for the annual "gathering of the clans."

Clansmen arrayed in plaids will march to Highland piping; tartans of the Gordons, MacDonalds, MacPhersons and other age-old royal houses will be worn; tough sons of Scotia will test muscle in a tug of war; dainty lasses will toe the intricate steps of sword dance or Highland fling.

Royal Chief Duncan MacInness, head of all Scottish clans in America, who is controller of the City of New York, is to be present. So is Past Royal Chief Col. Walter Scott, who served with the New York Highlander Regiment. Dancers and athletes from all parts of the country and from Canada will try to wrest prizes from local Scots.

There are 36 events on a program of Highland dancing, ancient Scottish sports and bagpipe matches. Piping competitions are open to all contestants. In addition the old Celtic shean trubhas will be danced and three numbers are for Irish jigs. Four teams of the Daughters of Scotia will march with the precision that characterizes the Black Watch. Matthew R. Brown, of Clan Robertson, is general chairman.

ROLPH URGED TO VETO TAX

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(Universal.)—Legislators and civic leaders, employers and wage earners, men and women from all walks of life, have joined in the statewide demand that Gov. Rolph veto the state income tax measure.

From all parts of Southern California letters and telegrams went to Sacramento pointing out the dangerous features of the bill and urging an immediate veto.

The Southern California Association Opposed to Income Tax pushed ahead with plans to organize groups throughout the southern part of the state which will take united action, not only against the proposed state law but against the income tax in general.

HARLAN UNDER ARMED GUARD

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Fifty National Guardsmen were patroling Harlan today to prevent a recurrence of pre-election bloodshed between warring political factions.

The force of state troops, armed with rifles, three machine guns and tear gas bombs, will remain on duty until after the primary elections tomorrow.

Mayor L. O. Smith ordered out the militiamen after a gun fight at Kenvir, in which Robert Roark, 35, was killed and several others were wounded, one probably fatally. The fight occurred in a house where a ballot box was being kept.

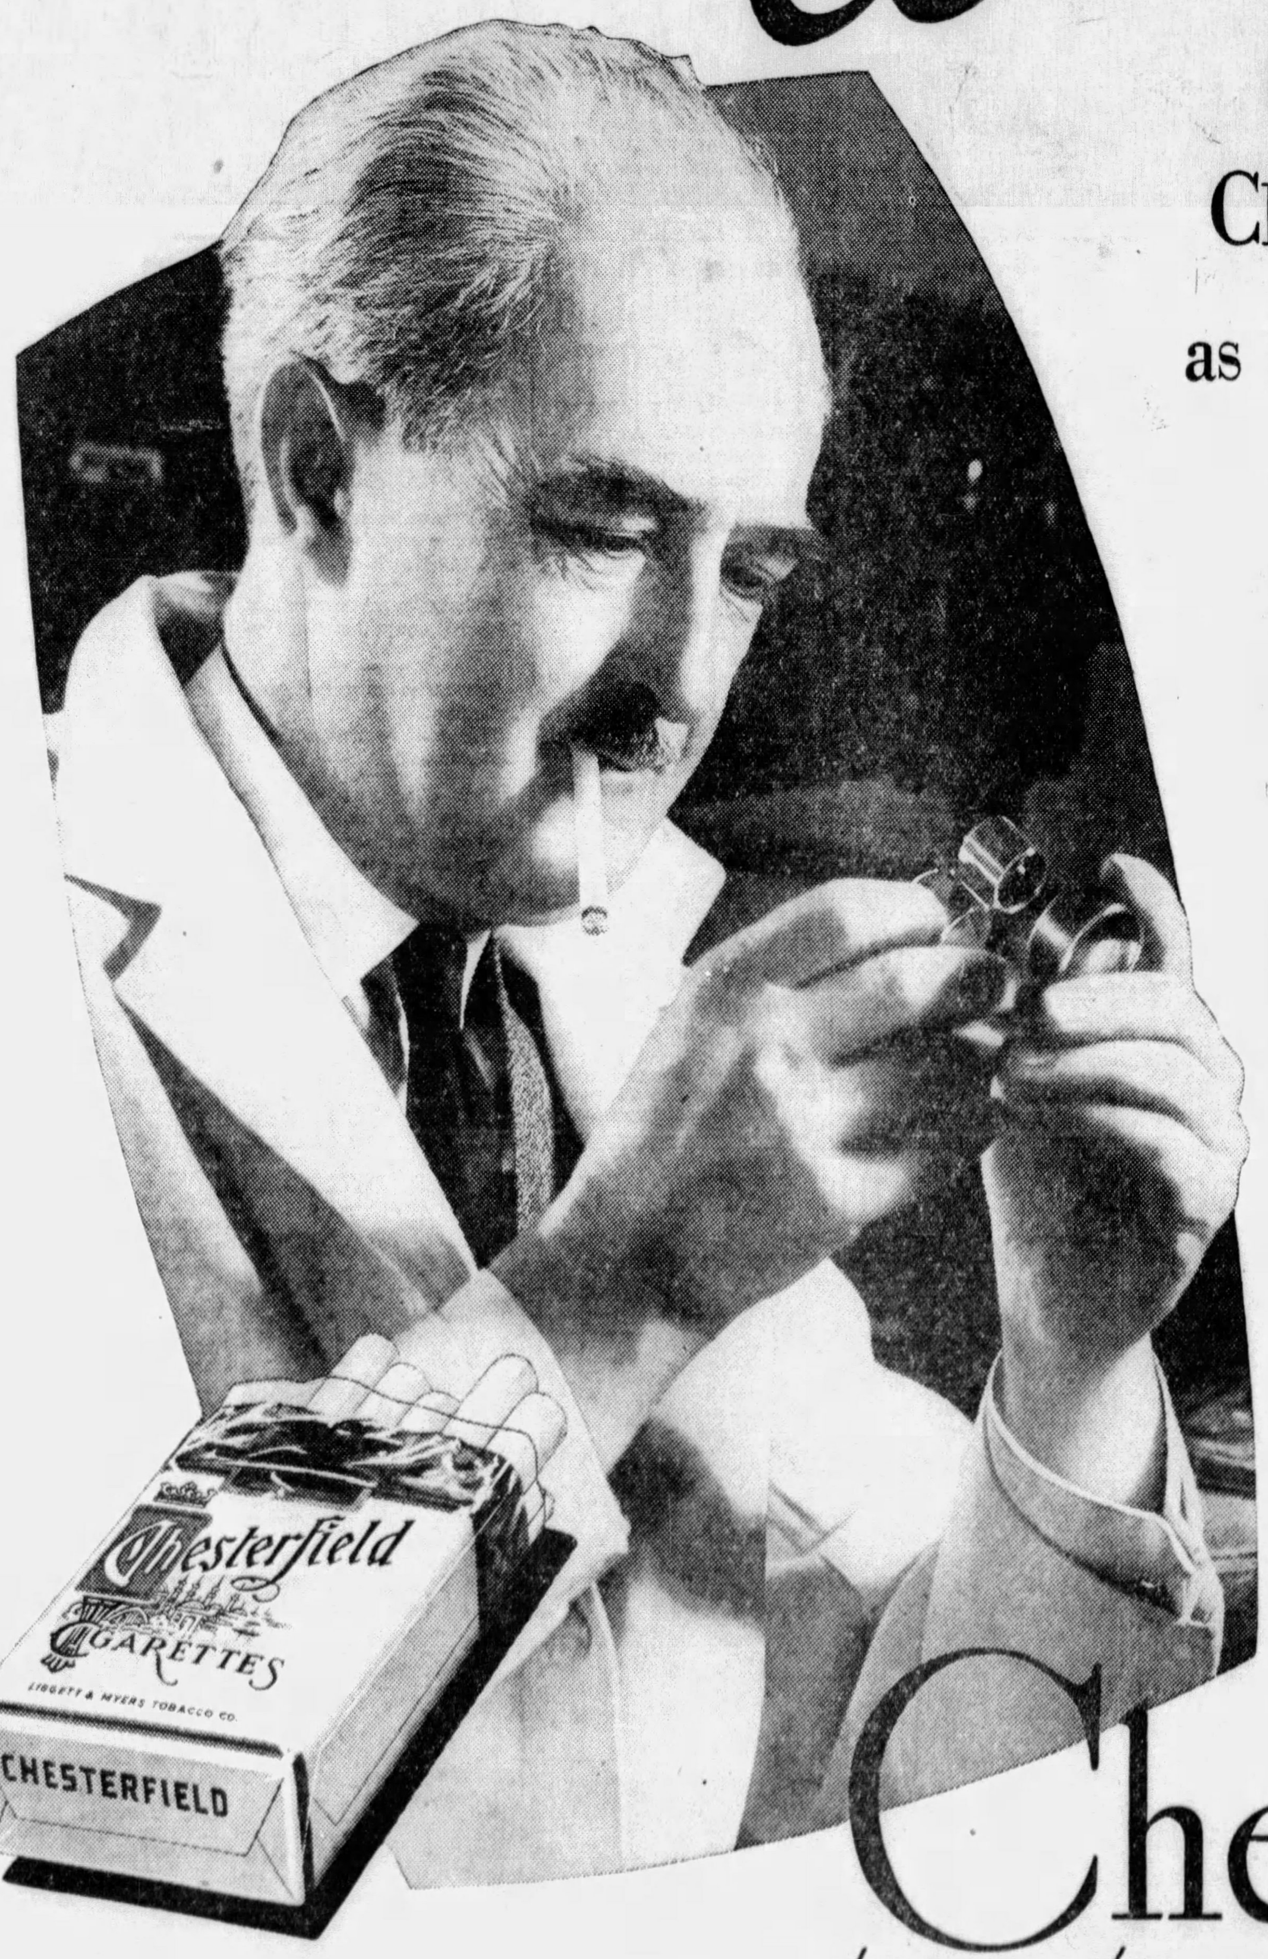
Why—



Chesterfields are as good as Science and Money can make them

Every pound of Domestic tobacco used in Chesterfield cigarettes is aged for thirty months—2½ years. Science knows there is no other way to make cigarette tobaccos mild and mellow.

Every process used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is modern, scientific and clean—visitors are always impressed with the cleanliness of the Chesterfield factories.

Every ingredient, including the paper, is pure—nothing that you eat or drink is tested more carefully.

And Chesterfields are made right; the right length, the right diameter, and filled right—a detail perhaps, but if a cigarette is "to satisfy" it must be made right.

Everything about Chesterfield is as good as money can buy or Science knows about—you have our word for this.

COUNTY BOARD BACKS AWARD FOR ASPHALT

Claiming the right to ignore a low bidder when they feel that a contract with the company would be against the best interests of the county, the County Commissioners again have refused to award an order for asphalt to the Lake Asphalt Petroleum Company.

On 200,000 gallons of asphalt the Lake company bid $15,880, the Commissioners gave the contract to the State Construction Company at $16,400. The Commissioners yesterday stood firm despite Controller Robert G. Woodside's warning that he would not approve the contract, asserting the law was violated when the low bid was rejected.

RAPS WOODSIDE

Woodside's letter brought from Commissioner C. C. McGovern a bitter attack against the Lake concern and criticism of Woodside for holding up the contract. McGovern said:

"When I voted to give this contract to the second lowest bidder instead of the Lake company, I said that company had made political contributions and that the county should not have business with such a concern.

"Now Mr. Woodside comes to the rescue of this bunch. It would be perfectly natural for him to do that. I'll vote against, talk against and fight against giving any business to this Lake Asphalt Company as long as I am in office.

"These people (the Lake Asphalt Company) admit that thousands of dollars was given out to have the county use their product. Reports of this contribution have been handed to the District Attorney, but nothing was ever done about it.

WARNED BY LAWYER

"Since this contract business came up their attorney has had the nerve to come in and warn us to be careful.

"There is nothing wrong for a reputable firm to make political contributions, but there should be some record of it. This firm passed out money, admitted it, but no one would say who got it. Well, someone got it right in this building. They said the money was for political contributions and for promotion."

"I am willing to go into court on this case if necessary. I don't believe we have to give a contract to this company.

"We have heard a lot about money paid by other companies to county officials and some of it was admitted. Why the devil there was no one indicted I cannot understand."

McGovern said he believed that the Commissioners had the right to interpret the word "responsible" as pertaining to a bidder in more than the financial sense.

The Commissioners voted to stand by the award to the State Construction Company, which they termed the "best bidder."

ground that no money should be spent until federal aid is assured.

County officials were making two important steps to help put in operation increased employment and to stimulate activity as provided under the National Industrial Recovery Act.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS

The latest developments were:

Authorization was given Planning Engineer E. L. Schmidt to organize his force of more than 100 engineers and draftsmen for the immediate drafting of all plans for the several projects included in the $17,250,000 public works program.

The County Law Department was notified to immediately report and advise the County Commissioners as to what steps should be taken toward changing working hours and wages of county employes to conform with the various codes drawn up under the recovery act.

Schmidt had informed the Commissioners that it will take 60 days to draft plans and prepare all the necessary information to be submitted to the federal government on the $17,250,000 worth of bridges, all to be included in the self-liquidating projects group.

Point Traffic Plans Get State Approval

Proposed traffic improvements at the Point, outlined to the Water Power and Resources Board at Harrisburg by engineers of the City of Pittsburgh, have been approved, according to an Associated Press dispatch from the state capital.

The proposed improvements include a viaduct or elevated roadway and the grading and paving of present river wharves between Garrison way and Barbeau street, on the Allegheny River, and between Smithfield street and Liberty avenue on the Monongahela. The project will be completed with the aid of federal funds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances W. King was sentenced today to a prison term of not less than five nor more than 10 years for attempted blackmail of Bruce Barton, author and advertising executive under threat of publishing a novel which Barton claimed was a "scurrilous and vicious libel.'

Lone Death Record Of 14 River Pools

Only one fatality has occurred at the 14 city swimming pools in the three rivers in June and July, the Public Safety Department announced today.

The drowning was at Pool No. 10 at Lock No. 1, Monongahela River. Seventeen persons have been rescued by city guards. A total of 238,053 persons have bathed in the pools.

TREES FELLED, TRAFFIC TIED BY STORM

Accompanied by a 40-mile wind, a heavy rain storm swept the Pittsburgh district late yesterday, delaying traffic, felling trees and poles and causing an 18-degree drop in temperatures.

The damage was slight.

In the downtown a plate glass window in the McCreery & Co store in Wood street was shattered. An awning also was blown down.

In Collins avenue, an uprooted tree fell on a parked automobile. A fallen tree halted traffic at Penn and Dallas avenue. In South Pacific avenue a falling tree wrecked the front porch of a residence and another in Merrimac avenue tore down a fence when it crashed to the street.

A chimney was torn from the home of Mrs. M. Spagnola, 1617 Locust street. The falling bricks damaged an adjoining house, it was reported.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company reported that traffic was delayed from five to 30 minutes by water on tracks and by trees blown across the trolley wires in various sections of the city and county.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

BEEF AND LENTILS WITH SWEET-SOUR GRAVY

1½ lbs. beef from chuck, 3½ quarts of water 1 onion, 1 small stalk celery, 1 carrot, 1 red tomato, Salt, 6 whole allspice, ¼ teaspoon saffron.

Boil for 2 hours or more or until meat is tender (boil very slowly). Take out meat and strain soup (save about 1 pint for lentils), add noodles or rice if desired.

Cook cleaned lentils until soft in the soup reserved. Strain and add clear soup; add 2 teaspoons sugar and 1 tablespoon vinegar and enough browned flour (about 2 tablespoons) to thicken gravy. At last, add beef cut into small pieces.

Green stringbeans used instead of lentils are very delicious. Salt and pepper to taste.

ARRESTS SOLVE MAIL HOLDUPS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—With the arrest of four men, two of whom were described as former gangsters of New York and Illinois, and a woman, sheriff's deputies expressed belief today they had solved several daring mail robberies in Southern California.

The officers said two of the prisoners were identified by postal workers in a "show up" as participants in a robbery at the Southern Pacific Station last January 3, when registered mail sacks were plundered of $500 in cash and jewelry and $20,000 in securities.

The two identified, officers said, were James F. Burke, alias Martin Sick, known in New York as "Big Six," and as an aide to the late Jack (Legs) Diamond, and John T. Casey, paroled Illinois convict.

ARCHITECT GETS FEE; JOB OFF

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Philip H. Johnson, the Department of Health's "architect in perpetuity," who has received approximately $1,750,000 in fees during the last 29 years, is to receive another $3,540 for preparing plans for a hospital building which won't be erected.

City Council yesterday received a request from Mayor Moore that it appropriate sufficient funds to pay the bill

The contract for construction of a hospital building was awarded during the previous administration, but cancelled soon after Mayor Moore took office. The City Solicitor ruled Johnson is entitled to his fee.

Johnson has a 30-year contract awarded during the Ashbridge administration. The contract has been attacked many times, but courts have upheld its validity.

Cotton Destroying Task Too Sad For Farmer

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Ed Keithley, of Webbers Falls, is a good cotton farmer. He also has a soft heart.

minutes, then remove bones, flake the fish with a fork and put into a greased pie dish. Add to the boiling milk the floor (mixed to a paste with a little cold milk), butter, seasonings and shrimps. Stir gently till the mixture thickens, then pour over the fish, cover the top with bread crumbs, place dots of butter over, and bake in a moderate oven for one-half hour.

YORKSHIRE FRUIT LOAVES—Two pounds flour, ¾ cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 1 cake of yeast, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup Sultana raisins, 1 cup currants, ½ cup seeded raisins, ½ cup chopped candied citron, 1 teaspoon powdered ginger, ½ teaspoon powdered mace.

Heat shortening in milk, then cool and add yeast cake mixed with a little sugar. Stir in flour and salt and allow to rise four hours. Mix sugar, fruit peel and spices into risen dough. Let rise again, then divide into two well-greased loaf tins. Allow to rise 15 minutes, then bake in 1½ hours. Makes two loaves.

POTATO PANCAKES—Six raw grated potatoes, 3 whole eggs, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, a little milk.

Peel large potatoes and soak several hours in cold water. Grate, drain and for every pint, allow two eggs, about one tablespoon flour, or that amount of fine bread crumbs; ½ teaspoon salt, a little pepper. Beat eggs well and mix with rest of ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on hot buttered spider, in small cakes. Flatten them out. Turn and brown on both sides. Serve with apple sauce. Especially nice with pot roast or beef a la mode.

POPCORN FRUIT SQUARES

5 quarts popcorn, 2 cups sugar, ½ cup white corn syrup, 1 cup hot water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups black walnut meats, 1 small can crushed pineapple, ½ cup candied orange and lemon peel, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Dissolve the sugar and syrup in the hot water, add the pineapple. Boil gently without stirring, until it reaches 260 degrees. Add the salt, vanilla and vinegar. Cook until syrup forms a hard but not brittle ball in cold water (264 degrees). Keep the popped corn in the oven so it will stay hot, as hot corn does not require as brittle a syrup as cold corn. Sprinkle the nuts and candied peel over the corn. Pour on the syrup lightly as some one turns the corn with a wooden spoon. Press the corn in buttered tins and mark in squares. When cold, break into squares and serve. Recipe makes fifteen to twenty small squares.

SARDINE POINTS

Mash the contents of one four-ounce can of sardines, add 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons each chopped walnuts, stuffed olives, chopped celery, mayonnaise and mix well. Spread on small pieces of triangle-shaped toast. Garnish with slice of olive placed at the wide end. Makes about 20 small canapes.

BANANA PEACH CANAPE

Mash 2 bananas, add ¼ tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ cup sliced mashed peaches, drained, and 2 tablespoons honey. Add ½ cup grated mild cheese or cream cheese, and cream well. Spread on top of slices of white or brown bread.

FISH LOAF—2 cups of fish, flaked, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 eggs, well beaten, ½ cup broken peanuts, salt and pepper, ½ green pepper, minced, 1 tablespoon minced onion, ½ cup milk.

Mix fish, seasonings, crumbs, onion, green pepper and eggs together. Add milk and nuts. Bake until firm (about 30 minutes) in a pan of hot water in a slow oven (325 degrees F.). Serves six. Take the loaf out of baking dish and place on a bed of lettuce leaves. Garnish with strips of pimento or green pepper. May be served with sauce if desired.

CHICKEN A LA KING—2 cups diced chicken, 1 can mushrooms, or 1½ cups fresh mushrooms, 5 tablespoons salad oil, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, 5 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon capers, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 3 cups rich cream, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon fat, yolks of 3 eggs.

Cook the mushrooms for 5 minutes in the oil. Add the chicken, capers and pimentos salt and paprika. Make a white sauce of the fat, flour and cream. Beat the egg yolks and pour one into the other. Add the chicken mixture, heat thoroughly and serve on toast.

HIGHNESS SOUP—1 quart consomme, ½ an apple, cubed; ½ onion, cubed; 1 cup cream (or evaported milk).

Prepare a quart of consomme according to a good recipe. (Canned consomme may be used if desired, diluting with enough water to make a quart).

Into this cut the apple and onion and simmer until they are soft. Strain and all the cream or milk. Mix well and serve with a sprinkling of paprika.

This soup has a most unusual flavor; none of the ingredients can be identified, but all contribute their special flavor. The king of Sweden likes a bay leaf boiled with the apples and onion, but this may be omitted if too strong.

DANISH LAYER CAKE—6 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup potato flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Separate eggs. Beat the yolks until creamy, add the sugar. Sift flour and baking powder and add. Add vanilla, mix thoroughly, fold in beaten egg whites. Place in four shallow pans and bake in moderate oven 15 minutes. Put cake together with a custard spread over the first layer, next layer raspberry jam, another of custard, and top with a plain butter frosting, or dust with powdered sugar, or top with whipped cream.

PORK A LA KING—3 cups cold boiled lean pork, cubed; 3 hard cooked eggs, 1½ cups thick white sauce, 1 cup pork liquor or hot water, 1 tablespoon each minced onion and mango, 3 sweet pickles, cut fine; 1 cup canned mushrooms, heated; ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Simmer onion and mango in pork liquor or water for 15 minutes, add to hot white sauce, add meat and while it is heating shell eggs while hot, cut coarsely and add them with the mushrooms to the meat mixture. Remove from the fire and stir in pickles lightly with a fork. Add seasoning.

If wanted to serve on toast, dilute with ½ cap or more of hot milk or cream.

PEANUT BUTTER PINWHEELS—2 cups flour, ½ cup lard, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup peanut butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Mix the above, working in the lard with enough milk to make a dough. Roll lightly into a wide, long strip. Mix peanut butter with two tablespoons water, add a few grains salt, spread with a spatula over dough. Roll as for a jelly roll. Cut in slices one-fourth inch thick. Bake in a hot oven.

NEW ENGLAND BOILED DINNER—4 pounds corned beef, 1 medium cabbage, 1 small yellow turnip, 6 each medium potatoes, onions and parsnips.

Cook meat gently for about three hours. When cooked for two hours add quartered vegetables, adding carrots, parsnips and turnips one-half hour before remaining vegetables. When vegetables are tender serve on a large platter.

GERMAN PFEFFERNUESSE—2 cups sugar, 1 cup hot melted lard, 1 cup hot syrup, 1 cup hot black coffee, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice, cardamon, annis, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking soda, flour.

Mix the first four ingredients in order given. Sift spices and salt with enough flour to make a stiff dough. Dissolve soda in cold water and with the flour. Mix well. Knead in all the flour possible and until it does not stick to the breadboard. Cut off portions, roll into long strips one inch in diameter. Cut in equal length, roll into tiny balls, place on cookie tins and bake in hot oven.

STUFFED ONIONS—6 large onions, 12 salted crackers, ¼ cup ground cooked meat, 2 tablespoons butter or melted fat, salt and pepper, 2 cups medium white sauce, ¼ cup grated cheese.

Peel and parboil onions in salted water. Drain and remove centers. Chop and combine centers with crumbled crackers, meat, butter and seasonings. Fill onion shells with this mixture. Place in covered baking dish, cover with white sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake covered in a hot oven about 15 minutes. Uncover to brown. Serves six.

JEFF DAVIS PIE—2 cups sugar, ½ cup butter, 3 eggs, 2 cups sweet milk, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon allspice, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter, sugar and eggs, add flour and milk and spices. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake as custard pie. This makes two pies.

MERINGUE—3 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar.

Beat the whites stiff and add the sugar. Pour custard into crumb-lined tin, and over this pour the meringue, and over all sprinkle the cup of crumbs reserved for this purpose. Bake in moderate oven (about 30 to 35 minutes). Serve cold with whipped cream (if desired).

ROLL JELLY—OR LOG CAKE—3 eggs, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ⅓ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon orange flavor.

Beat eggs and sugar until thick.

Tuna and Salmon Have Same Nutritive Value

Health Expert Recommends These Foods Especially For Preparing Delicious Summer Dishes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"Is there any difference in the food value of tuna fish and salmon?" "Can tuna be used as a substitute for salmon?" "Does canned tuna or salmon differ markedly from the fresh fish?" These are a few questions I have recently received in my mail.

The tuna fish differs from the salmon in size, shape and taste. Both fish contain the same nutritive substances. The tuna fish is the "blue fin" or "leaping tuna" found in the Mediterranean and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. It is pearly black or dark blue in color, with silvery sides and a silver spotted belly.

The fish may grow to great size. In the eastern waters it may weigh as much as a thousand pounds. It is a favorite of sportsmen. For commercial use, the smaller fish, weighing around 35 pounds, are caught in nets.

Nearly all of the season's catch is utilized by the canning industry. Like salmon, tuna fish is usually purchased as a tinned product.

FOUR VARIETIES

There are four varieties of canned tuna. The "Albacore tuna," also known as "Long Fin tuna," has all white meat. The "Yellow Fin tuna" has meat that is slightly pink, and the "Blue Fin tuna" has a darker color meat. The "Striped tuna," or "skipjack" is brown in color and has the darkest of all tuna meat.

I am asked what the difference is between "white meat tuna flakes" and "light meat tuna flakes." White meat flakes are pieces from the Albacore, or Long Fin tuna, while light meat flakes may be pieces from any of the other three varieties of tuna fish. The flakes or pieces are accumulated from the pieces obtained in trimming the fish.

NUTRITIOUS FOODS

Tuna and salmon are valuable and nutritious foods. They are a rich source of fats, proteins and iron. They are especially important in the diet because they furnish important amounts of iodine. A lack of iodine usually leads to gotire formation.

Fish is properly substituted for meat. It contains the same nutritive substances found in meat. Many experts claim that fish is more easily digested and contains valuable substances not found in meat. Too little fish is consumed in this country and it is hoped that greater interest will be shown in fish products.

During warm weather tempting salads made with tuna fish and salmon is a favorite dish. The canned product is carefully prepared and free from contamination. It is best to keep the can sealed until ready for use. If opened make sure the contents are removed and placed near the ice. This will prevent spoiling.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

Add water. Then add flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Add orange flavoring. Bake at once in shallow pan in quick oven, 12 to 15 minutes. Turn out of pan on to cloth sprinkled with powdered sugar. Spread the cake at once with jelly or cream filling; roll up quickly and when cold cover with chocolate, or any desired frosting.

This cake is "parfait"—when carefully made.

PRUNE PUDDING— 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons corn starch dissolved in milk, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup lemon juice, 1½ cups finely crumbed graham crackers, or bread crumbs.

Mix well, place in buttered dish and bake 25 to 30 minutes in 350 degree oven. Serve with cream.

CHERRY TREE CAKE — 3 eggs, 1 cup powdered sugar, juice one-half lemon, 1 cup cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt.

Separate the eggs, beat the yolks until light and creamy together with the sugar. Add lemon juice. Sift dry ingredients and fold gently into first mixture. Last, add egg whites whipped stiff. Pour into well oiled pan (shallow) and bake in moredate oven, 375 degrees, about 15 minutes. Invert immediately on waxed paper, spread with raspberry jam and quickly roll up. When cool, cover with any plain white icing and decorate with candied cherries and angelica for leaves and stems.

EASTER NEST—1 head lettuce, shredded (or endive); 1 bunch watercress, oil and vinegar dressing, two packages cream cheese, 1 tablespoon rich cream, pink, green and yellow vegetable coloring.

Make nests of shredded lettuce and line with the darker green of watercress. Pour dressing over all. In each nest put three small eggs of cream cheese, which has been softened with cream. After having divided the cheese into three parts color one pink, one green and one yellow. Put one egg of each color in nest.

Almost All Bad Tempers Are Just Bad Habits

What is "bad temper?"

Is it a fatal curse, that you're not responsible for and can't cure? Or can—and should—you, yourself, do something about it?

And how about other folks? Should they give you big gobs of sympathy for your affliction and walk softly when you're around?

Or are they justified in giving you a swift kick whenever your bad temper gets away from you?

Myrtle, aged 20 and red-headed, leans strongly to the cure notion, and is sure the world is picking on her.

Dear Elsie:

Will you please help me? People just don't seem to understand me, and it hurts me so, because there has never been a time when I didn't mean well.

You see, I am one of those unfortunate people cursed with a terrible temper. And it seems to me sometimes that people go out of their way to stir it up.

All my friends know how easily it is stirred up, and how it just gets away from me before I realize it. But instead of sympathizing with me because of this affliction, they tease me, or just carelessly do something—slight me in some way or say something they know I won't like—without any consideration at all. And then, when it gets away from me—why, it's all my fault!

I have always had this temper, ever since I was a child. You see, I am red-headed, and I just naturally go off like a fire-cracker if something happens. I've blown up before I realize, myself, the way I feel.

WANTS UNDERSTANDING

I am 20 years old, and all this makes me very unhappy. I didn't ask to be like this. I long for a nice, even temper, but I can't help the kind I have. It seems to me that people should realize what I have to contend with and sympathize with me a little.

I don't mean to fly off the handle, but I get so mad that I hardly know what I am saying, and I say things I don't mean at all before I think. Then I try to apologize, but they just go off and won't talk to me.

I wish I could find someone who would understand me, and not do the things like the folks I know now do, or get so snooty with me when I fly up, unintentionally, about something. Do you think I ever will find such a person? Or will I have to go on and on through life, miserable as I am now? Please help me.

MYRTLE.

Oh, yeah?

Well, how about you trying to "understand" other folk, Myrtle? and why shouldn't they be snooty with you when you blaze out and trample their feelings?

"But I don't mean to!" you wail. "I just can't help it!"

CAN BE CONTROLLED

Don't kid me, youngster! I've got one of those red-head dispositions myself, and I know only too well that gals like you and I can help it—if we want to.

And it's dollars to doughnuts you'd help it fast enough if you knew someone would whack you with a club every time you "let go" one of your tantrums.

As a matter of fact, someone is whacking you. That someone if Life—Life, trying to tell you to get wise to yourself. But because you've always coddled yourself and want to go on coddling yourself, you are blaming other people for your misery instead of putting the blame squarely where it belongs.

Cut it out, kid! Some "tempers" are worse than others, it is true. But most bad tempers are just bad habits—and any temper can be controlled. You can control yours if you'll stop thinking of yourself and your own self-importance, and begin to think seriously of other folks' feelings and other folks' rights.

And if you don't do it, Life's surely going to hand you a nasty uppercut!

When You Finish Eating

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

After a meal in a restaurant, or anywhere else where only the one meal is to be considered, place your napkin "as is" beside your plate, on either the right or left, as you find convenient.

When you are visiting, observe your hostess to see what she does with her napkin. If she folds hers, follow her lead and fold yours.

Household Hints

A cork dipped in salt and rubbed over a dirty saucepan will remove stains.

Melt powered alum on the back of a spoon. Rub over broken china to be mended, press firmly together, stand aside to dry. It will not come apart.

To clean chintz, put it in a basin of warm water containing either rice or bran, and let it soak throughly. Rinse in warm and then cold water, and dry in the shade. Glazed chintz should be sent to the cleaners.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Arrangement of the glorious crown has an effect upon the contour of the face, as every woman knows. It won't do to blindly follow a new mode. Problems must be worked out. Make-up, too, has an influence upon the features. Rouge casts a shadow and that is why hollow cheeks should not carry counterfeit blushes which only make them appear more gaunt. No rouge on the receding chin either. That's bad. Coloring placed high brings out the color of the eyes, brightens them, gives the countenance an appearance of freshness; rouge placed low on the cheeks makes the face look drawn and weary.

Even those sour-souled critics who believe that too much time is spent on beautifying agree that finger nails must be up to pulchritude par. Won't do to let pink shells get out of form. Even when there is the weekly manicure, it is necessary to use an oil or cuticle cream every night to ward off hateful hangnails, to keep the flesh from growing too far upon the nail surface. After bathing the hands, push back the cuticle gently with a soft towel. If this is done, and the cream is used faithfully, there will be no need of giving cuticle further attention. Nail polishes continue to be colorful, but the ox blood varnish is getting tiresome. Better a deep rose or a rich coral.

Madge Drafts Lillian to Aid in Difficult Task

I do not think Philip Veritzen would have been flattered if he could have seen the dismayed look upon the faces of his only son and Mary, when I suggested calling him up immediately and telling him of their newly-formed determination to get married at once.

"If you dare look like that, either of you," I said threateningly, "I won't say a word myself. I'll get out of here and leave you to interview him."

Mary flung herself upon me impetuously.

"You couldn't be so heartless," she said. "Tell us how to look. Like this?" She stretched her mouth into the grin which is supposed to resemble that of the Cheshire cat.

"It's better than the expression which was on it," I told her, laughing. "But you know what I mean. Mr. Veritzen must not guess that you have the slightest fear of him. Your cue—and that means both of you—is to act as if you expected kindly approval from him for what you are doing.

"I can do all that," Noel said, "but—" his voice was suddenly filled with panic—"will I have to break this news to him first, out of a clear sky?"

I smiled at him reassuringly.

"No, dear boy," I said. "Mrs. Underwood and I will act as lightning deflectors before you come upon the scene. But you must both be within call, although it may not be necessary for Mary to see him at the first interview."

DECIDE AGAINST DELAY

"Police, and visiting firemen," Mary exclaimed, apprehensively. "I hope I'm not called in. In the mood he'll be in, I stand a very good chance of emerging from the interview 'a thing of shreds and patches'."

She crooned the line plaintively, but finished it with a little laugh, and patted Noel's arm protectively.

"Stop worrying, honey!" she adjured him. "Little Mary will be right behind the arras, ready to slip a stiletto under your father's fifth rib, or smooth your fevered brow, whichever treatment the occasion demands; but I don't envy you your job, boy friend, even with Auntie Madge strewing rose leaves in the well-known path.

"But do you really mean to have us call up Mr. Veritzen right away, Auntie Madge? Couldn't we put it off until tomorrow?"

"If you don't wish to see him this afternoon, of course we can put off calling him up," I said. "But he probably is going right ahead with your passport and visas and steamship bookings. I really think we ought to get hold of him as soon as possible, especially as he may have appointments that would prevent his getting over here today, or even tomorrow."

"Oh! Of course there's no use putting it off," Mary said resignedly. "Go on, darling. Give your respected sire a ring."

LILLIAN CALLED IN

"I'll do that, Mary," I said quickly. "I want to talk this over with Mrs. Underwood first, anyway. I think the very best thing for you two youngsters is to go for a walk. How long would it take your father to get over here, Noel, provided he came immediately?"

Noel made a mental calculation.

"About an hour; not less," he said.

"Then you come back here in three-quarters," I told them. "Mary, run along and do your prinking, while Noel goes down to Mrs. Underwood's and asks her to come over here as soon as possible. Oh!!! First, do you mind handing me that shawl, Noel? I feel a bit chilly."

Purposely I delayed taking the shawl from him until Mary had gone into her own room. Then I whispered to him hurriedly:

"Tell Mrs. Underwood what to say, so that Mary shall not suspect she gave you any counsel."

He nodded and went out of the room, returning almost immediately with Lillian.

"Where's the fire?" she asked, with a humorous look at me. "Mary, do you know?"

"She knows, but she hasn't time to tell you," I said. "Hurry up, children; get out of here, and come back on time."

They went out of the room, and when they were safely out of earshot Lillian sat down in the chair by my couch.

"Well, Machiavelli!" she said. "I understood from Noel that the boat is about to be launched. What's my job?"

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Duplicate in Europe

Continental Europe, like the United States and Canada, has become intensely interested in Duplicate Contract. Intercity, interclub, national and international tournaments are being staged with almost as great a degree of frequency as like events occur in the United States. Undoubtedly Duplicate has a tendency to develop and, in part, to standardize the bidding of players who participate and to improve the play of the cards.

An interesting example of play by Mr. J. Muhsam, playing with Mr. J. Jonas, occurred in a recent Baden-Baden tournament for pairs, which this pair won, beating, among others, Dr. Paul Hermann, the inventor of a system of his own. Mr. Muhsam was one of the two players who made a contract of three notrump on the hand below:

Neither side vulnerable.

I do not know the course of the bidding, but the eventual contract was three notrump with Mr. Muhsam sitting South, the Declarer. Against this contract West, who had doubled, opened with the spade King, and when the Dummy went down South realized that his contract was in danger. There were five diamond tricks available, two hearts, if there was a successful finesse in this suit, and one spade, but the ninth trick appeared extremely problematical.

West, on his Double, was marked with the club Ace and probably the heart King as well. At least, if he did not hold both these cards, the chance of making the contract appeared remote, indeed.

Taking the first trick with the Ace, South led the heart Queen; West covered with the King, and the trick was won with the Ace in Dummy. Now five rounds of diamonds were taken and West found himself bothered in regard to discards. He could safely discard one heart, and also one club. The third discard, however, proved too difficult, and hope of defeating the contract, which had appeared so bright when the Double was made, and even after the Dummy went down, had to be abandoned. One of the established spades was given up on the last lead of diamonds. Now the Declarer led a small club from Dummy and passed the Knave. West won with the Ace and ashed si remaining spade tricks, but Mr. Muhsam won the rest and ma his contract of three notrump doubled.

Today's Question

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♢	Pass	Pass

You, North, hold:

♠ 10 9 7 3 ♡ K 10 9 8 2 ◇ 5 3 ♣ K 4

What do you bid?

Answer: One heart. Although North's hand contains but 2 honor tricks, it has a fairly good holdable five-card heart suit. With hands as weak as this, and conceivably a little weaker, it is necessary to bid in this position in order to protect partner, who has quite possibly, and I might say, probably, made a strategic pass, holding considerable strength. The assumption is that East and West would not pass the hand out at one diamond, holding most of the honor strength. The danger in reopening the bidding is practically negligible and failure to do so suggests the strong possibility that North and South may miss a game, or, at any rate, a very nice part-score.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Good Liver Insures Health

In one of his charming stories, Warwick Deeping, the brilliant author, philosophises as follows:

"Being the creatures of our digestions, and seeing that no man shall all himself a philosopher until he has proved himself independent of a sluggish liver, it follows that we should honor and exalt those mortals who are vessels of perfect health. We are the slaves of our secretions and excretions, and good living may be more a question of bile than of Bible.

Dr. Copeland

"Perfect health is a rare thing and is said to kill sympathy in its possessor. Yet there is no doubt that some supremely healthy people exert an almost mesmeric effect upon those with whom they come in contact."

I am reminded of what a former mayor of New York City once said: "Some people think they are pious when they are only bilious."

There is an ancient pun, too, that it will be appropriate to quote: "Life depends on the liver."

There can be no doubt that our mental processes and perhaps our spiritual, depend amazingly upon the digestion. A sluggish liver will dampen the ardor of the most enthusiastic individual and ruin the happiness of his family.

It is really surprising how the outlook on life is brightened when the liver resumes normal function. The "blues," deep melancholy, the sense of failure or of inferiority, irritable temper, unsovernable anger—all of these will disappear when digestion is restored.

When everything goes "dead wrong," when life loses its charm, when friends look at you with doubtful eyes, examine into your state of health. It may well be that life has gone awry only in your poisoned brain. When you get rid of indigestion all your troubles will fall like autumn leaves.

What we call "personality," or "personal charm," is usually the reflection of abounding health. Sparkling eyes and ruddy cheeks help a lot to win popularity. Perfect health is the key, not only to your own happiness, but to that of all those with whom you have contact.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Condolences

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—My mother passed away last week and I am sending out personal acknowledgments. I do not know how they should be signed. I am married and have my father and a brother.

Also, do I address the inside card too or just the envelope?

2—Should these cards be personal notes or formal cards?

B.

1—These notes of thanks to your relatives and close friends would be signed by your first name only. The ones to people whom you do not know very well but who are familiar with your formal name, would be signed:

Very sincerely yours,
Clara Brownell Wells

And there might well be ones that would have to carry your formal name as well, since you may be called on to write the acknowledgments for friends of your father and brother, people whom you might not know. If there are such notes, sign them:

Very sincerely yours,
Clara Brownell Wells
(Mrs. John Wells)

2—It is by far the best form to write personal notes for these acknowledgments of notes of sympathy and of flowers. Formal cards are frigid acknowledgments of such warm-hearted messages.

LEGION BACKS JOB DRIVE

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The American Legion rallied last night behind President Roosevelt, the commander-in-chief, to fight the economic war of 1933.

Louis Johnson, national commander of the legion, made public through the President "battle orders" summoning 10,760 posts into immediate mobilization for the "Argonne of 1933."

President Roosevelt in a special message in reply said:

"I have just received your battle order. I have a supreme faith that the loyalty of the legionnaires will manifest itself in this crisis just as it did a decade and a half ago."

So today the warriors of 1918 for Uncle Sam were rassembling for "a fight to give an honest job with an honest living wage to every bread-winner who wants to work."

The American Legion war-cry sounded the loudest of any so far in the all-American offensive against the depression, and Mr. Roosevelt was quick to welcome it.

MOBS MENACE STORES

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—For the second time within three days, demonstrators have threatened violence against stores in which the 5:30 closing hour adopted by most retailers in connection with the recovery movement was not observed.

A crowd estimated by police at 200 visited two stores of one chain late yesterday, forcing one to close and finding the other already closed when they reassembled there after police had dispersed them from in front of the first store.

Several missiles were thrown during the demonstrations and two store employes were reported to have been struck.

The previous demonstration, Tuesday night, was directed at locally-owned stores that had not observed the new closing hour.

SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Police reserves were called out last night when demonstrators estimated to number about 200 gathered in front of two stores which were open after the 5:30 closing hour which most retailers have established here. Several other stores were visited.

NRA BOOSTED BY MICHELSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The man many Republicans credit with putting new life into the Democratic party which Franklin D. Roosevelt led to power last fall now is seeing to it that the country's press gets full information about the National Recovery Administration.

Charles Michelson, soon after the 1928 Hoover landslide, was retained by the Democratic National Committee to carry on an intensive publicity barrage against Republicans. Now he is press relations director for the Recovery unit, on loan from the national committee.

Michelson has become a chief "trouble shooter" for the administration on press matters. His first assignment after inauguration was handling information for the Treasury during the banking crisis. Later he went to London for the World Economic Conference.

He was still there when a hurry call for a capable press chief was sent out by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator.

40-HOUR WEEK IN CARNEGIE

Men in the street department of Carnegie are now working a 40-hour week under the NRA blanket code. The Borough Council signed the code at last night's meeting and agreed to pay the 10 men in the department the same wage as when they worked nine hours daily.

An opinion will be sought to determine whether the borough's police and fire departments should come under the same agreement, H. F. Botsford, Council president, said.

Squire Acquitted Of Beating Man

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Camden Police Court dismissed charges of assault and battery brought against Justice of the Peace Albert Mungioli. Joseph Cohen had complained the justice struck him and then pushed him from the court room.

Makers of Limbs Will Draft Code

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The Association of Limb Manufacturers of America announced today it had sent an invitation to all manufacturers of artificial limbs and limb supplies to meet in Washington, August 15, to adopt a code of fair competition.

Fire Insurance Executive, 77, Dies

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Charles E. Chase, honorary chairman of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, with which he was associated for nearly 53 years, died yesterday at his home. He was 76.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Wife's Neck Broken In Auto Collision

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Her neck broken in an automobile collision, Mrs. Helen Maxon Fuller, 22, of Mt. Morris, is dead. Her husband, Arnett Fuller, and William Donley were injured slightly as the Fuller car collided with a sheep truck driven by Wilson Marks, of Miletus, W. Va.

Vienna Tells 'Truth' About Brown Shirts

VIENNA, Aug. 4.—(INS.)—The Austrian government today circulated a "brown book," containing an account of alleged Austrian Nazi atrocities and charging Austrian Brown Shirts were receiving support from Germany.

Police raided the Nazi secret headquarters here, arresting seven persons.

Vet Chooses Death Over Institution

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Death was better than surrender for John E. Damron, 77, penniless Civil War veteran. Rather than beg or go to a home for the aged, he shot himself shortly before friends had arranged to take him to a fraternal order's home.

FLOUR...

THE Food Distributors in Pittsburgh strongly urge you not to delay in buying flour.

At midnight on Monday, August 7th, the Government tax on all wheat products goes into effect. This means that flour will be up 17% beginning next Tuesday morning, August 8th.

Flour, if kept in a dry place and under proper conditions, will last indefinitely, and you will run no risk of loss from spoilage.

Counting today, there are only three days left in which you can lay in a supply of flour at present low prices It will certainly pay you to read the ads in the Sun-Telegraph today, and stock up on this household necessity

YANKS' FIRST HOME BLANK SINCE 1930

THERE WAS ANOTHER side to Lefty Grove's great pitching feat of yesterday apart from the fact that the Mackian southpaw star gave the Yankees their first shutout since August 2, 1931, after they had stretched to 308 consecutive championship games the world record for distance traveled without being blanked. For it was the Yankees' first shutout at home in an even longer period. The 1931 whitewashing by Wilcy Moore was administered in Boston. Joe McCarthy's bombers had not been held scoreless on their own grounds in more than three years, or since July 8, 1930, when Rube Walberg, also of the A's, beat them 4 to 0 in the first game of a double-header. Keeping the Yanks from scoring at their own park is even more difficult than doing it on the road. Wes Ferrell made the closest approach in the last three years, twice holding them to one run.

Lefty Grove

Yesterday's game was not the first in which the Yanks were blanked for nine innings during their record streak. Under average circumstances, Alphonse Thomas, of the Senators, would have gained the distinction of pitching a shutout against them on August 13, last year, at Washington, as he did not permit them to score in nine innings, or a regulation game.

BUT IT HAPPENED that Charley Ruffing also held the Senators scoreless meanwhile, and with two out in the tenth inning won his own game 1 to 0 with a home run. So Thomas got only a defeat, instead of credit for a shutout, like Tex Carleton after pitching 17 runless innings against Carl Hubbell, and Bud Parmalee after hurling 14 scoreless innings against Red Lucas this year.

With Dizzy Dean setting a modern strikeout record of 17 last Sunday, Carl Hubbell establishing an all-time National League mark of 46 consecutive runless innings on Tuesday, and Grove blanking the Yankees on Thursday after 308 straight scoring games, this week goes into the records as one without a parallel for pitching achievements in all the history of baseball.

THE PIRATES GOT a bad break from the weather man when yesterday's game was halted while they were trailing. Perhaps they might not have been able to overcome the Cardinals' lead, as Dizzy Dean had oceans of stuff and was clicking on all cylinders, but many things can happen in three innings of baseball. The trailing club always is the one that is out of luck when a game is cut short.

Another half game was lost to the idle Giants, and a full game to the Cubs and Cards. Look at that race now. Though in second place and just three and a half games behind the leaders, the Bucs are only one game above third place and only two games above fourth. Only five and a half games separate the first and fourth clubs. While the Pirates and Cubs are tearing at each other's throats in Chicago tomorrow and Sunday, the Cards will play two doubleheaders with the Reds, and the Giants will tangle with the Phillies and Dodgers.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE race often is referred to as a fight in which the "ageing" Yankees may be beaten out by their "younger" Washington rivals. Joe McCarthy's players get a laugh out of that. The average age of the regular Yank lineup, with Charley Ruffing pitching, is only 28½ years

And the average age of the Senators with their best pitcher, Alvin Crowder, in the box, is 31⅓ years. Put Vernon Gomez in Ruffing's place, and the Yankee average would fall. Put Earl Whitehill in Crowder's place and the Washington average would rise.

IT IS SAID that before Rogers Hornsby signed to manage the Browns, he demanded and received certain concessions from Owner Phil Ball. One was Ball's promise to cease selling players and start buying; another that all trades must first receive Hornsby's O. K., and a third, Ball's assurance that he and Vice President L. C. McEvoy would keep their hands off the team. American League critics surmise that Rogers had in mind certain experiences of his immediate predecessors, Dan Howley and Bill Killefer. It is related that once, while the Browns were on the road, Howley received a telegram from McEvoy instructing him to bench Ralph Kress and put a kid named Reitz at shortstop. Dan disregarded the order and soon was managing Cincinnati. In 1930, Killefer had to stand by and see Alvin Crowder and Heinie Manush traded for no more than Goose Goslin. Only this year, Bill saw two of his best men, Rick Ferrell and Lloyd Brown, sold to the Red Sox.

IN HIS PLANS for making the Browns a better club, Hornsby believes that one thing he can do is to improve the hitting of Shortstop Jimmy Levey. The Pittsburgher had a batting mark of only .181 in the latest averages, and Hornsby is going to start work on that without delay.

Jimmy Levey

"Levey ought to be hitting better than .181," Hornsby says. "I see some of his faults at the plate, and I think I can help him about 50 points, at least. It is possible to improve a batter. Look at

SOUTH HILLS, READING OPEN TITLE PLAY

READING, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Out to retain their 1932 title, the Keystone Juniors, of Reading, open a three-game series today with the South Hills Juniors, of Dormont, for the American Legion Junior Baseball State championship.

Both teams won their semi-finals games yesterday without serious difficulty, South Hills defeating Hellertown, 9 to 5, and Reading beating Perkasie, 6 to 3.

Hellertown had been substituted for Olyphant, Northern champions, after Olyphant's team was found to include an ineligible player.

With Lee Taylor pitching in fine form the Pittsburghers showed enough class to warrant worry for further opponents. Taylor gave up only six hits, and after he had been bumped in the third and fourth innings he blanked the Lehigh County team for the remainder of the game, fanning nine as his contribution toward the conquest.

Davies, Munhall and Orr led the hitting for the victors, with Scott and McClain playing best in the field. The score:

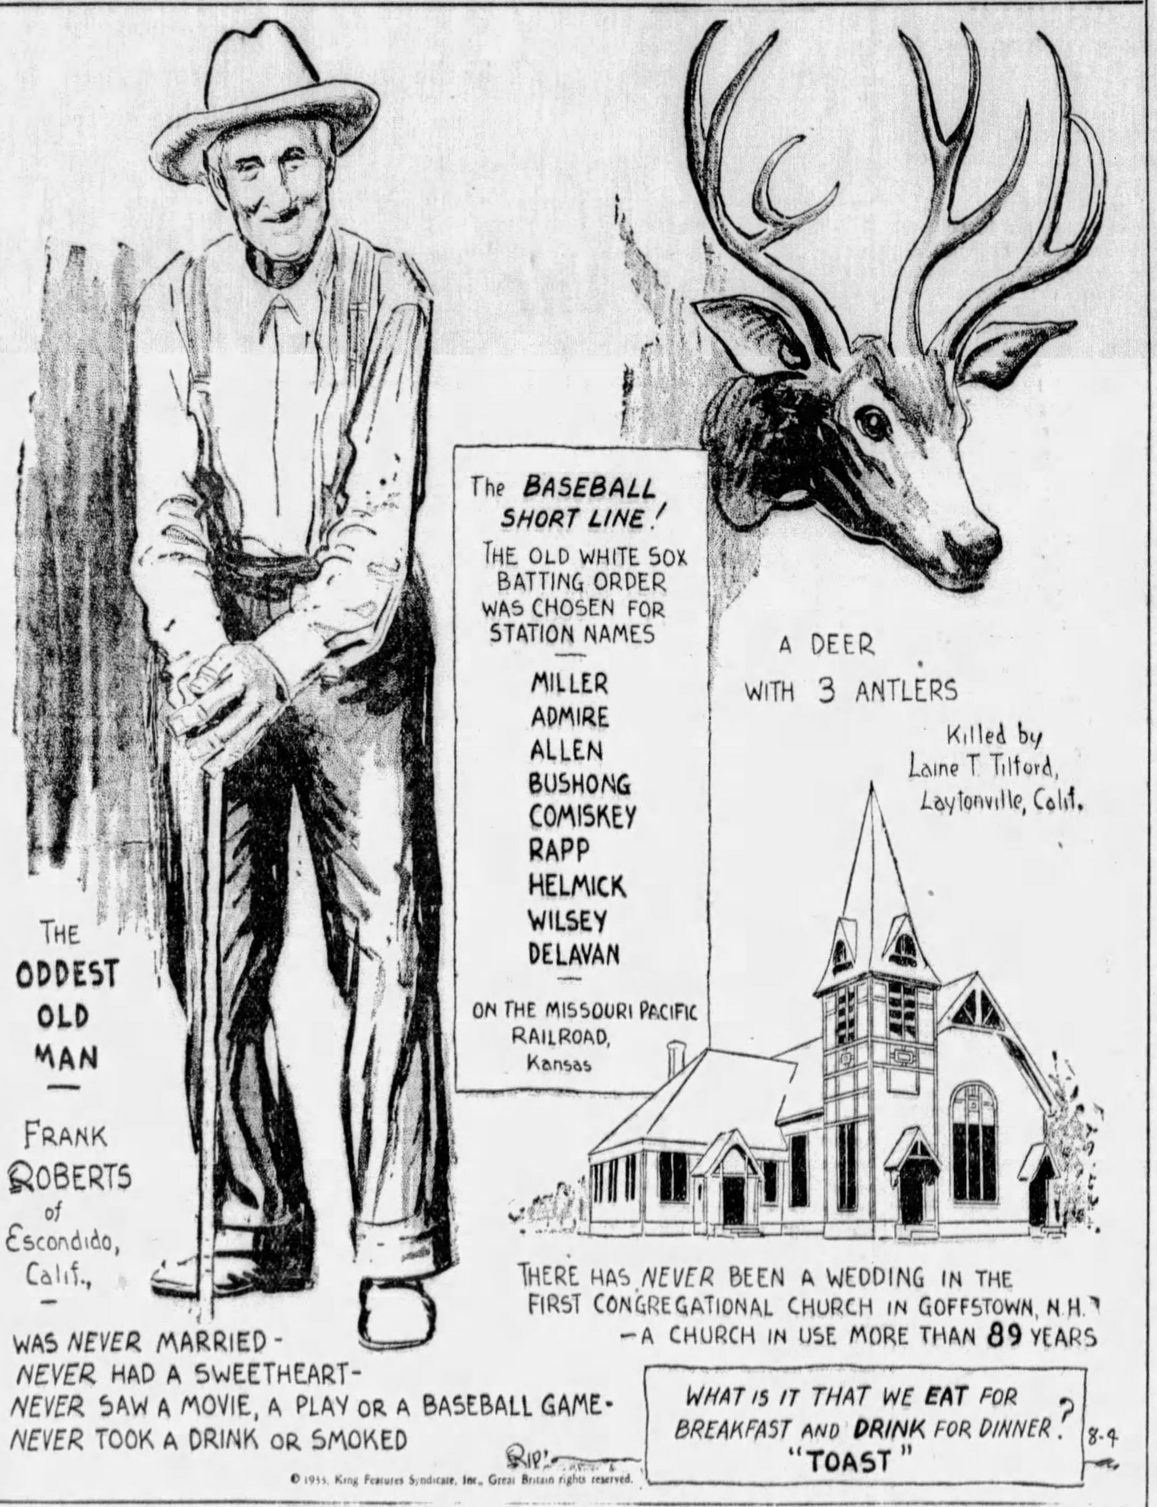
Believe It Or Not

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

By Ripley

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE GIFT MAGNIFICENT—Bartholma Welser, head of the immensely rich patrician family of Augsburg, Germany, made enormous advances to Emperor Charles V, of Germany, who was at the same time King Charles I, of Spain. When the loans had reached the enormous total of 12 tons of gold, which in view of the high purchasing power of gold in the sixteenth century would equal about $100,000,000 today, the emperor in 1527 invested Welser with the entire country of Venezuela as a personal gift. For 28 years the German magnate ruled Venezuela, appointing his own governors and garrisoning it with his own troops. In 1555 the Spanish crown, by a summary order of the king, deprived Welser of Venezuela. The matter was in litigation for many years and the courts in the absence of a summary royal decree would have been obliged to rule for the Welsers.

CARD HURLER BEATS BUCS IN SHORT GAME

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

In view of the high estimate placed upon Pitcher Jerome (Dizzy) Dean by his favorite catcher, Jimmy Wilson, an account of which appeared in these columns one year ago, it is not any sudden surprise to Pittsburghers to see Jerome as he comes very close to the Mathewson-Alexander standards.

In the curtailed contest yesterday wherein Dean and his Cardinal mates turned in a 4-to-1 victory over the Pirates, the new strikeout king of the sport had sufficient time to give a real sample of the goods he carries around in a flock of trick cases. Although they disliked to see the home boys lose, local supporters today were quick to pronounce Dean one of the truly greats of the game.

BOOSTED BY WILSON

Jerome was only in the experimental stage last season when Wilson, one of the bright minds of the game, passed his opinion on Dean. Jim said, in effect:

"Don't fail to say something about this kid Dean. He's the greatest to come into the National League in years. He has everything you can think about. As a picher he has more stuff and can serve it in more ways than anybody in the game. And the way he catalogs the hitters is uncanny. When he goes up to the plate he thinks he ought to hit as good as anybody on the club, and he gives us five infielders when he pitches. Look out for Dizzy!"

In his first season in the National League, Dean pitched more innings than any other hurler and he was honor man in strikeouts. That was last year. Jerome, a boy of 22 years, threatens to steal away the top honors from the great Carl Hubbell before the present race is over. The big righthander whiffed 191 batters last season and he is likely go beyond 200 this season.

Dean had the home hitters feeling like his own moniker as he held them to six safeties in the storm-swept contest. The battle was stopped by the big storm after Lloyd Waner had retired three Redbird hitters of the seventh. The game was definitely called off after a lapse of more than 30 minutes. It reverted back to the sixth inning under the rules.

SWIFT BOWS TO DEAN

Bill Swift opposed Dean yesterday and was leading, 1-0, up to the fifth when the foe scored twice after Piet had fumbled a

British Racer Set For Harmsworth Duel

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Barring unforeseen complications, the Harmsworth trophy race, in which Hubert Scott-Paine, of England, will attempt to wrest the international trophy from Gar Wood, will be held as planned September 2 to 5.

The committee in charge of the regatta announced receipt today of a cablegram from the British challenger, in which he said he would sail for the United States within the next fortnight. The cablegram was taken as assurance that Scott-Paine had succeeded in completing his challenging craft that will be pitted against Wood's giant hydroplane, Miss America X.

Local Pilot to Race In Hearst Regatta

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Rust Heinz, of Pittsburgh, and E. M. Patterson, of Albany, N. Y., are among the new eastern entries in the second William Randolph Hearst-Herald and Examiner Gold Cup regatta, to be staged on the northern lagoon of the World's Fair on Sunday, August 20.

Veterans Capture Grand Circuit Wins

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Two of harness racing's crack veterans, the 4-year-old chestnut trotter Vansandt, owned by Irvin W. Gleason, of Williamsport, Pa., and Dick Reynolds, 5-year-old pacing star of the W. W. Reynolds stables of Winston-Salem, N. C., yesterday dominated the grand circuit's eighth program at Rockingham Park.

The chestnut horse, with Earl Pitman driving, made a clean sweep of the three-heat 2:20 class trot, registering a decisive victory over Madelon, driven by G. White, in each start. The Reynolds horse won the first two heats in the 2:12 pace and placed fourth in his last try.

Two Swim Marks Claimed for Gilhula

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Two world swimming records have been claimed for Jimmy Gilhula, Detroit youth, now a student at University of Southern California, and Michigan A. A. U. officials who timed him said application for their acceptance would be made to the International Amateur Swimming Association.

Gilhula, swimming against time in the Detroit Athletic Club pool, did 300 yards in 3:06.5, bettering the mark of 3:07.8 set by Johnny Weissmuller at Chicago in 1927. Then he did 300 meters in 3:24.8, beating the time of 3:25.8 set by Jack Medica, of Seattle, earlier this year, and eclipsing the listed record of 3:27 held by Jean Taris, of France.

MRS. MOODY OUT OF WIGHTMAN CUP PLAY

INJURY KEEPS TENNIS QUEEN ON SIDELINES

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—America's chances in the Wightman Cup matches against the British received a severe setback today when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, captain of the United States forces, was forced to withdraw because of illness, it was announced at noon today by Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Wightman Cup committee.

Mrs. Moody was scheduled to play Peggy Scriven, British star, in one of the opening singles matches on the West Side Tennis Club courts this afternoon, but was advised to withdraw by Dr. Benjamin P. Farrell after an examination this morning.

Mrs. Moody, greatly disappointed at the orders, expressed the hope she will be able to play tomorrow.

Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., was named as substitute for Mrs. Moody to play against Miss Scriven. The full statement from the United States Lawn Tennis Association read:

"It is with deep regret that Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the United States Wightman Cup Committee, announces that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will not be able to play in her match with Miss Margaret (Peggy) Scriven this afternoon due to illness. Her doctor, Dr. Benjamin P. Farrell, at the New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital, advises that he is 'suffering from sub-acute unstable fifth lumbar vetebrae symptoms' and advised against her playing today.

"A decision as to whether or not Mrs. Moody will be able to play in the matchs tomorrow, in singles or doules or both will be made by announcement not later than 12 o'clock Saturday."

Sportsmen Form New Organization

OIL CITY, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Sportsmen of eight counties in Western Pennsylvania today were joined in a new organization pledged to represent their thousands of anglers and hunters in combatting harmful legislation and in bridging the gap between the sportsmen and the fish and game commissioners.

The Sportsmen Council, Division F, organized at Tionesta yesterday and named officers and a board of directors representing each of the eight counties. Officers named were:

Dr. H. L. Sanderson, of Butler, president; J. M. Hinman, Oil City, vice president, and Wallace Dean, Meadville, treasurer.

Officers and directors are to meet at Conneaut Lake on August 13 to draw up by-laws and name committees.

Shields Wins Over Grant, Gains Final

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Frank Shields, lanky New Yorker, raced through Bryan M. Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., in straight sets today to gain the final round of the forty-third annual Southampton invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow Club. The scores were 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

On the basis of his form against Grant, Shields became the favorite against the winner of the Frankie Farker-Sidney Wood match that was to determine the second finalist later in the day.

GRAPHIC GOLF

KEEP CLUBHEAD SQUARE

To achieve accuracy in the drive it often helps to think of swinging through the ball at right angles to the line of play.

In the above illustration Joe Jurado, of the Argentines, seems to be doing a good job of keeping the clubhead square to the line of play as he makes contact with the ball.

A suggestion that often helps is to take the clubhead back carefully on the backswing, keeping it for a few inches at right angles to the ball. Chick Evans used to follow a procedure of this kind in his backswing, keeping the clubhead square to the sphere for two or three inches as he took the clubhead back, which enhanced his chances of coming on the ball in the same way.

Another suggestion that may prove of aid is to try to keep the clubhead on this path a few inches before it hits the ball, and an inch or two after. It's sometimes difficult to do when the clubhead is traveling at high velocity, but merely the conscious desire to do so often proves of benefit.

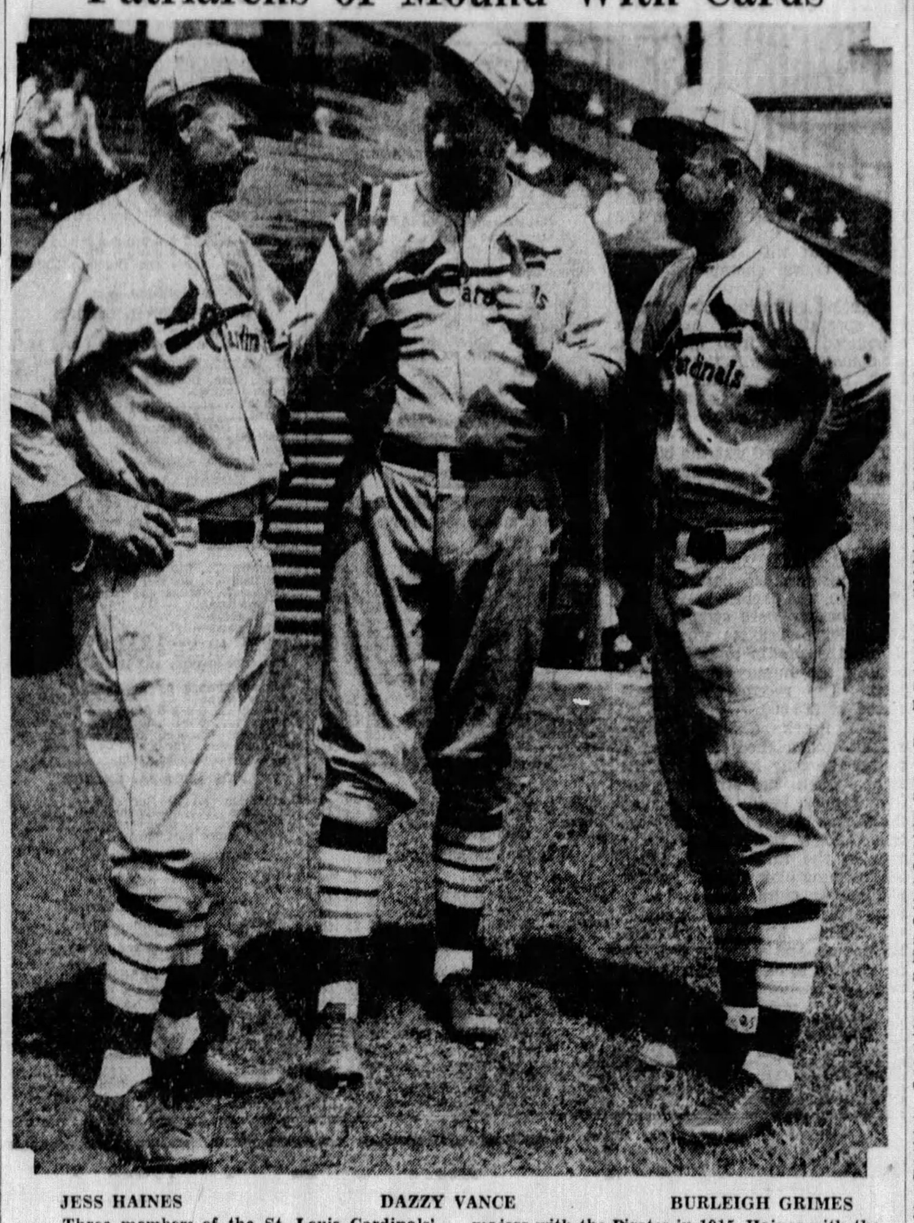
Patriarchs of Mound With Cards



JESS HAINES — DAZZY VANCE — BURLEIGH GRIMES

Three members of the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff, who aggregate approximately 60 years of first-string hurling in the major leagues. Strange as it may seem, all three were born in 1893. Vance on March 4, Haines on July 22 and Grimes on August 18. Vance broke into the majors with the Pirates in 1915, Haines with the Tigers in 1915 and Grimes with the Tigers in 1913. Exclusive of this season, this trio pitched 9,405 innings, scored 631 victories and suffered 464 defeats. Grimes recently joined the Cards. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

GOLF CHAMPION ADVANCES

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Robert Lee Miller, of Jacksonville, Fla., defending champion, and seven Pacific Coast contenders splashed their way to the quarter-finals of the national public links championship over rain-soaked fairways here yesterday.

Five Californians and two Washington boys, Bud Ward, of Olympia, and Leslie Leal, of Bellingham, shared with Miller the honor of first and second round victories.

Henry Batista, of Altadena, Cal.; Charles Ferrer, of San Francisco and three Los Angeles stars, Don Erickson, Staley Seymour and Bruce McCormack, had little regard for favorites as they turned in victories.

When the quarter final survivors were checked over, it was discovered three of the four boys who won the Wrren G. Harding inter-city team trophy for Los Angeles in the qualifying play, were among the select eight.

Long's Sport Comment

what we did for Tommy Thevenow and Lester Bell, of the old Cards. I know batting. I am going to stop the players from hitting at bad balls and correct some other faults. If I don't have the Browns up in the fight by 1935, I'll walk out of the ball park forever."

RUSS VAN ATTA has pitched three of the Yankees' five victories over the Senators, and his effectiveness against that club recalls to the Yanks the way Henry Johnson, then just a kid, used to help them in 1928 by beating the A's.

Johnson had a hard time defeating anybody else, but the Mackmen, foremost rivals of the Yanks that year, were duck soup for him. He beat them five times in six tries and at one stage handed them three lickings within the brief span of 11 days, two of the three victories being scored over Lefty Grove.

PROBABLY THERE WILL be no harder task in football this year than trying for the left tackle post at Notre Dame, where the regular happens to be such a pretty fair player as big Ed Krause. But a Western Pennsylvania boy, Kenneth Stilley, of Clairton, at least has the distinction of having been chosen as a candidate for substitute duty at the position in his sophomore year. Stilley was one of the 68 players selected from the 250 who took part in spring practice and instructed to report for regular practice with the first squad on September 15. The rival candidates to understudy Krause are Dick Pfefferle, a letter man, and Carl Esser and Carl DeVry, sophomores. Others from the Tri-State region on the Notre Dame select list summoned for fall practice are Al Costello, of Akron, O., on the "B" team in 1932, who will compete with Elmer Layden's brother, Mike, a sophomore, as a candidate for right halfback; Reyman Bonar, of Bellaire, O., of last season's "B" eleven, and Walter Fromhart, of Moundsville, W. Va., a sophomore, both quarterbacks.

MANAGER HYMIE CAPLIN may be only spoofing in his offer to wager $10,000 on Ben Jeby to retain the middleweight fistic crown against Lou Brouillard next Wednesday night, but Jeby himself declares he never was more confident of winning a fight, regardless of Brouillard's punching power and fast attack.

"Brouillard himself will have to get over some good ones first," says Jeby. "I think my style will bother him, and as for his reported ability in close, why, I believe that's the very place I'll have an edge. I've done my best work in close, and if infighting is going to decide this bout, it's a pushover."

FOLLOWING THE FAILURE of America's male tennis representatives in the Davis Cup competition, the women players of this country are particularly eager to triumph in the Wightman Cup matches against Great Britain, starting today and concluding tomorrow at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Helen Wills Moody

This trophy, put up by Mrs. George W. Wightman, of Philadelphia, in 1923, is emblematic of the women's world team championship. The competition is open to the world, but so far the United States and Great Britain have monopolized possession of the cup.

IN TEN YEARS of competition, the United States has won the trophy six times against four times for Great Britain. In the last four years, Great Britain won only in 1930. The complete score for 10 years shows the American women to have won 39 matches and 761 games against 31 matches and 698 games for their rivals. The United States would have had a big advantage to start with had Mrs. Helen Wills Moody been able to play. The Queen of the Courts has been forced out of the singles competition with a back injury. Mrs. Moody played in all the tournaments save that of 1926, and except for two defeats at the hands of Mrs. B. C. Covell and Kathleen McKane in 1924, she won all of the singles matches in which she participated, losing only one set out of 33 in 16 contests. The one set lost was dropped to Kathleen McKane in 1925.

Sortet and Kesler To Join Rooneys

Art Rooney today added two more football players of high quality to his Pittsburgh National Football League club in Wilbur Sortet, of Huntington, W. Va., who played left end for West Virginia University for four years, and Edward Kesler, of Salisbury, N. C., who was a star back for four years at Catawba College, Salisbury.

LOCALS AT CLEVELAND

Boxers from the Linwood Club, Pittsburgh Lyceum and other local clubs will take part in an inter-city show to be held on the roof garden of the Cleveland Athletic Club tonight. Al Quaill, state middleweight champion, will represent the city in his class.

FANS STONE WRESTLER

PUBLIC PARKS NETTERS IN SEMI-FINALS

BULLETIN.

Milton King advanced to the semi-finals of the public parks tennis tournament today when he defeated Joe Tucker, 6-1, 6-2.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Man-to-man semi-final competition graces today's bill of hostilities in the fourth renewal of the Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships on the Frick Park lot, Forbes and Braddock avenues.

The women's singles windup, wherein Mrs. Jean Artzberger, victor in 1930-31-32, takes on Mrs. Helene Kauffeld, runner-up of a year ago, will be held over until tomorrow.

A terrific downpour just prior to the dinner hour yesterday abbreviated the Parks card. Feminine play had been completed, and so had the upper bracket of the masculine program.

The King-Tucker affair was rescheduled for today with Gordon and Meyer finishing their encounter at about the same time, and the respective survivors clashing in the semi-finals as S. A. McCorkle, North Side driver and fourth seeded contender, meets George Sobel, Rankin chopster, who yesterday spilled the dope right handsomely by eliminating Gene Solow, Pitt varsity luminary and second of the chosen group, in a long and cautiously fought struggle, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1. McCorkle attained the four bracket at expense of Harry Milton, Duke freshman and fifth seeded entrant, 6-4, 6-3, hard hitting turning the trick against the loser's defensive style.

Mrs. Artzberger came through in love sets against Margaret Esser, West Park hope, and Mrs. Kauffeld out-drove Letitia Schmidt, 1930 finalist, 6-1, 6-1.

Eight Western Pennsylvania youngsters are primed to leave tomorrow to represent this district in the National junior and boys' championships, beginning Monday on the clay courts of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Indiana.

JOE M'CLUSKEY MEETS DEFEAT

HANOVER, Germany, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Max Syring, German distance ace, conquered Joe McCluskey, of New York, in a great 3,000-meter run before a crowd of 7,000 in Hindenburg Stadium yesterday, but America's touring track and field athletes won seven of the nine events in which they participated.

A great finishing sprint enabled Syring to win the race in 8:36.2, with McCluskey 25 meters back in second place. McCluskey, barely beating out another German, Holthuis, was clocked in 8:43.

America's only other setback came in the shotput, where Hans Sievert defeated John Anderson, of New York, and Henri Laborde, of Stanford, with a toss of 51 feet 1 7-16 inches. Laborde came back to win the discus, however, at 156 feet 8 inches, with Anderson, the Olympic champion, second, and Sievert third.

WOMEN STARS IN PLAY AT FIELD CLUB

By TOM BIRKS

A strong field of feminine stars is playing over the links of the Pittsburgh Field Club today in another one-day tourney under the sponsorship of the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association.

Breaking 90 will be the objective of the lower handicap players in the field. The heavy storm yesterday will not help the scoring one bit. It will aid pitch shots to the green, but the ladies need that roll from the tee shots which will not be available.

Barbara Warmcastle and Mary Kuhn, the two Field Club stars, are co-favorites to win but Betty Abernathy, who has flashed wonderful form all season, Mrs. L. G. Riley and Mrs. Frank Campbell usually can score well over the layout.

The tri-state's four representatives, Ted Luther, Paul Erath, Vincent Eldred, and Perry Del Vecchio, who led the qualifying test in the P. G. A. tourney last week at the Pittsburgh Field Club, will leave this evening for Milwaukee to get ready for the championship play scheduled to start Tuesday.

This quartet forms possibly the best representation this district ever has had in the P. G. A. event, and there is every reason to feel that all of them should qualify.

Ernest Jacobs, greenskeeper at Castle Shannon, set a new record for the course yesterday when he carded a 32-34—66, shattering his own previous record of 67.

The Oakmont $500 tournament will be open to pros in Allegheny and Westmoreland counties only, according to an announcement made last night.

grounder. The Cards added two more in the sixth. Vaughan made a misplay in this frame. The Waner boys clicked with a single and a double in the third to give the Bucs their lone run.

The Pirates will leave tonight for Chicago where they will play tomorrow and Sunday. The Cubs and Bucs will stage a three-game series here beginning next Thursday.

YANKS BLANKED FIRST TIME IN TWO YEARS

CHAMPS' STRING SNAPPED AFTER 308 GAMES

Associated Press.

Yesterday Grove shut out the New York Yankees, 7-0, accomplishing a feat that had eluded every other American League hurler for two full years and breakin a record string of 308 consecutive games in which the world's champions had scored a run or more.

GROVE FANS BABE

The brilliant southpaw received considerable aid from Ben Chapman of the Yanks, who committed a gaudy error in the third and handed the A's two runs, and from Jimmy Foxx who clouted his thirtieth homer with two on, but it was his own ability to bear down in the pinches that decided the issue. He gave only five hits and twice retired Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig with runners on the sacks, fanning the Babe each time.

The defeat put the Yanks three games behind in their race with Washington for the American League lead as the Senators beat the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 4, clouting five pitchers for 14 hits.

The Athletics, in third place, still failed to shake off the fourth place Cleveland Indians, only a game behind them, who scored four runs in the ninth to beat the St. Louis Browns, 7-2. The Detroit-Chicago struggle for fifth place was put over until today because of rain.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, third and fourth, respectively, in the National League, both gained on the pace-setting New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates.

GRIMM'S HIT WINS

Charley Grimm, Chicago manager, hit his first homer of the season in the eighth inning of a mound duel between Guy Bush and Paul Derringer to give the Cubs a 2-to-1 victory over Cincinnati. The Reds took another severe blow when George Grantham, star infielder, fractured an ankle sliding into third in the seventh.

The Boston Braves beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 0, as Tom Zachary allowed only two singles and didn't let a Brooklyn runner get past second.

Hildebrand Ready To Rejoin Team

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—The pipe of peace has passed between young Oral Hildebrand, pitching ace of the Indians, and Walter Johnson, the Tribe's manager, three days after Hildy had been fined $100 and suspended for a display of temperament.

Peace moves were rapid yesterday after Hildebrand arrived in Cleveland to see General Manager Billy Evans and tell his side of the story.

TYPO ATHLETES OFF TONIGHT FOR DETROIT

The Pitsburgh Typos, entered in the silver jubilee baseball and golf tournaments of the International Typographical Union, scheduled to get under way in Detroit tomorrow, will leave tonight for the Michigan city.

The baseball squad of the local union making the trip includes Eli Seddon, manager; William Gould, E. Breidel, A. Rock, E. Winghart, William Rodgers, J. Nelligan, Danny Gall, H. Brazel, H. Gildiver, H. Sell, A. Adams and Norman Seddon.

Included in the locals' golf lineup will be George Brenner, president of the Typos' Golf Association; William Clark, Ray Paquet, Albert Donges and Walter Fallhauber.

George E. Bradley, treasurer, and William F. McCann, baseball commissioner, will accompany the local athletes.

Among the cities entered in the tournament for the Garry Herrmann baseball trophy, won last year by Washington, are Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Boston, Washington, Baltimore, Twin Cities and St. Louis.

The first baseball eliminations get under way Sunday afternoon. The tournament comes to a close on Friday.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—I will say this for our Washington ball club. We put those Yankees back in short pants. The front part of the season the Yanks saw the experts predicted they would make it a runaway race, and they got to believing all they read in the papers. They were as mechanical as electric rabbits, playing their games and punching out wins. But since our Washingtons up and threatened to snatch the pennant, the Yanks have made a quick switch. Now they're gabbling on the diamond like a flock of turkeys, they're fighting for every quarter of an inch advantage, and they are young and pepful like little juveniles who have cereal for breakfast.

I wouldn't even be surprised to see the Yankees flying kites pretty soon.

Nixon to Referee Local Polo Battle

Tomorrow's intersectional polo match between the Iroquois Club, of Lexington, Ky., and the Pittsburgh Polo Club will be refereed by a famous Mid-West poloist, George F. Nixon, who will arrive here by plane early tomorrow morning. Announcement of the choice of referee was made last night by David I. McCahill, of the local club.

The match will get under way at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon on the field at Fox Chapel.

IRISH AMATEUR BOXERS LOSE IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The real fighting Irish took it on the chin in their international amateur battles with the American Golden Glove champions last night.

Fighting before a crowd of 50,000 spectators, the Americans conquered their Irish opponents six bouts to two, with the first two Irish boxers, competing in the flyweight and bantam weight classes, winning the only bouts for the invaders.

The huge crowd was the biggest that has attended a boxing show, either professional or amateur, in America in the last two years. The bowl built in Soldier Field, on the same spot where Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney fought their memorable battle seven years ago, was packed.

The battles were sponsored by the Chicago Tribune which will devote the profits to a fund for feeding the hungry school children. The receipts were estimated at $60,000.

John Pacek, Chicago heavyweight, outweighed 23 pounds, scored the only knockout of the night, when he stretched the Irish copper, Paddy Mulligan, on the canvas with a left hook to the body and a right cross to the chin in the first round. When the finishing blow crashed against Mulligan's chin, he fell so awkwardly that he fractured his left ankle. Mulligan, weighing 203 pounds and standing 6 feet 4 inches, had to be carried from the ring.

COUNTY LEAGUE

Rublat Scott Club.

Dormont has a chance to throw a monkey wrench into the Whitaker machinery this evening, when the clubs meet in a City League test at Dormont.

This will be about the last opportunity to stop Whitaker, for should Squire Ackerman's club cop this game, the second half race in the City League will be about over. Beating Dormont at the High School field is a tough assignment, however.

In the same loop, Books travel to Cochrane. The Olympia Park team must win this game to stay in the race.

The Homestead Grays, back from an astern invasion, are to meet the Jimmy Smith nine at Magee Field this evening. Tomorrow they play at Bradford, Pa.

Schaldach Named West's Quarterback

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Hank Schldach, of the University of California, will be quarterback on Coach Howard Jones' Western eleven that plays Dick Hanley's Estern stars in the Century of Progress football game at Chicago, August 24.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

Mr. President:

46,396 employees of the Standard Oil Co. of Pennsylvania and associated companies know that "Work-Sharing" is not an experiment but a proved success

Hence, we unhesitatingly subscribe to the N. I. R. A. Code

The 46,396 employees of the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania and associated companies are 100% behind the National Recovery Administration because all of us have experienced the beneficial results of a company labor policy which was based upon the principle of "work-sharing."

Three years ago our company inaugurated a new labor policy including the maximum hour week, minimum wage scales, and collective bargaining as basic features. This policy is substantially along the lines now recommended by General Johnson.

This program went into effect progressively and after careful study. By July 1st, 1932 everybody in our organization was working under this plan. Our force was kept at its maximum. Thousands remained at work who otherwise must have been let out, and large numbers were employed from outside the organization who at the time were out of jobs.

We work 5 days a week—40 hours per week, or less.

We work at the same wage rates that we received in 1929. And the company's wage policy provides that we receive at least the prevailing rate of pay for similar work in the community.

For many years we have settled all our questions of mutual interest through collective bargaining.

All of us, employees and management, have of course adjusted ourselves to present conditions, as the whole country must. But we are sure from our own experience that your way, Mr. President—the "work-sharing" way—is the right way.

With us it is not an experiment but a proved success. We know it will be equally successful in its nation-wide application.

The short week has not caused us to relax our efforts to improve our products. In our plants—which form the largest refining operation in the world—motor fuel has been modernized by the development of Essolene, and motor oil by the introduction of Essolube. This is in accordance with our 63-year-old policy of progressive leadership.

LOCAL MARKET CONTINUES TRADING

The sudden closing of the New York Stock Exchange shortly after noon today failed to stimulate trading to any extent on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, in fact, a very dull forenoon session was followed by an even duller market this afternoon. The local exchange remained open for the regular hours. Shrinkage of trading, noted earlier this week, was again in evidence during the early hours, and prices were inclined to irregularity. Recently active leaders in the fuel and industrial groups were handled in small volume at prices showing only minor changes from the previous quotations.

Lone Star Gas was down slightly as was Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt. A small sale of Pittsburgh Brewing preferred was recorded at a full point under yesterday's close. Other brewings were dull. Blaw Knox was firm but very quiet.

SPECIAL SALES SPUR TRADE

Unusually high temperatures have restricted trade in this district to some extent at both wholesale and retail, although retail sales are being stimulated by special offers, and a fair volume of business is being transacted by the larger stores, says Dun & Bradstreet's review. Wholesalers of dry goods, men's and women's wearing apparel and shoes have had a fairly good business, considering conditions, and look for an improved fall business. Conditions in some of the mining districts are not very favorable, owing to strikes and the number of unemployed in certain districts has been growing from day to day. In farming sections shortage of rain is having an unfavorable effect on crops of grains and vegetables, and there appears to be some shortage in a number of lines.

Industrial operations have not changed greatly although steel operations have dropped to about 55 per cent of capacity, and other lines are also at some lower rates. There has been but little change in the rate of operations of plants manufacturing plate and window glass and the output of safety glass for automobiles has continued at about the same level as in recent weeks. The demand for beer bottles is not quite so heavy, but is being fairly well maintained.

CAPITAL NEWS HITS COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(AP.)—Cotton futures opened easy, 9-16 lower under liquidation; favorable crop news and less inflationary advices from Washington. October, 10.40; December, 10.52; January, 10.60; March, 10.75; May, 10.91.

Trading was moderately active at the start, with prices easing off to 10.48 for December right after the call, or 16 or 17 points net lower under liquidation and scattered selling which seemed to be coming partly for the South.

There was also selling through houses with Wall street and western connections, but offerings were absorbed by a moderate trade or commission house demand at the decline.

The decline extended to 10.46 for December later in the morning, making net losses of about 17 to 18 points on the active months. General business remained fairly steady at slight rallies on covering with some trade and commission house buying.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—Cotton, 10,000 bales, including 5,100 American. Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Raw sugar was quiet again early today and, as no sales were reported, prices were unchanged at 3.45 for spots. Sugar futures opened at advances of 2 to 3 points on scattered covering and a little local and trade buying, which may have been promoted by uncertainty over labor conditions in Cuba, where a general strike is reported to be threatened.

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.70 for fine granulated, and while a fair withdrawal demand was reported, net business was light and offerings of second hands were said to be increasing at from 10 to 15 points below refiners' quotations.

READY DISPOSAL OF U. S. PAPER GRATIFYING

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The announcement that the new issue of 3¼ per cent government securities was over-subscribed, while expected, is "gratifying."

Conditions are not like they were back in 1931 when Mr. Mellon brought out his ill-fated 3 per cent issue, which went slowly and at a discount. Then England went off gold and our banks were hard pressed by a wave of liquidation.

Now the banks have done a great deal of liquidating, no such blow as England's necessary suspension of the gold standard is in sight.

DOUBT WAS FELT

Yet even so, there had been considerable doubt and caution concerning the proposal to issue long-term bonds. For about three years, the government has felt compelled to do all its borrowing on short-term paper variously called notes, bills and certificates. Its credit has not been strong enough to enable it to borrow for periods even as long as eight or 10 years. People have had too much fear as to what the dollar might be worth within a few years.

The apparently successful flotation of a loan running for eight years, even though relatively small in amount, is therefore encouraging. It suggests that perhaps we can now begin to cut down the threatening part of our debt which consists of short-term paper.

REPLACEMENT DEMAND

It is well to consider the reasons which made this new step possible just now.

First, there was sizeable replacement demand for government paper on the part of banks, insurance companies and wealthy individuals.

For example, $451,000,000 of Treasury certificates will expire in 40 days, and these are convertible into the new issue. Since they pay only 1¼ per cent on par, and at current prices yield less than nothing to maturity, the holders are glad to make the shift.

Second, we know that the government, through the reserve system, will support the market for its own bonds. There is thus little if any chance of much decline in the prices for a good while yet.

As I understand it, these bonds are tax exempt. This has been a big factor in government bond buying. Uncle Sam, by issuring tax-exempt paper, allows large investors to escape taxes. This cuts down his revenues, and is really a part of the price he has to pay for his money.

NEWS WAS HELP

At about the time the new issue was brought out, dispatches from Washington announced currency inflation might be avoided. There were even some suggestions that the devaluation of the dollar may not be as great as feared. This undoubtedly helped. Few people want to pay $1,000 for $500 at the end of eight years.

Talk of some improvement in the current financial position of the Treasury also helped.

But the current low money rates and the recent discontinuance of interest payments on demand deposits in banks, were more important.

The bonds pay 3¼ per cent. This is almost as much as savings banks pay. Temporarily, at least, it is attractive to institutions and individuals with large idle funds.

In fact, 3¼ per cent for United States government bonds, which run only eight years, and are issued in the amount of only half a billion, is pretty high, with the money markets as low as at present.

But the issue shows that there is plenty of money for Uncle Sam if he will only balance his budget, keep his debts down, and sincerely promise to pay in honest dollars.

Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood

By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XX.

At his door he selected the key from one of several on a small silver ring. It was the usual procedure for the Filipino to hear the turning of the lock and be at the door to take Cavanaugh's hat and coat immediately. Tonight, however, the boy was not there.

Cavanaugh put up his own things without attaching any great importance to it. He wondered idly what had become of the boy. Perhaps he had fallen asleep in a kitchen chair and would appear in a moment smiling and apologetic.

Then, suddenly, Cavanaugh stopped dead still in his tracks. His nostrils widened slightly and he breathed in a flower-smelling trace of perfume. His face darkened as he moved with a quick step into his wide living room with its high walls and beamed ceiling.

The woman who had been sitting in a tapestry chair sprang up and stood directly in front of him.

"I thought maybe you'd come home—sooner or later," she said with a half smile, and menace in her voice.

Cavanaugh's eyes hardened.

Through half closed lids he studied this darkly handsome woman with the scarlet mouth and sullen eyes. Her hair was black and lusterless like wrought iron and drawn back smoothly from the Latin creaminess of her cheeks.

"How did you get in here?"

"Quite easily. Your Filipino let me in. I told him I was expected and that he could come back tomorrow."

WOMAN INDIGNANT

It was not going to be easy, Cavanaugh began to realize, to deal with Annette.

He had tried everything—kindliness, humor and neglect. It was not a question of money because she had plenty of that, or love either. She had lovers and husbands scattered from Rio de Janeiro to Montreal.

"Exactly what is it you want?" he demanded.

"You!"

There was little he could say without feeling like an idiot. He had met her at the president's ball in Mexico City and she was, in a technical sense, a lady.

"I'm afraid I've gone out of circulation." Said Cavanaugh. "You flatter me, Annette, but—" He stopped speaking with a shrug.

Her face was beginning to flush. "Do you know what you have done to me?" she cried, but he cut her short.

"Don't be silly! I haven't done anything to you."

"You have set my whole life on fire!" she threw at him, her voice rising. "Am I a plaything to be cast aside for another woman? This movie star you're running after like a—like a—"

"Cut that out!" commanded Cavanaugh.

GETS LOUDER

The color had left Annette's face and she was beginning to be livid.

"So! I am not allowed even to mention her!" she cried, louder than before. "This woman who comes between us! You stand there brazenly and tell me to my face that I have no rights! Because she is a movie star she is better than I am! She's been in your arms tonight! Don't deny it. You don't dare deny it!"

"If you realize what a fool you're making of yourself, you'd quiet down," he said. You're a vain, jealous woman and, if I may add, a very noisy one. You'll probably have a new romance next week and forget that I ever existed."

Annette lowered her voice and spoke through her teeth. She called him an epithet in Spanish that made his face blanch.

Poletzki shifted his position on the fire escape and tried to get Cavanaugh in a straight line with the muzzle of his automatic. The trouble was that the woman kept getting in the way.

WAITS PATIENTLY

Sometimes the figures were blurred. He could hear their voices in a babble of argument, but he was so concentrated upon his own purpose that he had no interest whatever in their words.

There was no hurry at all. Poletzki was quite content to wait. He was filled with the subtle joy of a hunter waiting for his prey to get into position.

Poletzki knew how to send a straight bullet. He knew he could not miss.

Annette had begun to gesticulate. Her face, contorted with passion, had lost all beauty. Her eyes glistened metallically. The scarlet mouth kept twisting. Human reasoning had toppled from its throne. That hell-fury of a woman scorned consumed all restraint.

Cavanaugh tried in vain to silence her. It was hopeless. He sat down and lit a cigaret.

"If you keep it up you'll make yourself deathly sick," he said helplessly.

Her voice, which had been almost a scream, dropped to a dry, cold level, as deadly vibrant as the flat sound of a rattler.

Despite his self-control, Cavanaugh's blood began to chill. The woman had lashed herself to the verge of insanity. Looking at her now it was incredible that he had ever found her colorful and charming, a careless sparkling companion as pleasant as burgundy wine. The very air around her seemed to palpitate with greenish radiations of hate.

"You fool!" she said poisonously to Cavanaugh. "What makes you think you can get away with this? I ought to kill you. I ought to take a gun and explode it a dozen times right in your face!"

Cavanaugh's voice was steel. "It would do you good to look at yourself in the mirror."

"So my face doesn't please you any more!" she threw at him. No—I don't look like a movie star. You dont' like my kind of beauty!"

She began to laugh with a derisive clattering in her throat.

"You give me a marvelous idea! I wonder if you would find this Leni Luneska so heavenly to look at—if somebody threw a bottle of vitriol in her face."

"You believe I'd do it! You begin to realize, eh? You can bet your last dollar I'd do it! What they will do with me afterwards doesn't matter. You think I'm a fiend! Well, perhaps I am."

In the whole of his experience Cavanaugh had never encountered anything like this. It was grotesque, abnormal—a revelation out of bedlam. The whole room was filled with hot quivering waves of hate. His brain began to do dizzy . . .

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky.

Now Go On

"I thought maybe you'd come home—sooner or later," said Annette.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Don't forget that Uncle Quinn Hall and Junior like to hear all the news about the patrols, and all the news about how any Junior Patrol member has been helping others.

Be sure to tell them how you liked the picnic, and write any suggestion you have for making it a bigger and better picnic next year.

Here's a letter today from Capt. Harold Kerr, of 718 Russellwood avenue, McKees Rocks. He says:

"We are having our meetings on Mrs. Roth's porch at Broadway. We have just finished a meeting and we elected a captain and a first, second and third lieutenant. We are gathering a football team and we are practicing on Wednesday. We meet Thursday at 8 p. m."

That's starting your football practice early, Harold, but if your members like to do it, that's fine. Pitt, Tech, Duquesne and many of the high schools will be starting to practice in a few weeks too.

There's one imporant thing to remember about practicing for a game. Be sure that you are practicing the RIGHT WAY to do it. Be sure you know how a man ought to be tackled before you start tackling.

If you do a thing wrong long enough it becomes a bad habit which it is difficult to break. But if you do it right all the time, even though you aren't very successful at first, you will continue to do it right because you have a good habit. When you are learning to play football or any other game that requires skill, fellows, you should have some one show you how who knows how. Or, if there is no one to coach you, you should read a good book explaining how it is done.

And by the way, fellows, how is your reading coming along? Write and tell us what books you like.

Long distance new members today are: Dorothy Chaffee, Welkersfield, Conn.; Patricia Haughney, 519 Myrtle street, Erie, Pa., and Catharine Tryon, North Third street, Steubenville, O.

Welcome to the Junior Patrol, all of you—and let's see you start a club in your neighborhood!

Now here's a letter from Lever Stewart, 9 years old, who lives in the Ruskin Apartments. We'll say he sounds like a regular fellow. Listen:

"I am 9 years old, am sick in bed and will be in bed for four months. My name is Lever Stewart. I would like to become a member of the Junior Patrol. I live in New Jersey, but like the Junior Patrol, which I read every night in the Sun-Telegraph. I have no gang, but when I get to my home in New Jersey, will try and get up one."

We're all hoping you get well real soon, Lever, and that we can send you a Captain's armband when you start your club back home down East.

And Theresa Arnold, of 704½ Russellwood avenue, McKees Rocks, writes:

"I am a member of the Junior Patrol. I read the club news and the comic strip every day in the Sun-Telegraph. I also listen to the Junior Patrol program. We may organize a Junior Patrol in our neighborhood.

"I take lessons for the piano, but my greatest ambition is to sing, and I would like very much to sing in the Junior Patrol program."

Guess you have noticed, Theresa, that there is a boy's Junior Patrol club not far away from where you live—a letter from its captain is in today's Mail Box. It would be swell if you could start one for the girls in your neighborhood.

Today, friends, it gives us great pleasure to present Dr. James J. "In a very few years," says Faraway, "ten hours will constitute the maximum labor week. Then it will drop to five hours, and all too soon we will reach the millennium, or zero-hour week, when the useful work of the world will be done entirely by red tape."

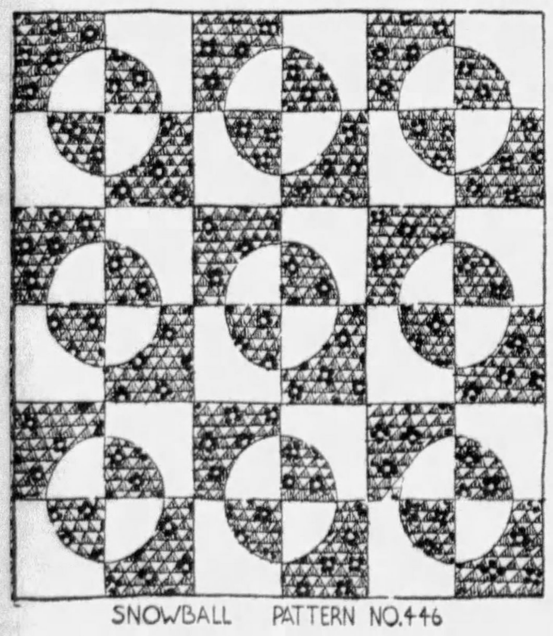
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



SNOWBALL PATTERN NO. 446

By LAURA WHEELER

The Snowball Quilt, Pattern No. 446, is one of those restful designs that is not only most simple to do, but results in a quaint quilt that is unusually attractive. The block is made of but two pattern pieces that are alternated in two materials, thus making this quilt especially practical pick-up work. It is very lovely made in white and a print in which there is a touch of white.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Curse of Gold

Europe is anxious to raid the U. S. Treasury for sentimental reasons. Just for old times sake.

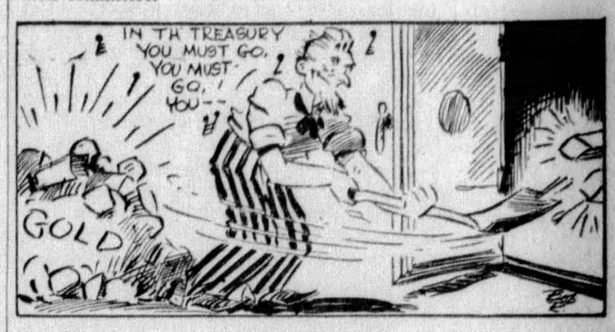
But we're keeping the yellow pebbles under lock and key. They won't grow. But they won't evaporate either.

We will have paper money, naturally. But only for wrappers.

The all-California filler will be neatly folded away in the gloomy dungeons on the Potomac. This will stimulate the per capita without infringing on the pro rata.

Gold is a terrific form of hardware. We never knew we had any until 1849. And we ain't got over the shock yet.

In the first flush of western enthusiasm we threw it away, stuffed it into pierced ears and even made it into handles for umbrellas. But in the last few seasons we have discovered that it is much better in a coal bin with seven mean bull dogs on the reception committee.



So, while the world is stabilizing the currency problem and taking the temperature of basic commodity prices, we are going to park the bullion in cold storage and let it cool off.

If you have something valuable that somebody wants it gets more valuable. It's the old certified prescription of supply and demand and is an amendment they will never repeal.

There's nobody who can shuffle the nuggets out of there. We're taking no chances of leading aces when treys will do the work. The Secret Service follows every official now to see where he goes during old home week. If he takes a boat we put another lock on the Treasury.

Foreign debts are payable only in paper. In a pinch, we might also furnish the string.

Along about 1934 some time we will loosen up a little on the gold. But everybody will have to wait. After all, think of how much foam comes out of a keg before you get a glass of beer.

This system may make us enemies. But they will be economical ones.

Crowded Hospitals

The Plan to 'Board Out' Mental Patients Is a Reminder Of the State's Negligence.

The Department of Welfare at Harrisburg is tentatively planning to "board out" some of the patients in the state's mental hospitals as a means of relieving the congestion in those institutions. A committee of hospital superintendents has been asked to co-operate in the formulation of arrangements for placing some of the less seriously afflicted sufferers from mental diseases in selected private homes. Some of them, it is suggested, would be able to assist in the household chores, and thus contribute to their own support.

The proposal brings to mind an investigation of Western Pennsylvania asylums that was conducted by the Sun-Telegraph four years ago. Some of the state institutions were found to be badly crowded, and with long waiting lists of patients for whom admission was sought. In the hospital at Warren, for example, beds were placed at night in a corridor, while in the school for feeble-minded children at Polk the amount of floor space allowed each child in the dormitories was far below the amount set as an irreducible minimum by the authorities on such matters.

Not long ago Dr. William C. Sandy, director of the bureau of mental health, called attention to the fact that in some counties mental patients, entirely innocent of any offense, were temporarily confined in jails, because there seemed to be no other place in which to keep them. He appealed to general hospitals to accept such cases.

Now comes the proposal to "board out" the excess patients in the asylums.

The scheme is said to have been tried with success in Scotland, at Gheel, Belgium, and at Nuremberg, Germany. But the people of Pennsylvania, we expect, will look askance at the plan, and the Legislature will be in no hurry to pass the enabling act.

Hard times or no hard times, the state cannot put off much longer the duty of providing adequate facilities for its mental sufferers without bringing disgrace upon itself.

When the building program is adopted, first consideration should be given to the proposed State Psychiatric Hospital for Pittsburgh. The University of Pittsburgh has donated a site on its campus, the architect's plans have been accepted, and welfare associations in all parts of the state have indorsed the project. This hospital is designed for the treatment of incipient cases of insanity. It will be a big help in solving this grave problem.

An 'Outgo' Tax

A General Manufacturers' Sales Levy Would Be a Sensible Substitute for the Income Tax.

Recent revelations before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency concerning the tax behavior of leading bankers showed that, if Congress in the income tax law intended to soak the rich, it missed its aim.

As a matter of objective fact, the present income tax law is far too easy with the idle rich, and falls with unbearable weight on the intellectual leaders of the country, the great salaried and professional classes.

The elimination of the earned income exemption has the intolerable effect of discriminating against men in favor of machines.

The corporation may make reductions from taxable income for depreciation and obsolescence of plant and equipment.

But when the individual reports concerning his financial results for the year, he is forced to make the ridiculous assumption that his earning power will be uninterrupted by old age and changing fashions in the demand for human services.

The idle rich can dodge federal taxation by placing their hoard of wealth in tax-exempt securities.

Testimony before the Senate committee shows how rich financiers escape all contribution to the government in lean years through offsetting reportable income by registering capital losses.

William Duggan, collector of internal revenue, Second District, New York, emphasizing the inequities of the income tax law, points out that the law falls heavily on the socially useful businessman who gives employment, yet exempts the anti-social one who liquidates and lives on his accumulated cash.

"Our 'Hero,'" the collector points out, "lives the rest of his life on the cash in his safe. The men who have lost jobs with him get occasional employment and out of their reduced income pay taxes to give the retired industrialist all the benefits of government. But, since he has no income and holds no taxable securities, he pays no income tax."

Mr. Duggan proposes an "outgo" tax to catch such an evader.

The general manufacturers' sales tax, which has succeeded so admirably in Canada and elsewhere, is an "outgo" tax.

It is self-enforcing.

It gives no special privileges to those who employ expensive counsel and accountants.

Its enforcement is easy and inexpensive for the government.

In Canada, where the rate is 6 per cent, it is known as the painless tax.

When Congress next meets, it ought to contribute further to economic recovery by substituting wise and scientific taxation for the existing hodge podge.

The substitution of a general manufacturers' sales tax for the excesses of the income tax, which penalizes efficiency, would hearten employers everywhere.

It would improve the federal credit, and quicken the flow of trade.

'Old Maids'

A Deserved Tribute.

Old maids received a long-overdue tribute the other day at a convention of business women in Chicago. Judge Florence E. Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, expressed the debt of gratitude that the country owes to them in these words:

"When married women were being turned out of jobs because they were married, and when fathers and breadwinners lost their employment and had nowhere to turn, it was the salary of the 'old maid' in thousands of homes that kept them going, and kept the necessities of life provided for them all.

"I do not know of any unmarried woman earning a salary who did not contribute her share to keep boys and girls in college in this crisis, to ease the burdens of older people, and to keep the relief funds operating."

That has been the general experience, we think.

Certainly no class of our people has been more unselfish during these lean years than the unmarried women of middle age who have managed to hold on to their little jobs and, by "scrimping" themselves, to help friends and relatives.

The amounts they could give were often pitifully small, but if the sacrifices that made them possible were reckoned in they would be greater than all the wealth of John D. Rockefeller or Croesus.

Doomsday!

(Copyright, 1933.)

When the people of the United States make up their minds that racketeering MUST go, it WILL go.

And it looks as if the people have made that decision.

United States Senators are investigating racketeering, in order to check its growth and improve the enforcement of the laws.

The United States Attorney General has selected a special assistant to prosecute offenders, and intends to demand new legislation as he finds it needed.

Meantime, numerous national organizations have joined in the fight for law and order. These organizations represent millions of good citizens, hundreds of them leaders in their occupations and their communities.

With an awakened citizenship and alert public officials the evils of racketeering and organized crime cannot continue.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Husband-Hunting in the West

Once upon a time, all a girl had to do, in order to get a perfectly good husband, was to "go west." Sweet Age of Innocence! When the buffalo and the Indian were still wild—but eligible men were still tame and plentiful!

That was the day of the "marrying man"—long before the appearance of the automobile, night-clubs, bachelor apartments, alimony-diggers, the golf craze or gigolos. * * *

In those simple, carefree times, every western plain and township abounded with impressionable males. And ANY woman, whose eyes weren't crossed, could rope in a husband with one hand while patting her back-hair with the other—and never miss the sunset either.

Believe it or not, MARRYING was as easy as rolling off a horse. And the girl who "went west" always brought back a lot of trophies, scalps, skins, Indian arrows and a perfectly good marriage certificate.

Once she had her man roped and tied—branding him, taming him and harnessing him for domestic purposes was just spreading the icing on the cake. The trick was DONE!

But, alas, those halcyon days are gone! The Indians, the buffalo and the marriageable men have retreated to their "reservations" and become lazy, cautious, timid and self-contented.

Nothing but a fire can lure them into the dangerous open. And it is as hard to induce a free man to sign a wedding certificate as it is to get an Indian to sign away any more of his land.

The only good husband-hunting in the West appears to be located in the wilds of Nevada or Dakota, where the men go for freedom—and come back tied with a brand new rope.

Somehow, we've noticed that a woman never goes to Reno, without coming back with more than she took with her. The shortest distance between two points appears to be that between the courtroom and the altar.

* * *

You'd fancy a man (or a woman) who was so desperately wild to be FREE, as to travel thousands of miles for a divorce would want to remain that way, until the ink dried on the decree. But, apparently, no. They all simply reverse Kipling.

They rush for the West, one by one—and return "by two and two!" * * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Thoughts while strolling: If you don't think grass is growing in city streets, peep at the final block of East End avenue. Overheard: "All I need is a little front money!" Charles Winninger and Tom Brander bear a resemblance. Anyway Kreuger didn't "trim" the leaves of his penthouse trees.

Bernard Sobel, a Lafayette, Ind., boy, who made good in the city. Never hear a New York drug clerk called "Doc." Strange—a Japanese ambulance doctor. One of my favorite people—Clarence Budington Kelland. "Sneeze," the ebony pianist who has been doing the late parties for 30 years. And still looks a boy.

George M. Cohan, Bert Lytell and Steve Reardon on way for the daily walk around the reservoir. They've been doing it for years. Those big checkered coats "Sport" Ward wears. Whenever Dick Hyland joins a group everybody begins talking football. Mary Brown Warburton's red shirtwaists.

One word description of Valentine Williams—gloomy. Ghastly tale at one of the clubs. As a gag they decided to tell a well-liked handy man, one by one, he was looking badly. He went into decline and in three weeks passed away. Few can use such brisk phrases on the stage as William Frawley.

Few have the quick flow of steady come-back like Irvin Cobb. Last evening in an auto traffic stop a panhandler approached. From the back seat I called:

"He has better clothes than you!" Flashed Cobb: "He has a better trade." Today I read: "The sole difference between ruts and the grave lies in their depths."

The marajuana cigaret, so popular in Harlem and often indulged by slummers from downtown, is a type of dope from the West Indies. It sells for 25 cents a piece in the Black Belt and is called a "reefer." Many songs of the cabarets depict dreams of the reefer smoker. The effect in some ways is like hasheesh, speeding up the mental vision and exhilirating the smoker to talk and song. There are said to be 5,000 addicts in Harlem environs. Reefers are bottlegged from the hip like cheap gin on the Bowery.

An enormously successful star role in the theater is frequently a handicap. The public forever after remembers a star only in that particular part and no matter how good he or she may be in some other play the comparison is a stumbler. This is particularly true of William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes;" Leo Deitrichstein in "The Concert," Leon Errol in "Sally;" Olga Nethersole in "Sappho;" Helen Menken in "Seventh Heaven;" Hal Skelly in "Burlesque;" Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste;" Jeanne Eagles in "Rain;" Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady," and Erin O'Brien Moore in "Street Scene."

Joseph Jefferson was never able to get away from "Rip Van Winkle," or Denman Thompson from "Shore Acres." Year after year they had to appear in these plays and every effort to abandon them resulted in frustration. Jefferson got so he fairly loathed the role, so much so many believe it shortened his life.

Neysa McMein was recently introduced to a Mr. Gosden who sat on her left at a dinner. She was vague about the particular art the gentleman represented among the numerous celebrities. She finally had to ask him just what was his profession. "I'm Amos," he said. And Miss McMein still looked perplexed. * * *

Many sandwich places, including Reuben's, most famous of all, had to take a bankruptcy purge during depression years. The stay-outs who came to sit until sunup did not remain away, but when they came idled over a single cup of coffee. And expenses went on. The most consistent and generous patron of sandwich parlors is George Jessel. He drops in at midnight and remains until dawn, consuming cauldrons of coffee and puffing fierce black cigars.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

SHOULD WE HAVE THE SAME LAWS FOR WOMEN WORKERS AS FOR MEN WORKERS?

Should women be allowed to work as long and as hard as men?

Should they be permitted to take any work they desire?

Or do women's bodies unfit them to work like men, at the same jobs?

Will that interference, in time, become a grave danger to the nation?

SHOULD WE, THEREFORE, HAVE LAWS PREVENTING WOMEN FROM WORKING AS LONG AND AS HARD AS MEN—OR AT CERTAIN JOBS?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt thinks we should, and she and the National Women's Party are having a hot set-to on the subject.

The National Women's Party believes in absolute, 100 per cent equality between men and women.

"These discriminatory labor laws," it protests, "aren't framed to help women. All this agitation over female health and the future-of-the-race is just a pretty pretence. The underlying motive of discriminatory laws is to restrain women, and free men from their competition. This is fundamentally unfair.

"A WOMAN HAS AS MUCH RIGHT TO WORK AS A MAN, AND AS MUCH RIGHT TO CHOOSE HER JOB.

"The proposed laws are only an opening wedge. If they are passed, it will soon be possible to bar women from labor entirely. Under present conditions, this would cause frightful suffering and general disaster—AS STATISTICS HAVE PROVEN THAT THE VAST MAJORITY OF WOMEN WORKERS ARE THE SOLE OR MAIN SUPPORT OF MANY DEPENDENTS.

"IT IS TRUE THAT LONG HOURS AND BAD WORKING CONDITIONS ARE INJURIOUS TO WOMEN, BUT THEY ARE EQUALLY INJURIOUS TO MEN. IF LABOR LAWS NEED REVISION, LET THAT REVISION APPLY TO ALL WORKERS—NOT MERELY AGAINST WOMEN."

That's the National Women's Party story, and they intend to stick to it. But Mrs. Roosevelt won't agree.

"Women," says she, are basically responsible for the future of the race. Physical differences between men and women cannot be ignored.

"Women workers, less well-organized than men have been thoroughly exploited. Such women are often forced to work for a pitiful wage to keep their families together."

So there you have two slants on the question. What's YOURS?

Do YOU think that "a woman has as much right to work, and choose her job, as a man?"

Do YOU think it is any harder for a woman to work 12 hours in a shirt factory or cannery than to spend the same time doing her own general housework—concerning which you never hear a yip from these so-chivalrous men?

In short, if you were making the labor laws, how would you frame this particular one? Presently you'll have to vote on this question. Let's have your straw vote now.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

In your church, your club, your other affiliations, do you feel that there are some cliques in which you are not welcomed?

Ever think you may be to blame if not included?

You have never indicated that you would like to be a member.

Perhaps you have been asked to perform certain little services, but have never been very enthusiastic and energetic in carrying out requirements.

You felt the work given you was of too little value to matter much.

And the way you performed the service showed that either you attached no importance to it, or that you were not interested sufficiently.

Consequently you should not wonder that you are not asked for further service.

You often remark that a certain few are chosen as officers, always.

But have you indicated by unbroken attendance and interest at meetings that you might be relied upon to do efficient service as an officer?

Many of those who are re-elected year after year would be willing to have others take their places provided it were indicated that they would give the necessary time and had the ability to carry on the work as required.

If you haven't done your part always then you have no kick coming that you are not included when it comes to choosing officers.

The Human Side of the News

How Peggy, a Dog, Saved the Lives of Many Bargemen—The Hartsdale Canine Cemetery—Pathetic Epitaphs

By EDWIN C. HILL

IN THE East River of New York, 26 low, broad-beamed barges lay at anchor, tied in one wide-spread company. They had come by ones and twos and threes from the Great Lakes, through the Erie Canal, with their coal and farm produce. They were homes as well as freight carriers, and 125 men, women and children were asleep in their tiny, neat cabins. The pull of the incoming tide parted one anchor chain, then another. The whole group of barges, at the mercy of the tide, went drifting up the river, toward the whirlpools and fanged rocks of Hell Gate.

The sense of motion—the instinct that danger threatened, snatched the bargemen from sleep. They ran to the decks shouting cries for help across the broad bosom of the river. Women's screams and the cries of terrified children echoed over the waters. The tide flowed in faster, stronger. Closer and closer the barges drew to the knife-like reefs of Hell Gate, to the wreck that would cost the lives of many of the helpless people on board.

Peggy Gives The Alarm

SUDDENLY, a little dog, off somewhere in the dark, barked wildly, incessantly, with high, frenzied notes. After a little while—though it seemed like an age to the people on the runaway barges—the bright finger of a searchlight went pointing over the black river. It rested upon and clung to the swiftly-drifting fleet. A siren shrieked. The beat of engines thudded through the quiet. And presently a fireboat and two tugboats drew alongside the barges, made fast, checked their drift and towed them to safety.

Peggy, mascot of the fireboat, George B. McClellan, had given the alarm which surely saved many lives . . . Such stories of intelligence and of devotion to human beings on the part of man's greatest friend come to mind when one visits that little cemetery in Hartsdale, Westchester County, New York, where "pieces of their masters' hearts," as one inscription reads, lie under the friendly maple foliage and the formal firs; where little graves of little friends are bright with pansies, violets and windflowers.

They call it "The Hartsdale Canine Cemetery," this hillside resting place of some 5,000 pets, to whom men, women and children gave their hearts. But it is not for dogs alone, for canaries, horses, parrots and monkeys are buried there, and in curious irony, cats sleep in death side by side with the dogs that chased them so enthusiastically in life.

All about, on the thousands of headstones and monuments, one reads inscriptions framed in the sadness of parting. And of all these inscriptions, the most arresting and moving is that which meets the eye from the tombstone of a dog whose name was Rags:

"Only a dog, but such love he gave
Cannot have perished in the grave.
So constant and faithful and true a heart
Must in eternity have some part.
And I sometimes fancy when I've crossed life's sea
I'll find him waiting to welcome me."

A Remarkable Tribute To a Dog

IRENE CASTLE McLAUGHLIN had these words carved on the stone which marks the grave of one of her departed dogs: "I do not cringe from death so much since you are gone, my truest friend" . . . A faded American flag floats above the grave of "Bluch, a veteran of the World War" . . . Nearby lies the best friend of Ethel Barrymore, and to this hillside have been carried the dogs of the Astors, the Goulds and the Vanderbilts to sleep in a common brotherhood with the dogs of the poor and the obscure.

Very many of the headstones are inset with photographs, protected from wind and weather by glass or porcelain. And there is not a day in the year that you will not find men and women standing silently there, lost in memories of some little creature that lies under the flowers and the grass.

It was a strange coincidence, I think, that after visiting this little God's Acre, which loyal love has created for pets, I read, in a new volume of poems, the most moving tribute to a dog's love that ever came under my eyes. It is in a volume of gleaming verse, sparkling with the spirit of the times, railing at the follies of the world and very understanding of the troubled human heart—a book of poems from the pen of Mr. Wilfred J. Funk. And with my thoughts still upon that hill-side in Hartsdale I read these lines:

"Father, in Thy starry tent
I kneel, a humble supplicant . .
A dog has died today on earth,
Of little worth,
Yet very dear.
Gather him in Thy arms
If only for awhile.
I fear
He will be lonely . . .
Shield him with Thy smile."

WHITE JADE

By Winifred Black

White jade. Have you ever seen any of it?

I have never been very fond of green jade, it is too exotic, for me. I never see it, without thinking of dim gardens, haunted by wierd idols, and walls with shining porcelain.

There's always a smell of musk in the air, for me, when I see green jade, musk or some strange subtle perfume that turns the bright world into something dusky and dim, and a little secret.

Hidden stairways, secret doors, traps in the floor, silent servitors with strange eyes—rich fabrics too heavily embroidered, pale faces, dusky hair like a cloud, and the metallic, sing song of instruments strung with steel—no, I don't really care for jade, not the green jade of the bazaars.

But white jade—ah! that is different.

It reminds me of a gentle ghost, sighing in a moonlit garden, and always when I see it I seem to hear the tinkle of temple bells, far away.

Someone gave me a pair of white jade earrings the other day, long earrings that touch the shoulder and they are carved with such delicacy that it is hard to believe they are real.

Ring within ring, they are, and in the center of all the fragile ring is a carved Buddha in all his silent dignity.

I never wear the white jade earrings unless I am going to see someone I know and love.

They belonged to a dear friend not so long ago—the white jade earrings, and she has gone away now and will never come back again to this gay, busy, interesting world she loved so much.

When her daughter gave me the white jade earrings, suddenly my old friend stood before. What a queen she was, and how she looked the queen.

Hair as white as the soft clouds in the summer sky, dark eyes, as full of fire as if she were just sixteen. What little hands she had, and little pointed feet, and how she loved everything that was beautiful and subtle, and rich and smooth—soft silks, gleaming satins, trailing velvets, and her house was a treasure of beauty.

She lived very often in the old city of Shanghai and always she brought home with her something fine and lovely from the palace of the old empress who ruled China with one nod of her delicate little head, not so very long ago.

My friend was a woman of courage and character and high intelligence, but what I am grateful to her for is, that she loved beauty and gave it to all who knew her, with a royal hand.

It was like stepping into an old tale from the Arabian Nights to dine with my friend of the white jade.

A carved table set with dishes of gleaming pewter—there was a game platter, I remember, with a duck's head for handles, and the eyes of the duck were jewels—and there was a salad bowl that, heaped high with gorgeous fruit, was a lovelier picture than half the paintings in the world.

Well, you left it all behind you, didn't you, old friend—the silver and the teakwood and the tourmaline and the rose quartz, and the inlay and the embroideries—I wonder if you would like to come back and look at them all again, or have you found some greater beauty where you are?

Ting-ting—that's the earrings—oh yes, I put them on when I began to think of my friend who is gone.
